SENATE PASSES DROUGHT BILL IT FOUGHT SO HARD

Expenditure Raised to $45,000,000.

700 Millions to Spend

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The Hoover administration plans a total expenditure of upwards of 700 million dollars for construction during the calendar year 1931, according to White House computations which include the 116 million dollar emergency building measure due to be enacted tomorrow. The figure compares with 253 millions in the fiscal year 1928, the last in which normal business conditions prevailed.

Under President Hoover's program, seven coördinated agencies of relief will operate to relieve general industrial unemployment as well as distress in the drought stricken farm areas. These relief sources are listed as follows:

Expanded federal building funds; increased construction program; accelerated river and harbor works; feed, seed and fertilizer loans to farmers; expansion of farm credits; reduction of 50 per cent in freight rates in farmers' interest; relief of personal distress by the Red Cross.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Legislative action on President Hoover's drought relief loan program was completed today with approval by both houses of the $45,000,000 compromise bill.

The 116 million dollar emergency construction bill struck a snag on relatively minor amendments. A partial conference report has been approved by both houses and controversies on three amendments are expected to be ironed out tomorrow.

Adjournment of congress tomorrow for a two week holiday recess is the plan of the leaders, provided action in the emergency construction bill is completed and several other matters are disposed of.

Before congress can quit for the holidays, the senate must pass the house bill appropriating an additional 116 millions for the farm board and the interior department appropriation bill and approve the conference report on the postoffice and treasury department appropriation bill.

Should Act on Nomination.

It also is desired that the senate confirm one more nominee for the federal power commission, besides two confirmed today, thus making a quorum and permitting the new commission to organize.

The senate will convene at 11 o'clock tomorrow, an hour early, with a view to cleaning up this program. Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] told the senate on adjournment tonight that it had a heavy program ahead of it and unless it worked fast and dispensed with unnecessary oratory, congress would be held in session a day or two next week.

The house has but little ahead of it tomorrow. It passed the agricultural department appropriation bill today and can adjourn as soon as it disposes of the controversies remaining on the emergency construction bill. It cannot act on this, however, until the senate does.

311 Millions in All.

Bills for unemployment, drought and agricultural relief totaling 311 millions should reach President Hoover tomorrow for his signature. These include the $45,000,000 drought loan bill, which will go to the White House as soon as it is signed by Speaker Longworth and Vice President Curtis, the 116 million dollar emergency construction bill and the 150 million dollar farm board bill.

The farm board bill, which was rushed through the house yesterday, came up in the senate today, but objection was made by Senator William R. Borah [Rep., Idaho] to immediate consideration and it went over until tomorrow. Senator Borah said he wanted more light on what the board proposes to do with the money. The 150 millions will bring its total appropriations up to 400 millions out of the 500 millions authorized by the original act. The remaining 100 millions is to be appropriated at the present session for the fiscal year 1931, the 150 millions being made available immediately.

Drought Bill Hazed in Senate.

The conference report on the drought loan bill was approved by the house early this afternoon without opposition or extended discussion. It

ROBBERS SHOOT ARCHITECT TO DEATH IN AUTO

Trapped in Line of Bandit's Bullet.

Driving his automobile between two machines, one containing two fleeing gunmen and the other manned by two policemen, Robert S. Wallace, 41 years old, 2404 Ashland avenue, Evanston, president of a Chicago architectural firm, was shot to death last night by a bullet fired in a gun battle between the fugitives and the pursuers.

The slaying, blamed by police on the outlaws, occurred at Western and Ardmore avenues.

Tries to Avoid Crash.

Wallace died as an innocent victim of the crime war because of his efforts to avoid a less serious consequence—a collision with the outlaw automobile. He avoided the crash, but an instant later a bullet crashed through his windshield, striking him in the head. The gunmen, who had just committed three robberies, managed to escape.

A few minutes before 7 o'clock the two robbers trapped Herman Huster, a salesman, in the rear of his home at 2035 Estes avenue, Rogers Park, and took $15, a wrist watch, his overcoat, and his automobile, a tan colored cabriolet. Five minutes later they held up Neal F. Cronin in the rear of his home at 2615 Farwell avenue, getting $12. Their next stop was in back of 6531 North Washtenaw avenue, where they robbed Gustave Betts of $15.

Alarm Is Broadcast.

In succession reports of the crimes were flashed to the Rogers Park station and relayed to the central station. The alarm was radioed and picked up by a half dozen cruising detective and flivver squads in the Summerdale-Rogers Park districts. One of the police flivvers carrying Policemen Michael Gibbons and Wilbur Davis of the Summerdale station headed in the direction of the robberies.

At California and Ardmore avenues they sighted the tan cabriolet, and gave chase. The car sped away. Gibbons sounded the police siren. Several shots banged from the fleeing machine, and Davis and Gibbons returned the fire as the two machines sped east in Ardmore avenue. The policemen fired nine shots in all.

Cemetery Blocks Flight.

The robbers' car dashed into Western avenue. Its eastward course was blocked by Rosehill cemetery and the driver tried a sharp turn to the south. The car skidded, grazed the Rosehill cemetery curb on the east side of the street, and swept back again in a southwesterly direction across the street.

Before the stolen auto could straighten out and get under way in the south bound lane, Wallace's car approached from the north. The architect slammed on the brakes to avoid a crash just south of Ardmore avenue. At that instant the police pursuers ran into Western avenue, turning south from Ardmore avenue immediately behind Wallace's car. That put Wallace between the robbers' car on the south and the police car on the north.

The Fatal Bullet.

Gibbons and Davis leaped from their flivver, guns in hands, when, according to the police, one of the robbers leaned from the cabriolet and fired at them. The bullet killed Wallace. The robbers got under way and escaped south.

Wallace was head of Miller & Wallace, architects, 222 West Adams street. He leaves a widow, Mrs. Nora Wallace, and two children, Robert, 13 years old, and Rosemary, 4. According to Mrs. Wallace, her husband was on his way to Oak Park on business when he was shot.

Identify Slain Bandit.

The bandit shot to death Wednesday evening by Policeman Michael Neary was identified yesterday by finger prints as George Schor, wanted in Indianapolis for a bank robbery. He was also an ex-inmate of a Kansas City, Mo., jail.

Franc E. Gardner, 65 years old, 2012 Humboldt boulevard, was shot and slightly wounded in an encounter with a robber yesterday. Mr. Gardner and his son, Franc Jr., were leaving their place of business, the Gardner Chemical Laboratory, 3122 Bloomingdale avenue, when the gunman forced them to drive down an alley. When ordered to surrender his money Mr. Gardner grappled with the outlaw. In the struggle the robber's gun was discharge, inflicting a wound in Mr. Gardner's scalp. The robber escaped.

LEONIDAS JONES CATCHES UP

A Thrilling Story of Christmas Shopping, etc., etc.

Leonidas Jones had been in the remote fastnesses of the Peruvian Andes for eighteen months, searching, always searching, for the fabulous treasures of the Incas which were hidden to prevent them falling into the greedy hands of the Spanish conquistadors.

During all this time he had been cut off from the outside world. His last authentic news, just before he left civilization a year and a half before, was that the people of the United States were preparing to celebrate the Fourth of July, 1929.

He had never heard of the Lindbergh baby, the wreck of the R-101, the death fog in Belgium, and he still thought that Anaconda was selling somewhere around 125. As for the business depression, that was one of the leastest things he had heard about.

Not a whisper had trickled in to him about the end of soft times.

At last, about the middle of December, 1930, and just as he was on the point of becoming discouraged, he found the treasure, $87,000,000 at the present rate of exchange or, to be exact, $87,262,900.

Straightening up, he gave vent to a great shout of triumph!

"Now I will go home and do some shopping, and say, when I say shopping, I mean it! For a year and a half I have done without everything I need and now I will sally forth and buy everything I need and a lot besides."

It was but the work of a few minutes to secrete the mass of the treasure, pack four or five millions of loose change in his kit bag, and flag the United States-Argentina air mail which at that moment was winging its way north.

During the long ride in the plane the noise of the motors made conversation difficult, so that he was not able to talk to the pilot and catch up with what had been happening while he had been cut off from the news.

It was about 10 a. m. when he reached Chicago and without losing a minute he began his Christmas shopping.

He bought with such a lavish hand that soon he was being followed by big crowds of wondering people.

"Surely," they said, "this fellow doesn't seem disturbed by all this talk of hard times. Maybe he has some inside information."

Reasoning thus, they began to catch some of his spirit. Fear departed, confidence perked up, and in a few minutes the epidemic of restored faith was spreading through the city.

Sales began to leap! The news was telegraphed to other cities and they in turn quickly felt the stimulation of the business revival. Even New York, the richest city and therefore the most pessimistic, responded to the impetus.

It was astounding! Money that had been in hiding came out and, like the ground hog who doesn't see his shadow, stayed out and began to circulate, helping beat down the barriers of fear and pessimism.

By 4 p. m. the buying frenzy had reached normalcy and in some places was passing it.

The stock market decided to keep open till 10 p. m. Many big industries ordered resumption at full time with full forces.

When Leonidas went to his hotel that night he was tired from his hours of magnificent shopping.

He had left a golden trail up one side of the streets and down the other.

Ordering supper served in his room, he sent for the newspapers, having heard the cries of the newsboys shouting their extras through the streets below.

It was only when he read the papers that he discovered that the nation had been in the grip of a business depression!

"My gosh!" he cried, a cold sweat bursting forth, "what have I done? I must cancel all those purchases!"

But it was too late. As well try to stop a hurricane! The wave of confidence he had started was growing like a vast tidal wave sweeping the country! Vast reservoirs of hoarded wealth suddenly became a flood, breaking out of its restraining walls and becoming vital instead of stagnant.

Pessimists were being mobbed in the public places! A man with two dollars hoarded was called a slacker.

Suddenly it was the fashion to be optimistic instead of pessimistic.

The next day the country awoke to a new condition. Prosperity, rampant, was in the saddle carrying everything before it. Mysteriously the clouds that had seemed so somber melted away and were forgotten.

So Leonidas decided to let his Christmas purchases ride.

There is little more to be told. He was soon married and lived happily ever after.

Christmas Ship Sinks; 40 Lost; 36 Rescued

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 19.—A number of Finnish Americans en route from Hull to Helsingfors for the Christmas holidays were involved in a disastrous collision tonight when their vessel, the Arcturus, belonging to the Finnish Steamship company, smashed into the company's sister ship Oberon during a dense fog off the Leastroe Trindel lightship.

The Oberon sank in three minutes and it is feared between 35 and 40 persons were drowned.

Ship Captains Brothers.

By an extraordinary coincidence the vessels were captained by two brothers, Eric and Ossi Hjelt, the latter being aboard the Oberon, which was on the reverse run of the Arcturus and left Copenhagen for Hull only today.

According to the official radiogram to Svanck Tobiesen, agent of the Finnish Steamship company at Copenhagen, just received, 36 persons have been rescued from the Oberon, but the dense fog is hampering operations.

No Time to Lower Boats.

The collision was so sudden that the Oberon had no time to lower boats before she drifted away in the fog and foundered.

She had on board a crew of between 50 and 60 and 20 passengers, including a number of Englishmen returning home for Christmas.

Four vessels are now standing by the scene of the disaster, including the Swedish gunboat Svensund. The Swedish steamer Tolken is also searching for survivors. A snowstorm is now raging at the scene of the disaster.

The majority of the passengers were in their bunks when the vessels crashed, shortly after 10 tonight and many were picked up by the Arcturus, having jumped or been precipitated into the sea without life belts.

Brother Sees Brother.

Owing to the difficulties of navigation, both captains were on their respective bridges and the brothers recognized each other and shouted orders for the few moments the vessels were together.

The Arcturus is badly damaged above the water line, but it is in no danger of sinking and is proceeding to Copenhagen under her own steam. It is not know whether any of her American passengers were injured by the collision, though some members of the crew in the focastle may have been hurt.

The Arcturus, of 2,500 tons, is one of the oldest vessels in the fleet, while the Oberon was comparatively a new vessel of 3,000 tons.

SIX REPUBLICAN FACTIONS UNITE TO GET A MAYOR

Parley on Candidate to Start Monday.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Success crowned the first meeting of the Republican allies yesterday in their effort to pick the right sort of a winner for the mayoralty primary on Feb. 24.

Leaders of six elements of the party gathered at the Palmer house and agreed that the program all of them should follow is that of uniting behind a single contestant able not only to win the nomination, but capable of becoming the sort of mayor Chicago has indicated it wants in preparation for the new World's Fair and during the fair.

Chairman B. W. Snow of the county committee, making the announcement of the conferees after their closed door session, said that the goal for the first meeting—that of establishing coöperation—had been reached and that, following week-end conferences of the several groups, a second meeting will be held on Monday to begin the discussion of possible candidates.

Thompson Holds Meeting.

Word was received during the meeting that Thompson had staged his hurried coming out party before a group of ward committeemen, consisting almost entirely of city hall pay rollers anxious to hold their places—and those of their relatives and friends—even until April. Their combined strength in a convention, their opponents said, represented less than half the voting strength of the city central committee.

According to all reports available there were only twenty-seven committeemen present, which in itself was said to be a disappointment to Thompson, and their hasty adoption of a resolution urging Thompson to run was followed by no other business than the distribution of petition blanks.

This was viewed as significant by Chairman Snow because of reports that the Thompson group had intended twenty-four hours earlier to voice a demand for a meeting of the city committee as a test of strength. He took it as proof that the Thompson camp had given up hope of controlling the committee.

All Elements Represented.

All of those invited to the allies' conference—representing the six elements of the G. O. P.—were present or were represented by others. Chairman Snow took in with him three committeemen—John L. East, lieutenant of George F. Harding in the Fifth ward; Charles J. Nowak of the Nineteenth ward, and John J. Hoellen of the Forty-seventh. Edward J. Brundage, former attorney general, was there with Thomas O. Wallace of the Forty-fourth ward, Francis S. Boutell of the Forty-eighth, and Louis Nettelhorst, Fiftieth.

Deneen Men at Meeting.

Senator Deneen's being held at Washington for close votes on Thursday prevented his arriving in time for the meeting, but from his group there were Roy O. West, national committeeman and former secretary of the interior, and State's Attorney Swanson. Deneen arrived in the afternoon and said that after a conference of his organization he will go into the next meeting. He was enthusiastic about the outlook.

Others present were President W. R. James of the west park board; Col. William E. Buehler of Gov. Emmerson's staff, and William F. Behrens, state superintendent of lodging houses and a leader in German-American organizations. They made it plain that they were not representatives of the governor, but individually they are considered as wielding influence among his supporters in Chicago.

The Illinois Republican council, which fought Thompson in 1927, was represented by its president, Rupert F. Bippus; its secretary, Leslie P. Volz, and Dr. John Dill Robertson, independent candidate for mayor four years ago.

Carlstrom One of Conferees.

Attorney General Carlstrom went into the meeting accompanied by Harry A. Ash, who has charge of Carlstrom's Chicago office, and by Charles W. Vursell, former prohibition administrator. Attorney General Carlstrom's statement to the committee was that, since he is not a resident of the city, he had no right to help select a mayoralty candidate.

"I accepted the invitation," Mr. Carlstrom said, "because I believe it is the duty of every citizen who has the future of Chicago at heart to respond to the call.

"The maladministration of the municipal affairs of Chicago in the last three and one-half years has been with

WOMEN BATTLE PURSE SNATCHER; HE IS CAPTURED

Mrs. Bradford W. Carlton, whose husband is assistant to President Fred W. Sargent of the North Western railway, and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Charles E. Carlton, 1750 Ainslie street, last night battled a youth who seized the elder Mrs. Carlton's purse in front of 1718 Ainslie street and caused his capture a few minutes later. The Bradford Carltons live at 2206 Granville avenue.

The two women were returning from a shopping trip when they were accosted by the youth. Mrs. Carlton held firmly to the purse, however, and the "tug of war" led from the sidewalk across the curb and into the street, where the thief went down as the younger woman came to the rescue.

Neighbors aroused by the commotion called police and Detectives John O'Brien, August Croat and Sergt. Joseph Tierney seized a youth who gave his name as Michael F. Finnerty, 17 years old, 4223 North Central Park avenue, at Hermitage avenue and Ainslie street, from whom the purse was recovered.

CROWDS ON LINK BRIDGE WITNESS LEAP TO DEATH

Hundreds of Michigan avenue office workers streaming across the Michigan avenue bridge last evening saw Charles Cedieux, 26 years old, an employé of the Austin Manufacturing company in the Wrigley building, commit suicide by jumping into the Chicago river.

Cedieux walked out of the rear entrance of the Wrigley building and along Rush street to the river dock. Without hat or overcoat he stood for a moment at the edge of the water and then jumped in. Capt. John Anderson of the Coast Guard station was summoned and, despite the fact that his men had difficulty in breaking through the ice at the mouth of the river, was able to recover the body 20 minutes later.

The young man lived with his father, C. Cedieux, 17901 Gottschalk avenue, Homewood. His father said that he had been in ailing health for some time.

Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig's Jewels Sell for $22,177

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Sparkling jewels once worn by the late Mrs. Rita De Acosta Lydig were sold today for $22,177 at an auction attended by the socially elect. A white gold lorgnette set with 99 barquette diamonds brought a top price of $1,700. The sale is being held to settle an estate which Mrs. Lydig left to charity, but which has substantial debts outstanding.

2 Children Die, Mother Hurt in Blast, Fire

Two children were burned to death and their mother probably fatally burned in an explosion and fire which wrecked a one story building at 3655-59 North Kedzie avenue early this morning. Damage to the building was estimated at $15,000.

The dead are Jerome Israelson, 5 years old, and his brother, Homer, 4. The mother, Dora, was taken to the Martha Washington hospital, where her condition was reported serious. The Israelsons lived in the rear of a notion store conducted in the building by the father and husband, Irving Israelson. He collapsed when he returned to his ruined home and learned of the tragedy.

Mother Saved by Neighbor.

Mrs. Israelson was rescued by Jacob Kraitsek, 3649 North Kedzie avenue, who heard the blast and a woman's scream. He rushed to the scene and pulled the mother out in time to save her life, but not before she was severely burned. Two other neighbors, Ralph Ballou and Frank Larkey, appeared at almost the same time and attempted to rescue the children. The intense heat, however, drove them back and the children perished.

The explosion probably was caused, according to Assistant Fire Marshal Daniel J. Carmody, who responded to a 2-11 alarm, by the ignition of gas which had accumulated between the ceiling and the roof of the building.

Roofs Are Blown Off.

The explosion blew the roofs entirely off the three stores in the one story structure. Windows of near-by buildings were shattered. Only the masonry of the store building remained after the fire had been subdued.

The two other stores damaged are a drug store at 3659 North Kedzie avenue, owned by Mrs. Jacob Cohen, a widow, and a butcher shop at 3657 North Kedzie avenue, owned by H. Goldbarg.

McGoorty in Hospital; Says He Needs a Rest

Chief Justice John P. McGoorty of the Criminal court went to Mercy hospital yesterday to be under observation of physicians for a few days. A luncheon in honor of Judge McGoorty at the Union League club was canceled when it was learned that he was slightly ill. For the last few weeks the judge has been tiring easily, he said and his doctors wanted an opportunity to test his lungs and heart.

"What I need most is a rest," Judge McGoorty told callers. "The doctors say they will probably allow me to return to work Monday."

A COP AT HOME INVESTIGATES A PECULIAR NOISE

Thomas O'Hern, policeman attached to the Brighton Park station, was eating dinner with his family last night when a terrific crash swayed their bungalow at 8500 South Morgan street and hurled the dinner dishes to the floor.

"It's a bomb," gasped his wife, as O'Hern seized his revolver and rushed to the front door.

Deep in the wreckage of what had been the front porch O'Hern heard a faint voice plead, "Don't shoot," and about the buried figure O'Hern found the wreckage of an automobile.

After he had been extricated, unhurt except for a few scratches, John F. Boylan, 38 years old, 8323 South Carpenter street, explained. He said he was driving home when a midget automobile disregarded through street signs and darted directly into his path. In attempting to dodge this car, Boylan's automobile skidded across the sidewalk and struck Policeman O'Hern's bungalow.

In 1927 the Wilson-Filmers bought Leeds castle in Kent, one of the most romantic feudal buildings in England, and had it repaired at enormous expense. Mrs. Wilson-Filmer is the sister of Miss Dorothy Paget, famous British woman automobile racer.

out parallel. The city stands, so far as its administration is concerned, morally and financially bankrupt. It has brought upon us the criticism of the nation.

"At a time like this no personal or political ambitions of any man can be permitted to stand in the way of a concerted effort to redeem the city from its debauchery brought about by those who apparently have had no regard for its welfare or the welfare of its people.

"I have no right nor will I presume to suggest who the nominee for mayor should be. I am convinced that you gentlemen have met with the honest and unselfish purpose of selecting an outstanding candidate of character, integrity and administrative ability who will have a sympathetic understanding of the people of Chicago and their problems."

Copies of the attorney general's remarks were given the newspaper men following their delivery, but the only other statement concerning what occurred came from Chairman Snow with supplements from Brundage and Dr. Robertson.

Rally of All G. O. P. Forces.

Chairman Snow made the point that with the county central committee represented, the meeting was a conference of the leaders of all the organized Republican forces in Chicago.

"The discussion," he said, "brought out the fact that all the groups represented and the leaders present were earnestly in sympathy with the movement to select a candidate for the Republican nomination for mayor who will meet the aspirations of the people of Chicago as a whole and who will be approved by the political groups and big and small business of the community."

"The most impressive thing," said Brundage, to whom Snow turned for suggestions, "was the spirit of cooperation, the unity of desire. Factions that have been fighting each other for years now are willing to cooperate and consolidate for the good of Chicago."

A moment later Chairman Snow spoke of "redeeming Chicago from its maladministration and bad repute" and was interrupted by Dr. Robertson.

"Make it the plague of Thompsonism," said Robertson.

Chairman Snow also announced that the conferees had authorized him during the interval before the next meeting to confer with the chiefs of the several groups and others who have asked for a voice in the subject under discussion.

VIRGINIA DRY LAW OFFICER KILLED BY NEGRO DURING RAID

Richmond, Va., Dec. 19.—(AP)—James Newton Woods, 28, said by Attorney General Saunders to be one of the most efficient prohibition officers on the state force, was killed while making a raid today near Warsaw, Va.

Tonight Randolph Cox, 39, Negro farmer at whose home the raid took place, was lodged in jail here charged with the shooting. He himself was suffering from buckshot wounds in the cheek, inflicted by State Inspector R. S. Durette, who with Frank M. Wood, a brother of the slain man, aided in the raid.

The Negro was brought here because Richmond county officials said they feared violence.

Durette said that after the raiding party had found liquor in Cox's home the Negro refused to come out when the officials commanded him to do so. Cox was quoted as saying he had fired on the officers only after one of them had wounded him.

PATRIOTS OF PAY ROLLS BLAMED FOR TAX BURDEN

Curb Reckless Spending, Is Malone's Plea.

"Payroll patriots" were blamed for high taxes by William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, in an address yesterday before the Chicago Real Estate board. Mr. Malone declared that relief from the heavy tax burden on real estate could be obtained through the elimination of waste in public expenditures and a more equitable distribution of the tax load.

"The most logical way to reduce taxes on real estate is to curb reckless, extravagant and criminal spending of public money by pay roll patriots, who thrive with their army of leeches on tax money," he said. "Each night they burn the records of the day and by dawn a new racket is born.

"Look at the City Hall."

"Look at our county building and city hall. They are so filthy as to be unfit for human habitation. Walls are dirty, floors grimy and windows bear the plaintive plea, 'Please wash me,' spelled in the dust. I do not believe they have been cleaned in ten years.

"Yet, when I had occasion recently to compare the cost of the maintenance of these buildings with those of similar office buildings, I found that the budget is fourteen and one-half times greater.

"Another instance of the workings of pay roll patriots was brought to my attention in my own community of Park Ridge. For paving identical roads of identical construction adjacent to Park Ridge the city of Chicago paid twice as much as the community of Park Ridge.

"Now is the time to rise and drive the money changers from the temple. Now is the time to drive racketeers out of Cook county.

Defends the Reassessment.

Mr. Malone defended the reassessment from the recent attack of Mayor Thompson, who held the cost to be exorbitant. He said that the actual cost of the reassessment work proper was 80 cents for appraising each piece of property in the county and that delays caused by the "pay roll patriots" increased the cost at public expense.

"Compare this 80 cents with $700 per individual piece of property paid under Thompson in street widening improvements," Mr. Malone said. "There would not be enough money in the civilized world to pay for a reassessment under a projection of Thompson's dabbling in appraisals."

Mr. Malone asserted that authorities have declared the value of personal property in Cook county to be $30,000,000,000, or three times the total full valuation of real estate. A taxpayers' association has asked a joint meeting of the board of review and the board of assessors to order a reassessment of personal property.

"Should these boards refuse, then it is the duty of your state commission to get all the facts and intervene to compel the local taxing bodies to obey the law," said Mr. Malone. "I shall not indicate what the action of the commission will be in such a case. The gravity of the situation will require our best thought."

Concerning the reviewers' announced plan to reduce 1929 taxes by revaluation of land alone, Mr. Malone said:

"If they can do so with equality, I am heartily in accord with them. But since the 1929 tax anticipation warrants have been issued against the estimate of tax receipts for the year, the board is merely throwing us off the track, as the rate must obviously go up. You're approaching an election and that is the curse of it all."

JURY ACQUITS JACK GUZIK IN VAGRANCY CASE

Holds Bets Do Not Make a Vagrant.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Gambling as a profession or an avocation cannot be interpreted as vagrancy, in the opinion of the jury which acquitted Jack Guzik, public enemy and Capone gangster, of this charge in Judge Edgar Jonas' court yesterday evening.

This verdict was something of a setback to the state's vagrancy offensive against gangland, but it was stated that it would not stop future prosecutions, several of which are now being planned.

Harry Guzik, Jack's brother, is to be tried on the same charge on Jan. 13. The evidence and atmosphere of each case is vitally different, as the vagrancy law of 1874, which is being invoked, has many clauses and colorations.

"That is just one case; we will keep on working," was the only comment of Harry S. Ditchburne, assistant state's attorney, who had charge of the prosecution.

Guzik "Glad It's Over."

"Glad that's over," said Jack Guzik, with a sigh of relief, as he turned to receive the handshakes of his 20 year old son and a number of friends. "I suppose now they will be arresting me for spitting on the street," he added.

The defense attorneys in this case, Charles Horgan and James Burke, drove home one idea: that it is no crime to gamble, and that is evidently what stuck in the minds of the jurors.

Guzik was presented as a gambler, and the state had only a negative showing as to just how he makes his money. He is a millionaire who lives in a tightly built, barred, and guarded home in a highly respectable neighborhood. He is a grandfather.

The defense was that nearly every one gambles, that Vice President Curtis and Gov. Emmerson and even assistant state's attorneys attend the race track on occasions, and presumably wager a few dollars. It was further contended that there are hundreds of thousands in Chicago who gamble daily on the races, and that the newspapers play up the horses and some of them give advice as to how to bet. What is wrong about that, the defense wanted to know.

Prosecutor Raps Police.

The state said there was nothing wrong about going out to the track to see the races and betting a few dollars in the inclosure, but that it was wrong to bet outside, and that Guzik represented the syndicated kind of gambling, the houses that offer roulette, blackjack, and other games.

Mr. Ditchburne, in arguing along this line, grew a bit sarcastic about the lack of help from some of his police witnesses.

"The police in the district said they hardly knew him," he said. "I'll give you these policemen for Christmas. I'll also give you the chief of police of Cicero, who let these places run.

"Don't give Guzik a pass because some one else has. Don't let the big bum put himself in a class with the Vice President and the governor."

"I object to this intemperate language," interposed Mr. Horgan.

"Overruled," said the court.

"The detectives in the Second district ought to be swinging clubs. They didn't know anything much except when the defense had them.

"You may ask why do we not prosecute Guzik as a gambler. Somebody had an arm around his neck, the way it looks to me. It looks like we are started now. You will do your duty regardless of whether somebody else fall down.

"For the first time you have a chance to get a bejeweled vagrant, a big shot."

Defense Attacks State Case.

But the jury evidently agreed with Mr. Burke when he said:

"This is hypocrisy. The way to stop crime is to apprehend and punish criminals for their crimes. Our citizens are being robbed, murdered, raped, kidnaped, and they take your time to try a grandfather who bet on the horse races."

The only theory of the vagrancy law on which the state asked conviction was that Guzik had made his money by unlawful means, but the prosecution did not show this clearly, only by negation. It did not stand.

OKLAHOMA GAS WELL ON FIRE; HOURLY FLOW OF 60,000,000 CUBIC FT.

Wewoka, Okla., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Roaring a menace to the new Wewoka oil and gas field, the Deep Rock Oil corporation's number 1-A Douglas gas well was burning today.

The well, a mile south of town, blew wild at 1:30 a. m., and caught fire, tossing a thousand feet of heavy pipe half a mile away.

It was estimated to be flowing 60,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily, but no oil.

Hundreds of Wewoka residents, awakened by the gasser's roar, rushed to the well. As the wind was from the west, it was believed there was no immediate danger to the town. All operations in the field were shut down.

Experts were rushed here by airplane from Tulsa and planned to snuff out the flames with a nitroglycerin blast.

STREET CLEANING BUDGET SLASHED BY ALDERMEN

The appropriation for street and alley cleaning for next year was limited to $5,423,000 in the tentative estimate set by the council finance committee last night while working on the 1931 budget. The appropriation for street cleaning for 1930 was $5,425,904, but Joseph J. Butler, superintendent of streets, had asked for $8,684,920 for 1931.

The committee did not include a separate appropriation for the salaries of 1,600 street cleaners for a full year as requested by Michael Carozza, head of the street sweepers' union. This would have required a separate appropriation of approximately $2,000,000. The committee also eliminated an item of $300,000 for snow removal.

In the afternoon the aldermen listened to the requests of Building Commissioner Paschen and William J. Balmer, commissioner of public service. Oscar W. Rosenthal, chairman of the general committee working on a revision of the building code, reported that the revision is more than 95 per cent completed.

LESTER ARMOUR RESIGNS FROM PACKING HOUSE

Gives Up Directorship and Vice Presidency.

F. Edson White, president of Armour & Co., yesterday confirmed reports that Lester Armour, grandson of P. D. Armour, founder of the packing house, had resigned as vice president and director.

Mr. Armour is 36 years old. He entered business as a $15 a week clerk in the stockyards office of Armour & Co. 16 years ago. He has leased an office at 208 South La Salle street, but was out of the city yesterday. His former associates said they were unacquainted with his future plans.

Philip D. Armour Remains.

Lester Armour's resignation from the company, which his uncle, the late J. Ogden Armour, built into a worldwide institution, leaves but one member of the family active in its affairs. Lester's brother, Philip D. Armour, remains first vice president and director.

The first of the family to resign was Laurance H. Armour of the Kansas City branch of the house, a cousin of Ogden Armour and grandson of Andrew Watson Armour, who founded the Armour Packing company, afterward merged with Armour & Co. Laurance Armour left the company in October, 1926.

A. Watson Armour Resigns.

The next to resign was A. Watson Armour II., a brother of Laurance. He had been identified with the company for 26 years when he vacated his office of vice president in March, 1929. The brothers are now associated in the Aviation Securities corporation.

Commenting on rumors in the stockyards that the Armours were resigning because of dissatisfaction over the share given them in the company affairs, Mr. White said:

"There's nothing to it. The packing business is a pretty fast game. The boys didn't care for it, that's all."

RYAN HEIRESS ACCUSED IN SUIT OF LOVE PIRACY

Wife of Entertainer Asks Half a Million.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Miss Adele Ryan, daughter of John Barry Ryan and granddaughter of Thomas Fortune Ryan, is accused of alienating the affections of Robert Johnston, night club entertainer, by presenting him with liquor, first editions of books, perfume and money, in a suit filed in Supreme court by Mrs. Muriel Johnston.

Mrs. Johnston demands $500,000 for the loss of her husband's affections.

The action was disclosed today when Supreme Court Justice Callahan reserved decision on the wife's petition to examine Miss Ryan before trial.

Mrs. Johnston said she and the entertainer were married in 1923, in Berkeley, Cal., and that they met Miss Ryan in Cap Antibes, France.

Sought to Win Him, Is Charge.

"The defendant immediately sought to ingratiate herself with the plaintiff's husband," the complaint recited, "and the following winter the defendant followed him to London, where the defendant visited her sister, but devoted the better part of her time to calling the Pall Mall house of the plaintiff and her husband during the day and coming in the evening to the Night Life club, of which his royal highness, the prince of Wales, was a member, and at which the plaintiff and her husband entertained."

From Oct. 15, 1929, until May 1 last, Mrs. Johnston added, Miss Ryan wrote frequently to Mr. Johnston and "willfully" sought to destroy her husband's love for the plaintiff by making him gifts. The plaintiff said that Miss Ryan had established residence only two blocks away from the Johnstons' home at 41 West 11th street last January.

Alleges Trip to Boston.

In May and August of 1929, the complaint continued, the defendant induced Mr. Johnston to accompany her on trips to Boston and on Oct. 3 last persuaded him to escort her to the Park Chambers hotel in this city and to register with her as "Robert Johnston and wife."

Mrs. Johnston said that around Oct. 1 last Miss Ryan induced Mr. Johnston to call on the plaintiff and that he requested her to divorce him so he might marry the defendant. Miss Ryan is a woman of great wealth, the wife added, and is now maintaining Mr. Johnston in a luxurious apartment.

Miss Ryan has filed a general denial of all the allegations.

German Prince Wins Half of $65,000 Pension in Court

BERLIN, Dec. 19. — The Dresden court today awarded Prince Johann George, brother of former King Friedrich August of Saxony, 50 per cent of his annual pension of $65,000. This sum under the law had been revalorized at 15 per cent like the property of all other Germans. The prince, however, declared that he will continue his fight for the full amount.

LINDY AND WIFE FIGHT BLAZE ON THEIR AIRPLANE

Quench Fire in Time to Avert Peril.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 19.— (AP) — Flames burst from the motor of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's monoplane here today but both he and Mrs. Lindbergh acted promptly and checked them before serious damage was done. Lindbergh was twirling the propeller, aided by a mechanic, when smoke and flames shot from under the cowl about the motor. Apparently gasoline and oil had ignited from backfire.

Col. Lindbergh ran to the cockpit, where his wife was seated, seized a hand fire extinguisher, opened the cowling and began squirting the chemical on the motor.

Wife Shuts Off Gas.

Mrs. Lindbergh was seated in the pilot's seat, the controls in front of her, and she shut off both the gasoline and the ignition, preventing more serious danger. She did not leave the cockpit until after National Guardsmen had run to her husband's assistance.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh flew here yesterday from Washington, where they attended sessions of the national air uniformity conference, and were overnight guests of Dr. William H. Wilmer, eye specialist at Johns Hopkins hospital, and Mrs. Wilmer. They were preparing to leave for Newark, N. J., when the brief excitement occurred.

Fire Delays Start.

The fire delayed the flight about two hours. After fire apparatus at the municipal airport, Logan field, had been rushed up and more chemicals had been squirted on the smoking motor, the plane was gone over thoroughly, minor repairs made, and shortly before 3 o'clock the Lindberghs roared away for Newark.

For several minutes Col. Lindbergh, hatless and attired in flying togs, had been trying to make the cold motor behave. Guardsmen and spectators evinced excitement when the flames appeared, and the colonel lost some of his calm. The arrival of the field fire apparatus found him with a smudge across his face.

The younger Flint had prevented him from leaping from the window a few minutes earlier.

Daniel S. Beebe, wealthy manufacturer, was yesterday sentenced to six months in jail by Superior Judge John J. Sullivan for his failure to pay alimony to his former wife, Mrs. Etta Marker Beebe, 719 Washington boulevard, Oak Park. Beebe's alimony debt of $24,800 is said to set a record in the county divorce courts.

The Beebes were divorced in August, 1924, and Mrs. Beebe, who is well known in Oak Park society, was awarded $10,000 in cash, alimony of $7,500 a year, $15,000 in stocks, and an insurance policy of $45,000. Mrs. Beebe, who appeared in court with her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr., testified that her husband has only paid a few small sums on the yearly alimony since their divorce.

She Wants the Money.

"What do you want?" asked Judge Sullivan after attorneys had argued over Beebe's ability to pay.

"I want some money," Mrs. Beebe said. "I've had nothing but promises. You had better send him to jail."

Attorney James C. McGloon, representing Beebe, made a plea that the sentence be withheld until after the Christmas holidays, but lost when Mrs. Beebe insisted that her former husband be jailed. Beebe declared that he is unable to pay due to the business depression.

Beebe was formerly president of the Vitrolite company and is an official of the San Duro company of Rockford. At a recent court hearing Attorney Cantwell asserted that Beebe had recently been offered $125,000 for his interest in the San Duro company, and when Beebe denied this, the attorney agreed to produce the man who made the offer.

Won Divorce For Cruelty.

Mrs. Beebe won her divorce on grounds of cruelty after they had separated on the eve of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. From a loving husband, Mrs. Beebe testified, her husband had changed into a man who pinched, kicked, bit and choked her. "His love began to wane as he made more money," Mrs. Beebe declared at the divorce hearing.

The Beebes were married on March 22, 1900, at Greensburg, Pa. Mrs. Beebe was awarded the custody of a son, Edward, now 22 years old. Under the divorce settlement Beebe was ordered to pay for his son's university education.

ORDERS STANTON EXTRADITED FOR ZUTA KILLING

Gangster Facing Murder Trial in Wisconsin.

Danny Stanton, one of the 26 public enemies listed by the Chicago crime commission, and Edgar Smith, his chauffeur, were ordered extradited to Waukesha county, Wis., yesterday by Judge Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court. The decision means that they must stand trial in Wisconsin for the slaying of Jack Zuta, vice monger, unless the Supreme court on appeal should upset the decision of the judge.

Attorney Michael Ahern of the defense announced that an appeal would be taken to the Supreme court and he was given 60 days in which to perfect his record. The mandate ordering the extradition was stayed the same length of time.

Praises Judge's Decision.

District Attorney Herman Salen of Waukesha county was jubilant when informed of Judge Finnegan's decision by Assistant State's Attorney Q. J. Chott, who conducted the extradition fight for the state's attorney's office.

"The order of Judge Finnegan speaks well for Chicago justice," he said. "It seems that there has been a decided change in Chicago in the last year. I desire to thank State's Attorney Swanson and his assistants for the aid they rendered in the extradition proceeding.

"I am prepared to show Stanton and Smith a little speedy Wisconsin justice just as soon as they are brought into Wisconsin. They will be placed on trial within a few days of the time they land in my state."

Slain at Summer Resort.

Zuta was shot and killed in a summer resort dance hall near Delafield, Wis., after several attempts on his life in Chicago had failed.

Stanton was accused of the killing after investigation by Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert. He said that a revolver found in an automobile in which Stanton and Smith were riding was one of the weapons used in the Zuta crime. Stanton tried to combat this testimony by showing that he was at a fish fry at a relative's home when Zuta was murdered.

The defense also produced in court Emil Hoefs, a bartender at the Lake View hotel at Delafield, Wis., where the murder occurred, to testify that he had been coerced into signing an affidavit accusing Stanton. This accusation was denied by Prosecutor Salen. Evidence of an alibi such as produced by the defense must be so convincing as to leave no doubt as to its truth, Judge Finnegan said.

"I do not believe that the evidence introduced on behalf of the defendants satisfactorily and convincingly overcomes the case of the state," the judge ruled.

Joseph (Pepe) Genaro, another public enemy, is illiterate, it developed yesterday in Judge John H. Lyle's Felony court when he presented a petition for a change of venue on a vagrancy charge. His petition bore a rude cross rather than his signature.

"What?" exclaimed Judge Lyle. "You cannot read or write?"

Genaro admitted this to be true, but said that he is a citizen by virtue of the naturalization of his father. He said he is in the fruit business and professed to know nothing about the murder, years ago, of Mike Vinci.

SENATOR GLENN COMMENDED FOR HOOVER DEFENSE

In a telegram sent yesterday by the Illinois Manufacturers' association, United States Senator Otis F. Glenn was commended for his defense of President Hoover against attacks on the floor of the senate. The message, signed by James L. Donnelly, executive vice president, said:

"We commend your admirable defense of the President against unwarranted attacks as reported in press.

"Your action is not only an exposition of courage and leadership, but will, we trust, assist in moderating the obstructive methods of that small number of individuals in both parties whose tactics reflect personal ambition, self advertising, and political expediency instead of that spirit of cooperation which is essential to the recovery of business from the present depression."

ATLANTIC LINES CUT RATES ON DE LUXE SUITES

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Four of the largest steamship companies operating transatlantic passenger service announced reductions in rates today, effective tomorrow, amounting in some instances to 50 per cent. The move was made to stimulate transatlantic travel, now at an unusually low level, and to dispose of de luxe accommodations, the demand for which has fallen.

The reductions were announced by the United States line, the French line, the Cunard line, and the International Mercantile Marine company. United States line reductions apply only to first class fares for the Leviathan, its flagship. The "premier suites," of three bedrooms, three baths, a veranda and a trunk room, have been reduced from $2,340 to $1,530. Smaller suites, formerly costing $1,000 or more, now range from $755 to $780.

The International Mercantile Marine reductions amount to as much as $1,000 for two persons.

Auburn, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Claudius N. McCully, Garrett City councilman, died today from asphyxiation. He was found Wednesday in his home, a tube in his mouth. Business troubles were the cause of the suicide. A widow and four children survive.

FOLEY IS FOUND GUILTY IN FAKE LOTTERY CASE

Must Pay $500 Fine or Go to Jail.

Matt Foley, who, when he was assistant circulation manager of the Chicago Herald and Examiner, operated a fake lottery, was found guilty yesterday by Judge Joseph Sabath of the Criminal court. He was fined $500 and given until Jan. 17 to make the payment or go to jail and work out the fine. The maximum penalty for the crime of selling and distributing lottery tickets is a fine of $2,000.

Assistant State's Attorney's Walker Butler and Ross Lee Laird, who prosecuted the case, asked for a substantial fine in their closing arguments. Attorney Ben Short for the defense asked for an acquittal, saying that Foley had testified that the lottery was operated by a Frank King and that Foley was merely an agent.

Cannot Violate the Law.

"I am imposing a substantial fine in this case because Foley must have impressed on him that he cannot violate the law," said the judge. "However, I am not giving him the maximum fine because the evidence shows that he is a married man with a family and has lost his job since the exposure of this lottery."

Foley, according to the evidence submitted before the judge—the jury was waived — distributed lottery tickets through the drivers of the Herald and Examiner. Many of the tickets were purchased by employes of large corporations, such as the Illinois Central Railroad company. The tickets were sold for 50 cents each.

The lottery, one witness testified, was crooked because duplicate tickets were issued and many of the tickets bore the name of Dick O'Hara, a horse not expected to participate in the Kentucky Derby. The owner of the horse, however, is reported to have heard of the effort to cash in on the lottery by the use of the name of his horse, and he insisted on the horse running even though it came in last.

How Lottery Was Worked.

Under the terms of the lottery a cash prize of $100 was to be paid to any one holding a ticket on a horse which took part in the Derby. Many of the ticket holders amused the court attaches when they told of listening on the radio for the results as they pertained to Dick O'Hara. The horse finally passed the finish line, the witnesses said, even if it was some time after the other thoroughbreds had gone to their stables.

The prosecution produced in court some 48 tickets on horses which should have collected money. The witnesses said that when they went to the Examiner office for satisfaction they were told by Roscoe Conkling [Duffy] Cornell, circulation manager, that they had better accept the $5 compromise offered by Hyman Goodman, who had sold tickets for Foley. This was the only offer made to pay anything, the witnesses said.

CRIMINAL COURT.

JURORS ASSAIL BOND EVILS IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Call Judges to Offer Ideas on Reform.

The December grand jury virtually completed its investigation of the bail bond situation yesterday by reading a letter to the judges of the Municipal court, who were summoned as witnesses, outlining the evils discovered by the jurors during their investigation.

The jurors also presented the judges with a list of some 24 suggestions for the operation of a central bail bond bureau to supply both the Criminal and Municipal courts, which it is hoped will correct the present laxity.

The letter was addressed to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court and the associate judges. Among the other judges appearing before the jurors yesterday were Judges Frank M. Padden, John J. Lupe, George B. Holmes, and Donald S. McKinlay. Acting Commissioner of Police John H. Alcock and Joseph E. Gill, clerk of the Municipal court, were also called.

Worst in Any Court.

"The grand jury with the assistance of the state's attorney has made a general survey of the bail bond situation in Cook county, and has found that conditions in respect to bail bonds in your court [the Municipal court] are the worst of any court in Cook county," reads the letter.

"The grand jury has had called to its attention several instances where bond forfeitures have been incurred and subsequently persons purporting to be the defendant and the prosecuting witness have appeared before a judge of the Municipal court, and orders been entered setting aside the bond forfeiture and dismissing the case for want of prosecution. It has been later discovered that the supposed defendant and the supposed prosecuting witness were impostors.

Want Positive Identification.

"It seems strange that the courts on such motions have not insisted upon positive identification of the defendant and prosecuting witness before disposing of such cases."

Assistant State's Attorney A. G. DeWitt, who has charge of the bond inquiry, said that one or two additional indictments may be voted later against bondsmen. The jury during the inquiry indicted thirteen professional bondsmen.

TRIBUNE COMPANY GIVES $15,000 TO GOOD FELLOWS

Donation Will Care for 50 Families.

The Good Fellow headquarters received a check for $15,000 yesterday from the Tribune company. Like other donations to the fund, every dollar will reach some destitute family whose needs and worthiness have been established by careful investigation.

The $15,000 from the company is in addition to $15,550 pledged by employés of THE TRIBUNE in a voluntary subscription to the Good Fellow fund. The company also pays the expenses of administering the fund, so that not a penny of Good Fellow donations is used for overhead.

The Good Fellows, like others working to relieve the distress caused by the temporary business depression, operate through organized charity, through the Chicago Council of Social Agencies, which is a clearing house for two hundred Chicago charities. A distinctive feature of the Good Fellow operations, however, is that all of their money will reach cold and hungry families this winter.

Will Provide for 50 Families.

The $15,000 check received from The Tribune company yesterday will provide food, clothing, shelter, and heat for fifty families this winter. The names of the families are received from the Chicago Council of Social Agencies from those recommended by the United Charities, central charity bureau [Catholic], Jewish social service bureau, and the Salvation Army. These charities, relieved of providing for the families' budgets, contribute the services of their welfare workers in guiding the families to self support again.

The Tribune company's check was the largest that has been received by the Good Fellow headquarters. The great majority of the donors are individuals in modest circumstances who enjoy sharing with those in dire need. Good Fellows, individuals and groups, now total 1,230. Some of the groups include scores of associates in churches, offices, factories, or clubs, so there are actually thousands of Good Fellows enlisted in the cause. Their contributions and pledges, with the winter just begun, total $95,378.

Social Functions Raise Money.

Thousands of dollars are being raised during the holiday season through social functions, benefit dances, card parties and the like. For example, the South Side Old Time club is giving a benefit tonight in its ballroom at 6932 South Halsted street at which Sally, Irene and Mary, harmonizers of the W-G-N radio staff, will appear.

In addition to the family rehabilitation work, undertaken for the first time this year due to the employment slack, the Good Fellows are continuing their practice of two decades of delivering baskets of food and toys to poor families on Christmas eve. The names of those to receive baskets are obtained from the Christmas bureau of the Chicago Council of Social Agencies to minimize the likelihood of some families getting several baskets at the expense of others, just as worthy, receiving none.

If you want to join the Good Fellows, there's a coupon for your convenience on this page. It can be used in contributing to the family rehabilitation fund or in applying for the name and address of a deserving home for you, personally, to deliver holiday groceries and toys next week.

FIND WOMAN DEAD; BLAME GAS.

Mrs. Sophie Kike, 50 years old, a widow, was found dead yesterday in her flat at 3509 West 38th place. Brighton Park police believe she was asphyxiated accidentally when a hose became disconnected from a gas pipe.

SPECIAL POLICE JURY TO START QUIZ ON JAN. 7

Swanson Silent on Form of Inquiry.

Judge Harry M. Fisher as acting chief justice of the Criminal court yesterday issued a call for a venire from which to select a special grand jury to investigate the police department, beginning Jan. 7. This was done, it was explained, in furtherance of the recommendation of the November grand jury, which found itself unable in the limited time to complete its inquiry into police conditions.

State's Attorney Swanson said he was unable to state this early what form the investigation will take. He said three grand juries—the September, October, and November—made reports that an alliance existed between policemen and criminals, and the major purpose of the special January jury will be to uncover evidence of that alliance.

Will Look Into Rackets.

The jurors will probably delve into bail bond irregularities and general racketeering, Mr. Swanson said. What evidence there now is on which to base a belief that crime is being protected Mr. Swanson did not say, but a preliminary inquiry is being made.

Asked if he was coöperating with federal authorities who for weeks past have been investigating the incomes of police captains, Mr. Swanson said he was always in coöperation with the United States district attorney. Any evidence obtained by the government and not used in federal prosecutions for income tax evasion will be available, Mr. Swanson said he expects.

Officials of the village of Melrose Park were summoned to Mr. Swanson's office yesterday afternoon for a discussion on law enforcement in that village. Mr. Swanson and Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne talked with them for two hours.

All Well Meaning.

"They all appeared to be well-meaning officials," Mr. Swanson said after the conference. "They have a system of government there that is not for the best interests of the citizenry. The commissioners get $6 a month and the president gets $12. All of them must have other means of a livelihood and the result is there is no centralized authority.

"They protested that whatever happens within miles of Melrose Park is blamed onto their village. They admitted that some years ago Melrose Park was not what it should have been, but they say there has been considerable improvement and now it is lawabiding. The many stills formerly operated there have been wrecked, they tell me.

"I didn't call them here on specific complaints, but on general complaints. I believe our discussion will result in better reports from Melrose Park in the future."

IF THE BABY SPILLS A BOWL OF MUSH ON HIS HEAD, DON'T FRET

Eating with fingers and fists, the lavish spilling of food, the licking of fingers, and an occasional turning of a dish of porridge over one's head and face are the natural methods of eating to a baby, and in Dr. Clara M. Davis' experiment with children they are not discouraged.

Dr. Davis, who is in the fifth year of an experiment in letting children eat what and how much they please from an assortment of simple foods, addressed the Chicago section of the American Chemical society in the City club last night. The experiment, begun with two children in Mount Sinai hospital in Cleveland, for the last two years has been continued in a private nursery at 640 Arlington place. The children are from 6 months to 4½ years old.

In motion pictures, which accompanied the lecture, an 8 months old baby was shown eating its first experimental meal. Before it on a tray, lined up three deep, were dishes of vegetables, fruits, cereals, and meats, a glass of water, and a saucer of salt. The baby grabbed dish after dish, threw them on the floor, poured out the food and chewed upon the dish turned them upon his head, but with the last dish of food succeeded in getting it to his mouth.

TO THE GALLERY THE U. S. SENATE APPEARS AS THIS

A Paradox in Democracy to Visitor.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—To the gallery guest, looking and listening in the United States senate, the ninety-six gentlemen below are something of a paradox in democracy.

They argue for hours over information they could get by merely consulting a book; but they ratify a treaty in exactly two and a half minutes. They have a private elevator at their royal command, a private stairway to tread importantly; but they often deliver their pet speeches to rows of impudently vacant chairs.

They can sass the President as much as they've a mind to; then they turn around and act as bellboys to country constituents, eager to glimpse the inside of the White House.

Belie Their Sedate Name.

Their very name, Latin derived, means "age"; but they handshake as collegiately as any group of fraternity lads.

So it's all rather puzzling to this newcomer in the gallery. Puzzling but interesting, when the noon hour calls together what Gladstone once called "that remarkable body, the most remarkable of all the inventions of modern politics, the senate of the United States."

One of the first to arrive is Dwight Morrow, one of the last to be elected to this body. "Morrow, the meticulous," they have dubbed Lindbergh's father-in-law, so anxious is he to learn all about the rules and regulations. Small, serious, with fragile hands and quick, nervous gestures, he sits in the back row on the Republican side, giving solemn attention to everything, from the chaplain's opening prayer to Senator Charles L. McNary's motion for adjournment.

McNary Is a Surprise.

Oregon's McNary, by the way, is a surprise. He is not the agrarian looking gentleman you might expect to see in the sponsor of the famous farm bill. Instead, he is a sprightly, tightly knit young man, who darts about briskly, even taking an irreverent hop, skip and a jump up the aisle. He is as well tailored as an actor.

Another early arrival is likely to be Connecticut's erudite Hiram Bingham, the triple play professor who taught at Harvard, Yale and Princeton. He addresses foreign delegations in scholarly speeches in their own language and talks to the senate in English which they sometimes call rather high-fallutin'.

The "Three Bears."

In back of him is a trio that might be, but isn't, called the "Three Bears," so well graded are they in size. First comes Senator Otis F. Glenn, the six feet three attorney from Illinois. Next to him is the middle sized John Thomas of Idaho. And third in the row, but most vocal of the lot, is Wisconsin's young Bob La Follette, short and inclined to slump down in his chair when he isn't making a speech. He is the baby senator and it was a nice bit of drama the other day when he debated with the elderly Senator Guy D. Goff on federal supervision versus state's rights. Senator Goff shook his bald head in reminiscence and Bob La Follette tossed his heavy black hair in confidence.

Speaking of bald heads, there are those belonging to Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, and to somber Samuel Shortridge, who quotes Shakespeare endlessly, and of whom a colleague said:

"Nobody could possibly be as wise as Senator Shortridge looks."

Everybody watches Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas take his seat. He is heavy and square and forceful.

Arranged for Comfort and Dignity.

The gallery observer notes that senate desks, grouped in threes, are separated by aisles just the proper width for senatorial posturing. The roving senator can place his right hand on the desk to the right of the aisle; his left hand on the left desk, and indulge in conversation with the sitting senators for minutes, always looking impressive, and feeling comfortable.

Of course, much of the time that the senator is away from his own desk he cannot be so relaxed. He must be shaking somebody's hand.

Now the chaplain has finished his prayer, and the tardy ones come in.

"That's Borah, look, with the long hair," a woman whispers to her husband.

"See that man with the white hair and the sort of younglsh face?" the husband answers back. "That's Jim Couzens, the richest man in the senate."

But neither need to be told that the senator with the bright red carnation in his buttonhole is Royal S. Copeland of New York. The carnation is inevitable.

Senator McNary, as assistant majority leader, takes charge of "morning hour," an official clearing house for the presentation of resolutions, memorials, reports of committees and other designated business.

Sometime during this "hour," from 12 to 2, the door at the back of the chamber opens and Patrick J. Haltigan, reading clerk of the house of representatives, appears to tell the senate what the house has done.

Mr. Haltigan has a voice that can be heard throughout the galleries and a bow that is magnificent enough for Buckingham palace.

Four Letter Word Meaning Vittles Stirs Up the Senate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The opposition in the senate surrendered to President Hoover today, accepting the drought relief bill in a limited administration form, but not without lusty shouts of defiance. It gave in after a bitter two weeks of controversy, but, in defeat, it nailed to the mast its banner, bearing the legend that whatever Hoover does it will agree to do more.

It was a day of oratory. Tom Heflin of Alabama told how "the rich, in their silks and satins, lolled in luxury, while the wolves prowled about the cabins of poverty"; Barkley of Kentucky hurled in the direction of the White House, "Now we know who it is that is playing politics with human misery"; Democratic Leader Joe Robinson of Arkansas performed the intricate feat of balancing on the fence, where his pledge of coöperation had perched him, and heard Thaddeus H. Caraway, the most modest man with the sharpest tongue in Washington, tell in that bottom land drawl of his of the suffering among the farm folks back home in Arkansas.

Norris Recounts Defeat.

At the end of the day, Senators Norris of Nebraska and Smith of South Carolina — one a radical Republican, the other a Democrat—explained how, as members of the conference committee on the drought bill, they had been forced to accede to the administration's demands.

There was a miniature one-man filibuster that Senator Robert B. Howell, Republican of Nebraska, staged for an hour, interrupting consideration of the department of the interior appropriation bill because of the senate's refusal to take up a bill of his concerning government claims.

The first fault found with the drought bill, as it came out of conference, was not one of money or method, but one of grammar. The diplomatic phrase intended to provide for dispensing food without mentioning food had been put in in a hurry, evidently, and it had fallen in the wrong place.

Tom Walsh Complains.

"It doesn't make sense," complained Tom Walsh of Montana; but "the preceding phrase is clearly parenthetical," Senator Robinson elucidated. And it took many minutes to argue that out.

"Why not say food, if food is meant?" inquired Borah, the belligerent, of Idaho.

"Simply"—Senator Smith was only too willing to let the cat out of the bag—"because the house conferees said they could get by with some changes, but not with the word 'food!'"

"Any man," sniffed Senator Caraway, "that expects to get food through the provisions of this resolution is going to be disappointed."

"Pure, stubborn pride," came from Senator Barkley, referring to the Hoover policy.

"If you'll let me finish what I started to say——" Leader Robinson's voice broke in, patiently. "This measure grants a broad authority. Under its provisions, I believe, the secretary of agriculture has power to loan money, not only for food, but for clothing.

"But what I have been trying to say is that the measure's success depends on the manner in which it is administered. A delay in getting advances under this measure will break down the morale of those whom this legislation is designed to help."

Heflin Emits Words.

Frock coated, white vested, gray trousered, Senator Heflin gathered the galleries' admiration as he opened his contribution with, "This measure does not provide for food. It provides feed for animals, though. It puts the hog above the human; the mule above the man. What a glorious Christmas present to a starving man—to send him hay for his horse."

The 100 million dollar fund for European relief and the $20,000,000 appropriation for Russian relief, both passed immediately following the world war, were hauled out again by Senator Barkley.

"The only way to get food for hungry people is to move them to Russia or China or some foreign land," he declaimed. "If this resolution means food and yet hasn't the courage to say so, then this is a piece of deceptive and dishonest legislation. The President and the secretary of agriculture have quibbled over a word. To say that the government cannot grant relief in the form of food is an unworthy limitation on constitutional power."

And Then Caraway.

Then came Caraway.

"They call it a victory for the President," he sighed. "Well, if it is a victory to do starving women and children out of food, then God bless him; let him pat himself on the back for having won.

"The toilers who produce the nation's wealth by the sweat of their brow will feed the President and the secretary of agriculture tonight, and yet these men strike down the hands begging for some of the bread their toil produced. Those who call the demands of these people who asked for their share a 'raid on the public treasury' show either a monumental ignorance or an absolute lack of veracity.

"The administration has saved a few dollars, but it has destroyed thousands of human hearts. As Wellington said after Waterloo, 'Another victory like this will destroy us!'"

Pyrrhus of Epirus, after his victory over the Romans at Asculum in 279 B. C., noting his own horrible losses, said:

"One more such victory and we are lost."

In Starving Arkansas.

In Arkansas, he said, there were more than eighty thousand farm families existing on the verge of starvation, their whole year's work destroyed by the drought.

"'They asked for bread and ye gave them a stone,'" he quoted sadly.

Back again to a lighter vein with Senator Tom Connally of Texas getting a laugh with, "A a man wrote to me about this bill. I'm going to tell him to stop raising children and go to raising mules."

SENATE PASSES DROUGHT BILL IT FOUGHT SO HARD

Expenditure Is Raised to $45,000,000.

then went to the senate, where it precipitated a discussion which continued several hours. It was finally approved without a record vote. In the debate numerous anti-administration senators took the opportunity to criticize the Hoover program, although it was apparent that they had no intention of trying to block the conference report.

Senator Charles L. McNary [Rep., Ore.], chairman of the senate committee on agriculture, presented the conference agreement in the senate and gave assurance that although the authorization for food loans was dropped out to meet the demands of the administration, the language used was intended to give the secretary of agriculture authority to make loans in an emergency. Under this compromise language loans may be made for "other purposes incident to crop production," besides for seed, fertilizer, feed, and tractor fuel.

Robinson "Satisfied."

Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, who was active in behalf of the original senate bill for a $60,000,000 appropriation and food loans, told the senate that the compromise was satisfactory to him.

Senator Robinson said he construed the compromise language as being broad enough to provide for loans for clothing, as well as for food. He said that if the $45,000,000 total is not sufficient, congress can appropriate more money before it adjourns on March 4.

Senator Robinson said the real value of the bill will depend upon how it is administered by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

The drought loan bill, as it will go to the White House, authorizes the secretary of agriculture to make loans to farmers for the crop of 1931 in the drought, storm and hail stricken areas, "for the purchase of seed of suitable crops, fertilizer, feed for work stock and fuel and oil for tractors, used for crop production, and when necessary to procure such seed, fertilizer, feed and fuel and oil, and for such other purposes incident to crop production as may be prescribed by the secretary of agriculture and sell the same to such farmers."

Building Bill Held Up.

A technical disagreement was reported by senate and house conferees on the emergency construction bill. The house early today approved the partial conference report for total appropriations of 116 millions for highway construction, river and harbor improvements and flood control and then instructed its conferees to insist upon elimination of three senate amendments which were the cause of the disagreement.

The senate, which approved the partial conference report several days ago, took up the three controversial amendments just before it adjourned tonight. A motion was offered by Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the appropriations committee, to recede from two of the amendments relating to highway funds for the states of Alabama and Georgia. After this motion is voted upon tomorrow, he will offer a motion dealing with the Couzens amendment for employment of local labor and payment of highest wage scales under government contracts.

SENATE CONFIRMS 2 OF 5 NOMINEES FOR POWER BOARD JOBS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed two of President Hoover's five nominees to the power commission—Claude L. Draper of Wyoming and Ralph B. Williamson of Washington state—but postponed consideration of the others because of the pressure of relief legislation.

Draper and Williamson were approved by the interstate commerce committee unanimously, but opposition votes were cast against the other nominees — Chairman George Otis Smith of Maine, Marcel Garsaud of Louisiana, and Frank McNinch of North Carolina—and they face contests in the senate.

The senate approved both Draper and Williamson without record vote, but Senator Wheeler [Dem., Mont.] asserted that all five of the President's appointments were "mediocre."

Both Wyoming senators, Carey, Republican, and Kendrick, Democrat, indorsed Draper, whom Kendrick said had served well as a member of the Wyoming public utilities commission. There was no debate on Williamson, except a brief indorsement of him by Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.].

"It must have been a disappointment to every member of the interstate commerce committee when the President sent in the five nominations," Wheeler said. "It is a sad commentary when we see the President so ignoring the wishes of congress."

Identify Woman and 2 Men as Beecher Bank Robbers

Charles Westbrook, Mrs. Agnes Brown, and Charles Belmont, arrested recently in Gary as mail robbery suspects, have been identified as participants in the $4,800 robbery on Dec. 4 of a Beecher bank, it was announced last night by Sheriff Oliver Flint of Will county at Joliet. Westbrook is being held by Chicago postal authorities and will be prosecuted first for a mail robbery. Belmont and Mrs. Brown are held at Joliet under $20,000 bonds each.

RECORD REFUTES STORY OF WOLFE, ALBERT CHARGES

Find Wabash Contract Evidence in Letter.

Richard W. Wolfe, commissioner of public works, in defending himself Thursday against charges of contract irregularities, said he did not know of additional work done in the construction of the viaduct approach to the Wabash avenue bridge. City hall records in conflict with Wolfe's testimony were disclosed yesterday.

So specifically do the records contradict Wolfe's testimony, in the opinion of Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d], that the alderman is demanding that Wolfe be recalled for an explanation before the council committee on efficiency, economy, and rehabilitation.

Statement Is Quoted.

In a prepared statement handed to the aldermen at Thursday's session of the committee Wolfe stated:

"About Oct. 1 Joseph E. Moody, consulting engineer, department of public works, called to my attention the fact that vouchers had been drawn for the payment of additional items in connection with the caisson construction below 75 feet. This additional work was done entirely without my knowledge, consent, or approval."

On July 30, 1930, a letter was written over Wolfe's signature in which Wolfe asked the city clerk for three certified copies of the substitute ordinance passed by the council on July 29, 1930, relating to the Wabash avenue bridge improvement. Three copies of the substitute ordinance were forwarded to him July 31, the day after the letter was written.

The substitute ordinance contains the authority for the additional work of which Wolfe pleaded ignorance until informed of it by Mr. Moody "about Oct. 1."

Involves Work in Question.

The contradiction of Wolfe's testimony by the letter, in the opinion of Ald. Albert, is of major importance as it is this additional caisson work that the committee has under investigation. So far the committee has found that the Ketler-Elliot company is charging the city $10 a cubic foot for this caisson construction while the low bidder on the entire contract, the E. J. Albrecht company, offered a price of $2. The difference between the two prices on the amount of work done totals approximately $161,000.

In another place in his statement Wolfe said:

"I bitterly censured Mr. Moody for not having informed me about this additional work before. He stated that he had just learned about it."

The July 30 letter to the city clerk bore the signature also of Mr. Moody.

Ald. Albert said that Wolfe by asking for the substitute ordinance implied that he had knowledge of changes in the original ordinance. As the change was made to provide the additional work by extending the viaduct one block, Albert inferred that Wolfe must have known about the extra work on July 30.

STATE ST. ASKS TIME TO DRAFT SUBWAY CHANGES

Owners to File Protest on Plans Today.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

State street property owners, who are asked to pay 65 per cent of the cost of the subway, say they demand a fair opportunity to examine the plans for it and suggest improvements in them. They called on Mayor Thompson yesterday and told him that they want a subway, but they question whether the city design best serves the comfort and convenience of the car riders and promotes public welfare.

In order to obtain adequate time to have a study made of the subway plans by two capable engineers, the State street committee will file a majority report with the board of local improvements today. The property owners said they were not entirely satisfied with the changes offered yesterday at a conference of all of the engineers concerned in Architect Ernest R. Graham's office. They deemed the consideration too hurried.

Decide on Action.

The State street committee, headed by John T. Pirie, met in the afternoon and decided to see Thompson. In the delegation were Chairman Pirie, D. F. Kelly, James Simpson, Walter Gregory, Elmer Rich, Francis E. Manniere, and William B. Hale, attorney for the owners.

At the city hall the property owners said they wanted to reach an accord as soon as practicable. It was also asserted that they have no intention to block subways, retard progress, or in any way hamper the project, but that they desire the design which will give the greatest utility and service possible within practical considerations.

President Faherty of the board of local improvements was called in and he is said to have indicated a spirit of cooperation.

Plans Are Revealed.

Asked the program of the property owners, Attorney William B. Hale said: "The committee will meet this morning at 9:30 o'clock to determine its course. Generally speaking, the committee desires to obtain two highly competent engineers to look over the city plans and to suggest improvements in them."

Mr. Hale was asked what he thought of the city lawyers' warning that legal complications are likely to follow a new special assessment proceeding such as is likely to follow the protest.

"I do not fear such complications," was the reply. "It is possible that legal difficulties would arise if each signer of the petition did not consent to the withdrawal. But each signer has conferred the power of attorney on me to withdraw the petition whenever a majority of the property owners' committee decides it shall be done."

Saving Is Pointed Out.

It is understood that the property owners' experts have told them that two feet can be gained in space for the public in the subway plans, partly by the use of Silica steel and partly by other means. This saving in space, the property owners were informed, can be used to raise the subway or to raise the ceiling of the mezzanine concourse, or to raise the floor of the concourse.

The owners' engineers are also certain it is practicable to extend the concourse southward from Congress street to 8th street. They also reported favorably on other changes which the owners deem advisable.

Ald. Bowler, chairman of the council local transportation committee, indicated a desire to cooperate with the property owners yesterday.

"I shall talk with Ald. Nelson, chairman of the special assessment committee to obtain a joint meeting of the two committees," said Ald. Bowler. "I think we should ask the property owners to obtain the best subway engineers in the country. If anything better can be designed, I favor it.

"I would favor having a subcommittee of aldermen call upon the property owners' committee and offer to help them make public their policies and plans."

David A. Wallace and Edward J. Noonan of the aldermanic engineering staff have been sent east to examine certain features of subway construction.

Fire in Radio Factory Ties Up S. Side Traffic

Traffic at Cottage Grove avenue and 63d street was tied up for nearly an hour late last night by fire which swept through the two story building of the Midget Radio corporation, 6318 Cottage Grove avenue, across the street from the Tivoli theater. Damage was estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000 by Division Marshal Anthony Mullaney. The blaze originated from unknown causes in the first floor rear of the structure.

Village Collects Truckload for Needy; Can't Find Any

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The leading citizens of the village of Westfalls, near here, thought they ought to provide a cheery Christmas for the needy. So they got busy and solicited food, clothing, and other necessities. They obtained a whole truckload, then they found there were no needy in the village. The truckload of supplies was sent to Buffalo for distribution among the city's poor.

FIVE GUNMEN STEAL TRUCK.

Five gunmen yesterday took a truck loaded with butter and eggs, valued at $800, from its driver at Des Plaines and Taylor streets. The truck belonged to Shraiberg, Schaefer & Skor Co., 716 West Randolph street, and was driven by Michael Shraiberg, a member of the concern.

MOLOTOFF IS NEW SOVIET PREMIER; RYKOFF 'RESIGNS'

Stalin Wins Round in Fight with Foes.

MOSCOW, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Complying with his request the central executive committee today relieved Alexis I. Rykoff from the chairmanship of the council of people's commissars of the soviet union.

He will be succeeded by Viacheslav Mikhailovich Molotoff, who is one of the three secretaries of the communist party, is a member of the polit bureau, and also a member of the presidium of the central executive committee of the communist party.

The possibility of a shakeup in the administrative posts in the soviet government has loomed for some time, centering about Rykoff himself, whose post corresponds to that of premier in other countries.

Was Successor to Lenin.

Rykoff was seriously criticized by various organizations throughout the union because of his former "right wing" activities and the likelihood that he would request his retirement has been growing stronger. The only other man to have held this post was Lenin himself, Rykoff having been appointed after Lenin's death.

Last spring Rykoff, Michael P. Tomsky, and N. A. Uglanov appeared before the all-union congress of the communist party and "confessed" their sins as members of the right wing, promising to support the party's policies in the future. Uglanov was dropped as commissar of labor and Tomsky was ousted as head of the soviet trade union, but Rykoff was able to hold on to his post.

With the retirement of Rykoff Joseph Stalin, long powerful in the ranks of the communist party as its secretary, has further consolidated his position as the dominant figure in the soviet union, for he has long opposed the policies of the right wing.

HAS HELD MANY POSTS.

Rykoff has held important posts in the soviet government ever since the communists first came into power in Russia and in 1921 was first assistant to Lenin. He was a member of the soviet mission which conferred with the allied and German diplomats at Berlin on Russian reconstruction late in 1921 and was appointed vice president of the council of people's commissars that same year.

With Stalin and Kameneff he held high places in the councils of Lenin and it was he who headed the reorganized Russian cabinet formed in 1924.

After Lenin's death and his election as chairman of the council of people's commissars, he became the outstanding figure in the soviet union, but Stalin grew in strength and in time outstripped him to see his own policies triumph.

73 Concerns Here Founded Before 1858 Still Going

A survey of local business houses by the Chicago Association of Commerce reveals that out of 120 concerns organized during and before 1857 73 are still in operation. One of these companies has been in constant operation since 1835. Among those founded before 1849 are C. D. Peacock, Inc., the Hotel Sherman company, Joseph T. Ryerson & Son, the International Harvester company, Chicago Board of Trade, J. W. Butler Paper corporation and the Booth Fisheries company.

"FISHING SMACK'S" FISH ARE OF RUBBER, BUT HER RUM IS REAL

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—With frozen fingers the dozen occupants of the fishing schooner Edith were occupied early this morning with their catch in the narrows, when a coast guard patrol boat hove alongside.

The anti-rum craft was the C. G-180. The coast guardsmen had ignored two speed boats which had endeavored to arrest their attention from the Edith by suspicious maneuvers.

The Edith was seized and the fish piled on deck were found to be rubber. Exactly 1,500 cases of assorted cordials and whiskies were discovered in her holds. A tentative value of $90,000 was the official estimate of the contraband spirits. The coast guardsmen groaned when they learned that the Edith had been "fishing" off the Battery since 1922.

WIDOW KILLED IN PLUNGE FROM GOTHAM HOTEL

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Walter Rutherfurd, 74 year old widow, long prominent in New York society, plunged to her death today from a window of her tenth floor suite at the Hotel Navarre, on Central Park South.

Mrs. Rutherfurd was the mother of John M. L. Rutherfurd, sportsman, of Palm Beach and New York. The son's second wife, the former Florence Crozer, won a divorce from him Dec. 5 in West Palm Beach on the ground of extreme cruelty, charging that he twisted her wrists, threw water in her face, struck her, and "permanently injured" her "in mind and body."

The elder Mrs. Rutherfurd, whose husband has been dead for years, had been in ill health for some time.

Oil Executive Killed.

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 19.—(AP)—John C. Howard, president and general manager of the Utah Oil Refining company, died last night from injuries suffered last night in a six story fall to the lobby of an office building here.

THREE GAS BOMBS BURST IN HAVANA; CHARGE RED PLOT

[Copyright, 1930: By the New York Times.]

HAVANA, Dec. 19.—Three large bombs containing an undetermined asphyxiating gas and several containing potassium chlorate exploded in various parts of this capital today. There was considerable panic among the people, but no casualties were recorded. The explosions occurred almost simultaneously at Habana and Obispo streets, Habana and Tejadillo and Prado and Colon. Other bombs exploded at the Café Central at Monte and Belascoain streets.

The police attribute the explosions to communist efforts to terrorize the city during the present unrest and the activities in opposition to President Machado's administration. Two communists were arrested as suspects.

A secret arsenal containing large quantities of explosives, as well as weapons, was discovered at Camaguey and led to the arrest of Jose Pavon and Manuel Sanchez, communists.

Policeman in Ill Health Ends Life with Bullet

Peter Murphy, 39 years old, a city policeman for the last ten years and assigned to the Deering station, shot himself to death about 2 o'clock this morning in his home at 900 West 53d street. He left his bed to send a bullet through his heart. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Murphy, and a brother, Henry, also a policeman, ascribed the suicide to ill health.

COUNTY REJECTS LOW MILK BID; IT IS NONUNION

The public service committee of the county board yesterday rejected bids for milk for county institutions because the Wagner Dairy company, the low bidder, employed nonunion help. The company was told that if it unionized its drivers, it might have the contract.

The Wagner company's bid was 6 to 8 cents a gallon less than the bids of other companies. There was no discussion of the quality of the milk offered to such institutions as the county hospital, juvenile home, and Oak Forest Infirmary, but the main concern of the commissioners centered about the question of union labor.

Last week the board saved $8,000 by awarding a printing contract to a nonunion firm. Pressure from organized labor was said to have been severe upon the commissioners since then.

All bids were rejected by the committee and an order issued to advertise again. Commissioner Frank J. Kasper reported that he had informed officials of the Wagner company that they must unionize their drivers. He said the officials indicated they would do so.

President Cermak, before a meeting of the forest preserve committee, defended appraisals and purchases of land for the forest preserves. At a meeting Thursday the new commissioners ordered an investigation of land purchases, declaring the prices paid seemed too high.

President Cermak declared that any deviation from the practice of following recommendations of the citizens' advisory committee, headed by Abel Davis, vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, would meet with his veto. The commissioners, vociferous in their charges on the day previous, subsided, although a woman commissioner was heard to inquire: "Who is this Abel Davis?"

However, the committee then approved recommendations of the advisory committee providing for the expenditure of $335,000 on forest preserve improvements. Several swimming pools, large shelter houses and two golf courses are planned for the forest preserves.

The women commissioners at the meeting voiced indignation at published reports of the committee hearings. Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb said she didn't like to be grouped with the three other women commissioners in the phrase "women commissioners." Mrs. Edward J. Fleming said she thought newspaper reporters should be excluded from the meetings.

TAKEN AS AN EMBEZZLER.

Charged with embezzling $1,800, Saul L. Pintchuk, 35 years old, 4746 Woodlawn avenue, was arrested yesterday by Hyde Park police. The charge was preferred by Mal. J. Warner member of the real estate company of Todd & Warner, 105 West Monroe street, for which Pintchuk was formerly a salesman.

SHORTER BALLOT IS CONSIDERED BY GOVERNOR'S BODY

Ready to Draft Report on Election Laws.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Trimming of the blanket ballot which wraps itself around the feet of the voter in the polling booth and trips him in a maze of candidates is one of the projected reforms taken under advisement yesterday by the state commission on election laws appointed by Gov. L. L. Emmerson. Other suggested changes are a permanent registration, fewer elections and a revamping aimed at getting back to the two party system.

The commission, which is composed of Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, chairman; Gen. Milton J. Foreman and Judge James S. Baldwin of Decatur, held its final public hearing, after a series of sessions throughout the state. After New Year's it will draft its recommendations to submit to the governor and the legislature.

Favor Convention System.

In its trips through the state, the commission reports it has uncovered a growing dissatisfaction downstate with the direct primary system and an increasing sentiment in favor of a return to the old convention system. Among the suggestions presented to the members has been one urging that the present primary act be repealed and a new law substituted providing for primaries at which delegates to conventions should be elected by popular vote, similar to one of the early primary acts twenty years ago knocked out by the Supreme court.

The commission, however, does not contemplate recommending repeal of direct primaries, deeming that it would meet with too strong opposition at Springfield and would reduce the chances of other reforms passing.

Plan as Suggested.

Chief among the fifty changes in election laws, which have been suggested during the hearings, are the following proposals, which are now under advisement:

1—That one day be set apart each year for elections and that it be a holiday. For example, on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November elections be held as follows:

1930—State, county, legislative, congressional.
1931—City and towns.
1932—Presidential, congressional, state, county.
1933—Township, school, etc. And so on every four years. The proposed plan would not change the judicial elections in June and it would make city offices four year terms.

2—A state-wide system of permanent registration. When a voter registers he signs a card, which is part of the permanent files. On election days, the cards are taken to the polls. When a voter asks for a ballot he must sign a slip which is compared with the signature on the card.

3—Two sets of judges, one shift to come on an hour before closing and take charge of the counting.

4—Longer hours for voting.

More Names on Petitions.

5—Increase the number of names required on petitions of candidacies.

6—Abolish the circle for all independent candidates. Group them in one or more colums, rotating the names, thus cutting off the expanse of white paper on the right side of the ballot now caused by giving each independent a separate column.

7—Hold the primaries in August or September instead of April.

8—Have the voter register his politics at time of registration and if he desires to change it he must do so before registration officials in ample time for the primary.

9—Increase the percentage of votes necessary to the formation of a new party.

10—Amend 'absent voters' law to include sick, disabled, etc., voters, and have a special official absent voters' ballot.

Reduce Number of Names.

11—Eliminate from ballot certain clerical officers, not established by the constitution, and make them appointive.

12. Number the ballots, the number to be torn off before ballot is put in ballot box to prevent the present chain voting.

To avoid a repetition of what happened in the judicial election last year when two or three men met in caucus and filed judicial tickets filled with unauthorized names of lawyers who then had to file withdrawals, Dan Carey of the county election department suggested changing the definition, requirements and powers of such "caucuses."

Three recommendations were made by Vincent Y. Dallman and J. K. Payton of Springfield. They suggested the pay of judges and clerks be raised to a minimum of $10 a day to get better qualified men and women, and that absentee ballots be sent by registered mail. The third suggestion was that all voters give their ages as a means of identification. This raised doubts among some of the experts, who held it might rouse objections especially among the women voters.

"The great need," said Judge Jarecki, "is to accomplish changes that will help restore the fundamental of a two party system, with two virile parties."

MISS SEBASTIAN, WILLIAM BOYD, OF FILMS WED

Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Dorothy Sebastian, film actress, was married today to William Boyd, also of the films, and wept during most of the brief ceremony.

"I guess it's just habit," she said, a smile breaking through the tears.

The Brice hotel room was the setting. William Scott, clerk of the District court, brought the license to the hotel, and R. W. Walker, friend of Boyd, paid for it. Walker explained Boyd had paid for his when he was married in Phoenix, Ariz.

Miss Sebastian, who gave her age as 26, indicated on the license application she had been married previously and divorced in Birmingham, Ala., her birthplace, six years ago. It was the third marriage for Boyd, who is 33 years old. The late Diana Miller, actress, divorced him in 1924. His second wife, Elinor Faire, also of the films, divorced him last year.

WOMAN LEAVES INJURED VICTIM IN STOLEN AUTO

Starts for Hospital, but Deserts Car.

Abandoned in a stolen car driven by a woman, which had struck him down, Patrick Bradley, 63 years old, 8041 South Ada street, a veteran street car motorman, was found an hour later and taken to St. Bernard's hospital, where his condition was pronounced critical.

Seven hours after the accident the woman driver, Mrs. Margaret Albano, 30 years old, 1110 West 64th street, surrendered to Englewood police and was ordered held at the Hyde Park annex. She named William McDaniels, 1411 Hyde Park boulevard, as her companion at the time of the mishap. He is sought. The machine, stolen last May from Paul Hartwick, 1743 North Karlov avenue, had been traced to him earlier through license plates.

Abandoned in Auto.

Bradley was hit at 59th street and Racine avenues. Mrs. Albano offered to drive him to a nearby hospital. Instead she abandoned him in the machine at 63d and Morgan streets. According to her story, McDaniels deserted her there on the pretext of seeking a doctor and she also left after a wait of several minutes.

Frank Blum, 40 years old, 1507 West 41st street, was fatally injured when his automobile crashed head on into a street car at Ashland avenue and 44th street. His companion, Frank Harper, 22 years old, 5735 South Ashland avenue, is in the Southwest General hospital in a serious condition.

According to witnesses, the accident happened when Blum swung his car over to the left side of the street while passing two automobiles. The crash showered fifteen passengers on the car with broken window glass.

Three Other Deaths Listed.

This death and three others raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 1,079. The other victims.

George J. Thilben, 39 years old, 1357 North La Salle street. Died in the Henrotin hospital of injuries received Thursday when he was struck by an automobile at La Salle and Schiller streets. The driver was Gustav Anders, 40 years old, 600 Diversey parkway.

William Crilly, 16 years old, 235 9th avenue, La Grange. Killed last night by the automobile of a hit and run driver in front of 4143 West Lake street. The boy was walking across the street when struck.

CRUSADER CHIEF HERE FOR WAR AGAINST DRYS

Codman Cites Victories of Wets at Polls.

A trim, crisp spoken New Englander, Col. Julian Codman, came to Chicago yesterday to size up the wet and dry sentiment in the central states.

Col. Codman, member of a family prominent in Boston since colonial times, has been a militant anti-prohibitionist ever since the Volstead law was adopted. In 1924, as counsel for the American Federation of Labor and associated wet organizations, and again in 1926, he handled presentation of anti-prohibition evidence before house and senate judiciary committees.

Now, at the request of Maj. Henry Curran, head of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, he has resigned his post as special counsel for that group to become executive commander of the Crusaders, representing the younger men opposed to prohibition. He was occupied yesterday in conferences with David R. Forgan Jr., head of the Chicago battalion of the Crusaders, and Col. Ira L. Reeves, executive secretary of the local group.

Cites Wet Victories at Polls.

"This last election told the story of America's sentiment on prohibition," Col. Codman observed. "We beat the drys in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Illinois, and half a dozen other states, including Ohio, the cradle of the Anti-Saloon league. It may sound trite to say, but the situation is that we have just begun to fight.

"This week we are organizing a battalion of the Crusaders in Evanston, birthplace of the W. C. T. U. Next week we will be going to St. Louis. There are other cities—Kansas City, Omaha, Salt Lake, St. Paul, and Minneapolis—where we must be strongly organized before the election of 1932.

"My job is to coördinate the work of the Crusaders and the Association Against Prohibition. Some one has said: 'Old men for counsel, young men for war.' The association can provide the counsel and the Crusaders will make the war.

"Still Full of Fight."

"Perhaps I might be disqualified in point of age," he smiled, rubbing his gray head, "but I served with the A. E. F. overseas and I'm still full of fight. In the recent Massachusetts wet and dry referendum the drys spent $98,000 and our Constitutional Liberty league spent $28,000. We gave them the soundest beating they ever took in the old Bay state."

Declining to comment on the possible significance of the New Jersey federal court decision invalidating the 18th amendment, Col. Codman pointed out that the District court decision need have no bearing on the argument before the Supreme court. The anti-prohibition lawyers have the privilege of renewing every argument rejected by the district judge and throwing his opinion in for further weight, Col. Codman said.

DIES WHILE PREPARING DINNER.

Mrs. Rosalie Lazzara, 87 years old, died of a heart attack yesterday while preparing dinner in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary Lenweber, at 3657 North Francisco avenue.

COLLEGE GIRLS PLAY MARKET (IN CLASSROOM)

Next "Wolf" of Street May Be Feminine.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The future wizards of Wall street will be women if Barnard college has its way. Barnard is that part of Columbia university dedicated to feminine education and today the girls are busy taking classroom "flyers" in the stock market, organizing mythical "pools" and raiding the list generally from Abitibi to Zenith Radio and imaginary money. Such petty problems of the future as keeping household budgets probably will be delegated to mythical husbands by these Hetty Greens of tomorrow.

The class in financial organization and investment is a brand new course for the junior and senior girls at Barnard. The college authorities took a look at the present condition of the financial world and decided a feminine slant on the economic situation might prove of considerable value. Dr. Elizabeth F. Baker, who spent a year in a downtown bank after receiving her doctor's degree, undertook the development of the class.

Learning About Margins.

The young women, it is said at the college, are taking as much interest in the stock market as a bank clerk caught short and the class has a capacity enrollment. Great expectations are held that the next "Wolf of Wall Street" will wear petticoats—if petticoats happen to be in style. At any rate the girls are getting their education in marginland on paper.

This is the method the young women financiers pursue to get their theoretical knowledge of what makes stocks go up and down and why it takes as much technique to perform a financial operation as it does to make the Rolls [or biscuit] rise.

At the organization of the class, each of the students paid in an imaginary $1,000 to the Barnard pool. Then $10,000 was invested in stocks, an equal amount in bonds, and a comfortable balance was left for speculative purposes. The girls were told to study the stocks and bonds, make their choices and tell why. Motion picture and copper stocks proved the most popular, but railroad, industrial and utility issues also were bought purely for educational purposes.

Purchase Store Bonds.

The young women, it was revealed, went in strong for department store bonds and the interest rate in other "purchases" had considerable appeal to them. The history of each organization behind the stocks and bonds selected, the names of which were not disclosed, were carefully studied for gains and losses as based on actual market fluctuations.

The girls now are learning the mysteries of financial reports, standard statistics, and scientific analyses. At least once a month they will visit the Stock exchange and the present crop of Wall street experts [male] have been invited to take the subway up to the college to lecture to them.

To lend the personal touch each girl was instructed to invest an imaginary $1,000 of her "own" money in anything that looked good and buy the Wall street editions for a daily report on her selection. Some of the girls took advantage of the opportunity and "invested" staggering sums of their private imaginary money, but this seemed to have little effect on the trend of the market.

RAILROAD TRAVEL BOOMING; EXTRA TRAINS CROWDED

Lines Report Heavy Rush of Holiday Business.

Christmas rail travel, cross-continent and to the south, has not followed the curve of the depression, but is booming along with as much or greater volume than last season.

Inquiries among the passenger traffic managers of a number of lines brought this heartening word yesterday. Some roads are experiencing better business, others are "normal," and none has been pinched to an appreciable degree. More people are traveling, taking advantage of the prevailing rates to the coast and below the Mason-Dixon line.

These special fares, consisting in the main of fare and one-third prices for round trips with Pullman accommodations, have forced the roads to add extra cars and even extra sections for vacationists who chose the winter for their annual holiday.

C., B. & Q. Adds Sections.

This fact was especially evident in the report of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad. This morning its "Aristocrat," bound for Denver and intermediate points, will run in two sections and the traffic volume will also necessitate the same extras when the "Nebraska" pulls out for Omaha at 6:15 p. m. tonight.

The Rock Island's trade to Arizona and California is now booked to such a degree that the Golden State Limited, its crack train, will consist of two sections several times between now and Christmas day, the officials said. Holiday business is heavier this year than last, Vice President L. M. Allen reported.

The Chicago and North Western has a "good" holiday business. Sale of California tickets started in earnest three days ago, and the Milwaukee, Madison, St. Paul, and Duluth demand is quite as satisfactory as the California sale, one official said. He called the travel better than in the 1929 season.

Milwaukee Road Travel Heavy.

Last night was one of the heaviest business nights the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad has had in many months, extra coaches and sleepers west and south being necessitated.

The Baltimore and Ohio and other eastern lines do not have the western rates, but in spite of this the B. & O. is carrying extra sections on the Capital Limited to Washington. Two will be needed today. On Christmas eve the passengers will gather around a tree as the train speeds east and presents will be distributed to the children aboard.

E. H. Batchelder, general passenger agent for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois, reported a heavy business, equal to last year's. Locally and to the south the increase is most noticeable, he said.

The heaviest passenger movement experienced by the Santa Fe railway in years was described by W. J. Black, passenger traffic manager.

About 1,500 travelers will arrive here this morning over the Stanta Fe from southern California, the largest contingent going east for the holidays in Mr. Black's memory.

Student Masses Moving.

The homeward rush of college and preparatory school students, a seasonal affair, is just as heavy, all roads reported. Schools east, south, north and west are discharging hundreds of boys and girls here daily.

For Chicago, the holidays and their festival demands are aiding employment markedly. James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, said yesterday that demands for orchestras for private parties and home dances will put 1,000 musicians to work in holiday week who are at present unemployed. This is about the same as last year's demand, he said.

Several catering concerns and wholesale dealers in fine foods said they were having normal and, in some cases, increased business for Christmas entertainments. A. M. Dunn, manager of the Home Delicacies association, said his business had necessitated several extra employés in the last few days.

Clubs and hotels are preparing to handle record crowds on New Year's eve and have found their reservation lists well along to completion this far ahead.

AWAIT RULINGS ON IMPORTED NEWSPRINT TEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Two treasury department decisions, bearing upon the quality of imported news print, were reported at the customs bureau of the treasury today, to be awaiting important tests in New York, the results of which will be of wide interest to American newspaper publishers.

One case, involving the ash content of nondutiable paper, already is in the courts, while the second, involving the thickness of such paper, is likely to be contested if the treasury decision on that point is made effective. It is the contention of the publishers that the treasury decisions tend to keep down the standard of news print in America.

Under the tariff law standard news print of the kind used by American papers is permitted to enter this country duty free. The customs bureau of the treasury department, however, determines by its decisions the specifications for such standard paper and these specifications bear directly upon the quality of paper which can profitably be used for newspaper purposes.

Factor of Ash Content.

Treasury decision 40966 of June 29, 1925, limits the ash content of standard newsprint paper to two per cent. It is this ruling which has been challenged in one of the cases, that of the Hudson Trading company of New York, which recently received a shipment of newsprint containing approximately 5 per cent ash. New York customs officials assessed a duty of $3,000. The company paid under protest and filed a claim for a refund in the United States Customs court at New York. The case has been set for trial on Jan. 12.

The second ruling at issue is that contained in treasury decision 44317 of Oct. 21, 1930, providing that standard newsprint shall not exceed .004 of an inch in thickness. This new decision would affect paper known as "novel news," a kind of paper similar to that used in some Sunday supplements and special departments.

Pass on "Novel News."

As the thickness provision did not go into effect until Nov. 20, thirty days after its promulgation, it has not yet been applied to a specific shipment so far as is known to the Washington customs officials. They have been informed, however, that a shipment of "novel news" will reach New York shortly and that a test case is likely to be made.

The American Newspaper Publishers' association has interested itself in both the ash content and thickness rulings.

FIGURES TREATY FLEET COST TO U. S. AT A BILLION

Pratt Tells House Group How to Get Parity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, advised the house naval committee today that the cost of building up the American fleet to the maximum tonnage limits of the London naval treaty would amount to a billian and a quarter dollars, if spread over a ten year period. The annual cost for this new construction designed to give this country approximate tonnage parity with Great Britain was set at 110 millions by the navy spokesman.

The treaty cost figures were included in a communication submitted to the committee at the request of Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] and Representative Carl A. Vinson [Dem., Ga.] ranking minority member. They represented the first studied estimates of expenditures needed under the treaty that have been presented to congress since Secretary of the Navy Adams recommended congressional approval of a 134 million navy construction program for 1932.

Replacements for Vessels.

Because of the deterioration of the United States fleet in recent years due to delays in building cruisers and replacements for aging vessels, virtually two-thirds of the fleet will have to be replaced before 1942 if a treaty navy of modern ships is to be acquired, the Pratt figures disclosed. His estimates of needed new building included 402,000 tons of cruisers, aircraft carriers, submarines and destroyers, some now building, plus 350,000 tons of battleships, a total of 752,000 tons. This compares with the 103,600 tons of combatant warships permitted the United States under the London treaty which expires Dec. 31, 1936.

One of the features of Admiral Pratt's report was his disclosure that the navy hopes to begin replacement of battleships immediately after the expiration of the London treaty in December, 1936. The program assumes that ten battleships of 35,000 tons would be laid down and completed during the ten year period. The cost of each battleship was estimated at $42,000,000.

Regulate Cost Yearly.

The billion and a quarter estimate included 150,000,000 dollars for aircraft needed if the fleet is to be built up to treaty strength. Other ships built would include 73,000 tons of six inch gun cruisers in addition to completion of eighteen 10,000 ton eight inch cruisers permitted by treaty, 69,000 tons of aircraft carriers, including one 13,600 ton vessel for which a contract has been let, 150,000 tons of destroyers, the treaty limit, and at least 30,000 tons of submarines.

"In order to regulate the costs per year," Admiral Pratt stated, "it is fair to extend the expenditures for building over a number of years, and ten years is taken as a fair length of time. If we build to the full figure allowed by the treaty, the total cost for combatant ships should be about one billion 100 million, plus 150 million for aircraft. This would leave us with the full quota of battleships, which is fifteen, the entire aircraft carrier tonnage built up to, the entire cruiser tonnage as provided under the present treaty, 150,000 tons of destroyers built and 52,700 tons of submarines.

Other Nations Add Warships.

"This gives us a picture of what the navy would be called upon to expend and to maintain if we were to build it up and maintain it at full strength, and including the entire air program in addition."

Admiral Pratt pointed out that while other nations were adding warships to their fleets, during the past Washington treaty period, the United States was taking a virtual holiday in cruiser building. He urged a parity fleet, stating that the time has not yet come when the United States can be assured there will be no more wars.

With a treaty fleet, the admiral said, the United States would have the power of choice in any future world war. With a treaty fleet, the hand of the United States could not be forced, he said. His view was that the United States with parity could maintain its neutrality "or throw in our weight on the side we deem to be right."

PERPIGNAN, France, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A Senegalese soldier, barricaded behind the steel doors of a concrete vault at Fort Duserrat, was holding 2,000 troops, gendarmes and policemen at bay as darkness fell tonight.

The Senegalese suddenly went amok at noon, shooting and killing three soldiers and wounding two. Then he took refuge in the subterranean vault.

Two other soldiers were wounded in trying to capture the Senegalese and the commander of the fort decided upon a regular seige. Tear gas bombs were used.

DOLE SYSTEM IN BRITAIN CALLED PERIL TO NATION

Investigators Told It Retards Industry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Great Britain's dole was treated to a relentless attack at the first sitting of the royal commission on unemployment insurance today by witnesses who charged that the payment of relief to the unemployed is retarding industrial reorganization, fostering the occasional employment of labor, lowering wage scales, and demoralizing both laborers and employers.

The chief witness was Sir Francis Floud, permanent secretary of the ministry of labor. Sir Francis said the greatest problem confronting the country is what to do with 400,000 persons, who come under the clauses of the unemployment insurance act dealing with transitional employment, but who still are able to collect $120,000,000 annually from the exchequer on dole.

Climbs 140,000 in Year.

He declared that this class has climbed by 140,000 during the present year and amplified his testimony to show that in many quarters this system of relief is regarded as one of the most vicious influences on the industrial structure.

"There is growing criticism of the unemployment insurance scheme on account of the belief that the benefit is paid in many cases which are alleged to be outside the proper scope of any such scheme, although within the letter of the present scheme, as in the cases of married women, week-end, casual, and season workers," Sir Francis declared. "There is also criticism of the scheme on the ground that it encourages uneconomic short time working which facilitates arrangements by employers which lead to occasional employment of labor, thus hampering industrial reorganization, impeding the mobility of labor, and reverting to the system of subsidizing wages out of the unemployment fund, which is thoroughly uneconomic and may in the long run tend to depress wage rates in the trades affected."

Detrimental to Morale.

It was also suggested today that the scheme is having a detrimental effect on the morale both of employers and workers, and that it is leading to reliance on state support and to slackening of individual enterprise.

James F. Price, ministry of labor secretary, in charge of the fund, admitted that the benefits of unemployment insurance are abused in some cases.

Hugh Corby Fox Jr. Is Divorced by Boston Wife

Boston, Mass., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emily Wentworth Fox, Boston social leader, was granted an uncontested divorce today from Hugh Corby Fox Jr. of New York, who is about to leave Washington for diplomatic service in Buenos Aires. Their marriage was the highlight of the Boston society season in 1928.

FARM EDITOR TELLS HOW G. O. P. TRIED TO BEAT SENATOR NORRIS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The senate campaign funds committee was informed today that Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, assisted in the fight against the reelection of Senator Norris, Republican, Neb.

Charles I. Stengle, editor of the National Farm News, printed here by the Independent Publishing company, told the committee in a dramatic appearance that Lucas placed an order with him last October for literature appealing for the defeat of Norris and the election of Gilbert M. Hitchcock, the Democratic nominee.

Lucas was summoned to appear tomorrow, along with William E. Murray, who was said by the committee to have made a survey for the national party organization of the Nebraska situation before the election.

Stengle, a former member of congress from New York, said Lucas placed the order with him about the middle of October, paid for it in cash, and handed him a further order that it be shipped to "John M. Fetters, Omaha National Bank building, Omaha."

IOWANS RESENT HOOVER ACTION ON NEWSPAPER

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Iowans were somewhat surprised today by the action of President Hoover in pressing a gold telegraph key in Washington to start machinery at Muscatine, Ia., of the Midwest Free Press, newspaper sponsored by Norman T. Baker of Muscatine.

Baker is known in Iowa as sponsor of a secret cancer cure and as the owner of radio station KTNT at Muscatine. Over this station he has attacked the American Medical association.

Four employés of Baker's cancer institute were enjoined last October from practicing medicine without a license by Judge C. L. Ely at Muscatine, but the state's application for an injunction against Baker himself was refused. The court declared there was evidence that Baker had practiced without a license, but before the period covered in this case.

Baker used his radio station to bring cancer sufferers to his institute where cancers and other ailments were treated.

SHEPARD JUST A FLAPPER'S DUPE, DEFENSE CLAIM

Poison Murder Case Goes to Jury Today.

Kansas City, Kas., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Contrasting pictures of Maj. Charles A. Shepard as a diabolical poisoner who took his wife's life because of his love for another woman, and as a wronged man—the victim of a chain of circumstances cleverly linked against him by government agents—were drawn in final arguments today in the army medical officer's murder trial. The case will be given to the jury tomorrow.

L. E. Wyman, assistant district attorney, presented the prosecution's side of the case today, and C. L. Kagey of Beloit, Kas., former United States minister to Finland, argued for acquittal.

Wyman told the jury that Shepard fell in love with Miss Grace Brandon, blonde stenographer of San Antonio, Tex., and poisoned his wife, Mrs. Zenna Shepard, at Fort Riley, Kas., in 1929, so that he could marry the girl.

Called an "Army Flapper."

Kagey characterized Miss Brandon as "an army post flapper" who, he asserted, "trapped" the 59 year old defendant. The attorney argued that Shepard thought the girl really loved him, that his life with Mrs. Shepard had been so unhappy that he was in need of sympathy and did the natural thing in turning to Miss Brandon, to whom he became engaged after the death of his wife.

Kagey characterized Shepard's love letters to the girl as "pure and clean."

"Certainly," he said, "the government did not prove anything criminal in those love letters."

He asserted that Shepard could have obtained a divorce from Mrs. Shepard from any court on the evidence brought out in the trial as to her overindulgence in liquor and use of narcotics.

Prosecutor Counters.

The assistant district attorney ridiculed Shepard's contention that it was a natural thing for him to send gifts to Miss Brandon after his wife died.

"For twenty-five days," Wyman asserted, "he tortured that woman [Mrs. Shepard]. He tortured her with the white sword of mercury. He stood by her bed and watched her starve to death."

Wyman scoffed at the suggestion that Mrs. Shepard had committed suicide and stressed the fact that Shepard had objected to holding an autopsy. Shepard had explained on the stand this objection was due to a promise to his wife that he would not permit a knife to touch her body.

The government attorney said Shepard's close contact with his wife gave him an opportunity to administer poison, which the government sought to show, by the testimony of Miss Clara Brown, a nurse, had been placed in liquor which the major's wife drank.

Stresses Letter to Girl.

A letter Shepard wrote to Miss Brandon after his arrest at Denver last March, in which he urged her to make light of their relations when she was questioned by government agents, Wyman asserted, was "a confession" of the defendant's guilt.

The testimony of Miss Brown, the nurse, was attacked by Kagey in defending Shepard. He said it "taxed one's credulity" and said she must have been "hypnotized" by government agents.

Miss Brown testified that on the second day of Mrs. Shepard's fatal illness the patient told her "Dr. Shepard has poisoned me." This was countered by testimony of Maj. E. J. Strickler, Fort Riley psychiatrist, that Mrs. Shepard was not sane on that day.

JAPAN ANGRY AT RUSSIA; CHARGES UNFRIENDLINESS

Manchuria Crisis Due to Closing of Bank.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 19.—Telegrams from Harbin report that a serious crisis is developing in Manchuria between Japan and Russia as a result of the soviet government's action in forcibly closing the Japanese-Corean bank at Vladivostok.

The note of protest which the Japanese government instructed its envoy in Moscow, Koki Hirota, to present to the soviets yesterday spoke of the closure as "an unfriendly act," and, while no reply has yet been made, the belief prevails at Harbin that the situation is likely to get rapidly worse.

Russia Censors Wires.

The soviet authorities have already established a censorship over all the telephone and telegraph lines leading from Russian into Chinese territory and by doing so are preventing Japanese and Chinese merchants at Harbin and at Dairen from communicating with other merchants and officials in the Vladivostok district.

The soviets are also barring Japanese steamers from entering Vladivostok waters, and the Japanese consul at Harbin reports that "the oppressive measures taken by the soviets are making it impossible for Japanese business men to engage in legitimate trade with Siberia, hence the withdrawal of all Japanese commercial relations is likely."

The trouble between Japan and Russia in Manchuria started several months ago in a dispute over the Japanese fisheries in Siberian waters which were financed by the Corean bank at Vladivostok. The soviet authorities, however, closed the bank on the charge that it was making undue and illicit profits in its foreign exchange transactions.

Ruble Inflation Falls.

Japanese officials at Harbin, however, claim that the real reason is Russia's effort to keep up artificially the value of the ruble which in the soviet republics has a fixed value equivalent to 50 cents in American money but which immediately across the Russian border has fallen to 5 cents in value. The fluctuations in the value of the ruble have enabled Chinese and Japanese speculators to do a flourishing business which Russia believes she can only stop by closing the Vladivostok bank.

New complications between Russia and China are forecast over the Chinese Eastern railroad in Manchuria owing to the return to Harbin of several of the Nanking government's envoys to the Moscow parley. It is also announced that Mo Te-hui, head of the Chinese delgation, will leave Moscow for Harbin tomorrow, which points to a final collapse of the negotiations. It is not thought likely here that China will send any other delegates or make further attemps to reach an agreement with Russia.

Dynamite Untangles Log Snarls in Tribune Timberlands

Dynamite aids the Chicago Tribune in harvesting its annual cut of timber. Racing down swift rivers, logs frequently tangle into immovable masses. They snarl in patchworks of confusion, pile solidly in curved river banks.

Lumberjacks, armed with spike and hook-tipped poles, untangle most of the log jams. Often, however, the jams defy the strength and skill of lumberjacks. Dynamite then comes into play. Half a dozen sticks of it are attached to the end of a long pole and placed in the water under the jam. Igniting the fuse, lumberjacks scramble to safety. A deafening roar fills the air. Logs, smoke, and spray leap skyward. The jam is broken. The brown-barked freight of the forest surges seaward.

Because of dynamite, millions of logs arrive on time in Tribune timber towns on the sea, and Tribune pulpboats sail on schedule for Tribune paper mills.

SPANISH OFFICERS TELL HOW REVOLT BEGAN IN SALOON

Court Martial Judges Smile at Tale.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VALENCIA, Dec. 20.—[Saturday.]—The tragic history behind the 124 hour shotgun republic that sprang up during the recent trouble in Spain was unfolded yesterday before a court martial in the little town of Aste, about twenty miles from Alicante. Aste was one of the places where a republic was proclaimed and a revolutionary government set up. The entire revolutionary committee, as well as fifty of the leading citizens, are now in jail. But it was not they for whom the trial was held yesterday.

Although theoretically guilty of treason, the revolutionary chieftains, only one of whom is able to read or write, will probably be turned over to the civil authorities and pay for their republican spree with a few months in jail. The men who were tried yesterday were four officers who precipitated the battle with the civil guards in which three revolutionaries were killed and two civil guards wounded.

Culprits Tell Their Story.

At the beginning of the hearing it seemed a foregone conclusion that they would face a firing squad. But as the downfaced culprits related their tale of the ludicrous and pathetic revolt, even the hard boiled army officers smiled and it seemed that there was a chance they might get off with a light sentence. At 1 o'clock this morning the Valencia authorities are still awaiting the court's decision.

The tale told the judges, according to semi-official accounts, follows:

When the rioting broke out Sunday all the guards in Aste were rushed to the danger zone. For a time nothing happened, but Monday afternoon, after Gen. Ramon Franco's sensational attack on Madrid, rumors began flying throughout Spain, and it was believed here that the government had been overthrown and a republic established.

The Boys Have a Few Drinks.

The local republicans had a few rounds of drinks and talked the matter over. They came to the conclusion that since there was to be a republic at Madrid, they might as well have one. A committee of seven elected themselves to office and, followed by a cheering mob, went to the town hall, where they gave the mayor two hours to get out of town. The same treatment was given to the local priest.

The "government" began drafting laws, which the literate member wrote down. The first decree was that all church property should be confiscated; second, that all land should be equally divided; third, a levy on all saloonkeepers in order to raise funds.

There was a big fiesta that night, in which the local republicans stood the drinks. It was still going on when the mounted civil guards opened fire and the revolutionary army fled, except for the four captains, who stuck to their guns.

Government Rounds Up Leaders.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Dec. 19.—With strikes subsiding and the brilliantly uniformed soldiery being withdrawn from the streets, the Spanish capital is now under the reign of top hatted civil guards and blue clad cops. The government today launched a drive to round up all leaders of the attempted revolt. Twenty were arrested today at San Sebastian, where more than 150 republicans are now held incommunicado.

Premier Berenguer today posted proclamations stating that any one possessing a revolver without a permit must hand over the weapon to the police within eight days, or suffer a serious penalty. Under the existing martial law the penalty may be death.

La Publicitat, Catalan newspaper, showed today that the republican spirit is still blazing, when the governor offered to allow it to resume publication if it paid a fine of $500 to go to the families of civil guards who were killed.

"We prefer to remain closed and give the money to the survivors of the murdered republicans," the editor replied.

Reveal Bugler as Hero.

The chief bugler of the Four Winds airdrome, Sergt. Manuel Silva, was the hero of a dramatic incident during the revolt, it was learned today. He was riding toward the airfield, which had been captured by the revolutionaries.

"Are you republican or monarchist?" asked the rebels. "Yell 'Viva la Republica.'"

"To hell with you," Sergt. Silva replied. He was about to be executed when the loyal artillery opened fire and the rebels fled.

Several Sentenced to Death.

HUESCA, Spain, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A military court martial today sentenced to death a lieutenant who wounded the military governor of Huesca in the fighting near here last week and later killed the governor's aide. The lieutenant's name was not made public. At Riche a court martial sentenced to death several strikers who tore up railroad tracks in an effort to wreck a train carrying members of the Foreign legion to Alicante.

PREMIER OF SPAIN DEFENDS HIS RIGHT TO CRUSH REVOLUTION

BY JULES SAUERWEIN.
[Foreign Editor of Le Matin, Paris.]
[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MADRID, Dec. 19.—Premier Berenguer has no other thought than to give Spain back her liberty whenever it is safe to do so. In the meantime his sole purpose is to keep order.

"They have tried to make me out a dictator," he said, "but I am nothing of the sort. On the contrary, I am here for the purpose of putting an end to dictatorship. I am trying my best to prepare for speedy elections, in which each party can make known its desire and fairly test its strength. After that nobody can keep up a bluff and the country will see exactly how many adversaries to the present régime exist.

"Under my proposal parliament will have a perfect right to attack the monarchy or propose amendments to the constitution. But, in bringing about these elections, I find that the very people who pretend the nation is dissatisfied are those most active in delaying elections. For republicans they seem extremely loath to go to the ballot box. I am obliged to keep order and have no other choice than to proclaim martial law, as long as dangerous outbreaks are occurring."

COURT DECISION OPENS UP JOBS FOR 1,000 MEN

Work for approximately 1,000 men will be provided on the city's water system in the next five months as the result of the opinion of the state Supreme court on Thursday, which established the validity of the city's water certificates. Five hundred men will be put to work on the new Chicago avenue water tunnel and the same number in the bureau of water pipe extension when the weather permits.

An issue of $12,000,000 worth of certificates, which are a lien on the city's water revenues, was sold to Halsey, Stuart & Co., more than a month ago, subject to the approval of the validity of the certificates by the court. City Controller Schmidt said yesterday that he expects the money will be paid into the treasury as soon as a certified copy of the decision can be transmitted to the purchaser.

Of the total amount $10,178,000 will be spent on the new water tunnel and $1,822,000 in laying water feeder mains.

Miss Kathryn McMahon, 22 years old, 715 Madison street, Evanston, yesterday paid $80 which was due on an engagement ring given her by a former suitor and escaped going to jail on a judgment in trover secured by Swartz Bros., jewelers. The ring had been given to her by Lester Beckner on Christmas day, 1929. Last October the engagement was broken and Miss McMahon said she returned the ring. The jewelers demanded the balance due on the ring, and later Miss McMahon was arrested because of her failure to pay.

BRITAIN APPOINTS LORD WILLINGDON AS INDIA VICEROY

Hope of Post Going to Native Vanishes.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—Prime Minister MacDonald tonight announced that Viscount Willingdon, governor general of Canada, had been appointed viceroy of India to succeed Lord Irwin, whose appointment expires in March, 1931. Lord Willingdon was governor of Bombay from 1913 to 1919, and then governor of Madras until 1924, so is familiar with Indian affairs.

The appointment was a surprise as Viscount Willingdon's name had not been mentioned at all prominently among those likely to be given the post, and also due to the fact that, with the round table India conference going on in London at present, it was reported that the premier favored an Indian for the job of viceroy. Some of the delegates to the conference were said to have openly been angling for the appointment.

No indication has been made of Viscount Willingdon's successor in Canada. It is reported, however, that since King George failed to obtain the appointment of his third son, the duke of Gloucester, as governor general of South Africa, that he would like to see him get the Canadian vacancy.

Moslems Offer Concession.

Today's attempts to arrive at a settlement of the week old deadlock between the Hindus and Moslems over representation at the proposed all-India legislature brought unexpected action on the part of ten Mohammedans headed by the nawab of Chitari. They expressed willingness to accept the Hindu offer of fixed majorities in the Punjab and Bengal in exchange for the abandonment of Mohammed Ali Jinnan's stand on separate electorates. This amounts to a schism among the Mohammedan delegates, who have up to the present been noted for their solidarity. The Hindu liberals, without the sanction of Dr. B. S. Moonje and other diehards, agreed to accept the "weighted" Moslem majorities in the two provinces.

Take Up Indian Franchise.

The most important sub-committee meeting today was that dealing with the franchise under Attorney General William Jowitt. The problem of granting the right to vote to India's millions was taken up for the first time. Some of the Indian delegates pointed out the difficulties of granting complete suffrage because of India's illiteracy.

The British Indian delegates announced today that they were giving a dinner for the members of the government and other political and social prominents on Jan. 13, which they hope will be on the eve of their departure.

Arrest Gandhi's Son.

SURAT, India, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Ramdas Gandhi, son of the Indian leader, Mahatma Gandhi, was arrested today at Natwad where the illegal manufacture and sale of salt was progressing. The arrest was made in connection with a speech he delivered Dec. 10. Young Gandhi recently finished serving a six months' sentence of rigorous imprisonment on a similar charge.

With daily contributions gradually falling off, the money raising committee of the governor's unemployment commission yesterday began a new and intensive drive for contributions from concerns not yet solicited in the campaign for the $5,000,000 fund needed to care for Chicago's 130,000 unemployed over the winter.

The half way mark was reached and passed yesterday, and last night the total contributions tabulated by Philip R. Clarke's campaign committee stood at $2,516,813. Only $15,364 was received during the day. Most of this was turned in by the insurance group, headed by Graham Aldis. It amounted to $10,345.

Urges Other Concerns to Aid.

"There are thousands of business concerns in Chicago that are not being solicited because of the fact that they do not fall within the scope of any of our 26 soliciting groups," Chairman Clarke explained. "These concerns and their employés must lend their generous support. If they give help proportionate to that accorded by other concerns that have contributed the success of our campaign is assured."

Among Large Donations.

Among the large subscriptions reported yesterday were the following: Chicago Title and Trust company employés, $9,000; Stewart Warner corporation, $5,000; Jahn & Ollier Engraving company and employés, $2,650.

Word from St. Louis last night stated that firemen employed by the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad have voluntarily reduced their working hours so that employment may be provided for more men.

Foundation Spends $304,347.

The Wieboldt Foundation expended $304,347 for public benefits during the fiscal year which ended Nov. 30, it was announced yesterday. This included $41,000 for local educational and charitable agencies in helping them to meet their current budgets and $60,000 for a site for the Young Women's Christian association.

For the fiscal year beginning Dec. 1 $74,000 has thus far been donated to local educational and charitable organizations, including $20,000 granted in response to the appeal of the governor's commission of unemployment and relief.

She Uses Her Lipstick and Her Wits to Trap Bandits

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The two men who robbed Mrs. Henry Larson took everything but her lipstick—and that proved their undoing.

They took all of her jewelry, rifled her handbag for money, even destroyed a pencil so she could not write down the number of their car as they drove off.

But they left her lipstick and as they fled she used it to copy down the license number. In a few hours two men were arrested, gave their names as Victor Zambrowski and Joseph Shestokes, and were quoted by police as confessing to this and several other holdups.

3 BABIES LACK SHOES; FATHER BEGS FOR WORK

He's One for Whom Sally Seeks Job.

The three children, 2, 3 and 4 years old, in the family of a Mr. H., are without shoes. Mr. H. registered for a job a few days ago with the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn, which is coöperating with Sally Joy Brown of THE TRIBUNE in dispensing the jobs which Miss Brown is offered by TRIBUNE readers.

Mr. H. is a world war veteran, 32 years old, and was sent to the agency by the Cook County Bureau of Public Welfare, which investigated his family and found he needed a job badly. He has been out of work for six months. He formerly was a timekeeper, and more recently a wire man with a utilities company.

On the agency form which candidates for jobs fill out there is a line on which is printed "also willing to do:" and after this Mr. H. wrote, "labor or anything."

"Will Work For Anything."

On a form card filled out by Mr. G. who was in the army during the war, is written: "Have had railroad, military and world travel experience." He told officials of the agency he was willing to work for anything, even his room and board. He is unmarried and finds it difficult to obtain work for that reason, as employers prefer to give available jobs to men with families.

"He is in a bad way," said an agency official. "He can't bum a meal here and there, can't bring himself to it. And he doesn't look hard up—horn rimmed glasses and generally neat air. But he is."

R. B., 47 years old and a former store clerk, told agency officials he was "up against a stone wall." He owes four months' rent, and faces eviction, but worse than that to Mr. B. is the fact that he is going to have to take his daughter, who is in her last year of high school, out of school. She hasn't decent clothes, he said.

On the form card line headed "remarks" Mr. B. wrote: "I am sure hard up."

His Savings Are Lost.

Then there is a 30 year old man who, according to John Keane, superintendent of the Illinois Free Employment service, is a high type of worker. He is married and has a 2 year old child. He had one year's university training.

"I had a little saved up against such an emergency—$450," he told Mr. Keane. "I lost it when the bank went into the hands of receivers. Now I have nothing."

This man has done sales work and office work and formerly was a Lincoln park policeman. For eight years he was in the traffic department of a railway. "Will accept work of any kind," he wrote on his registration card.

British Commons Gets Bill to Permit General Strikes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 19.—The text of the government's bill to restore to the labor unions their right to call "sympathetic strikes," which was outlawed by the last Conservative ministry as a result of the national walkout of 1926, was made public today, following the adjournment of parliament until Jan. 20. The bill may prove the downfall of the MacDonald government, as it is understood the Liberal party, which recently agreed to support the Laborites, already has formed a subcommittee to consider its provisions.

The most important provision of the measure is that permission is to be granted members of unions in all trades to walk out in support of the action of another union. Such action was forbidden under the law passed by the last Baldwin government in 1927. The only restriction on sympathetic strikes is that they must not be of a political character.

Bill Permits Picketing.

The bill also permits peaceful picketing and permits civil servants and employés of local governments to join unions. It also exempts trade union funds from attachment by courts in connection with offenses of members and allows trade unions to levy political assessments on members.

The second reading of the bill is scheduled for Jan. 22. Liberal leaders, who have the power of life or death over the measure, are prophesying freely that it will be modified before it becomes a statute.

Release Electoral Reform Bill.

At the same time the government released the electoral reform bill, designed to give the parties seats in parliament in proportion to the number of popular votes they receive. This bill was demanded by the Liberals and observers here believe it will have an easy trip into the statute books because it is the price of Liberal support for the trade disputes bill and was approved by the parliamentary Labor party yesterday by an overwhelming majority.

The bill proposes an alternative vote system of balloting. Under such a system each voter in a constituency where there are three candidates votes for a first and second choice. If one candidate has a clear majority over the combined vote of the other two he is automatically elected. If he does not have a clear majority, the candidate with the lowest number of votes is eliminated and the number of second choice votes entered for him are apportioned between the two leading candidates and decide the issue.

SINCLAIR LEWIS O.K.'S VAN DYKE'S VIEW OF PRIZE

Tells Swedes Willa Cather Earned Nobel Award.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Dec. 19.—(AP)—A large audience, many of whose members had paid for their seats far in advance, heard Sinclair Lewis tonight deal once more with American criticism of his being awarded the Nobel prize for literature.

The redheaded author of "Babbitt" said he had been told that a "gentleman named Van Dyke" had thought the Nobel committee was wrong and would have given the award to Willa Cather, the novelist.

"So would I," Lewis said. "I am very sorry to agree with Mr. Van Dyke, but I really have to. I am sure he is equally sorry to agree with me."

Doesn't Tell Everything.

Mr. Lewis denied he ever had attempted to give a complete description of American life.

"I never," he said, "go up and down the streets with sandwich boards saying that I give true and full descriptions. Any one who wants to know America must read other novelists, maybe far more interesting."

"America is a continent, not a country," he continued, "And Stockholm and Rome might as well unite on a subject as San Francisco and New York."

Europeans as Foolish.

Mr. Lewis said he found Europeans just as foolish as Americans.

"Why," he queried, "don't they agree about pan-Europe instead of quarreling? Why the idiocy of putting on stiff evening clothes like mine?"

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis leave Stockholm Dec. 21 to spend Christmas in Berlin. They will return to the United States in February.

CHICAGO WIDOW SUES WEALTHY PHILADELPHIAN

Mrs. Estelle M. Wolon, wealthy widow and owner of the Mitzi Chateau tea room, 1342 East 53d street, for whom a breach of promise suit was filed in Philadelphia yesterday against Charles Newbold Welsh, member of a prominent Philadelphia family, was reported last night to be out of the country.

First information at the tea room was that Mrs. Wolon was too distressed to see any one. Later a woman, who identified herself as a sister of Mrs. Wolon but declined to give her name, said that Mrs. Wolon was out of the country to avoid troubles growing out of the litigation.

The suit sets no amount of damages. It was charged that Mr. Welsh terminated an agreement of marriage. Advised of the proceedings, Mr. Welsh yesterday denied even knowing the Chicago woman. He said he was happily married and that the suit must be a mistake. Mr. Welsh is the son of the late John Lowber Welsh, Philadelphia traction president, and a grandson of John Welsh, one time American minister to England.

CHARGES 2 MAIDS WITH THREAT TO KIDNAP DAUGHTER

George E. Fox, president of the George E. Fox company, office supplies, 319 West Ohio street, will face two young women, former maids in his home at 2440 Lake View avenue, before Municipal Judge Leon Edelman this morning. The manufacturer said last night that he would accuse the women of threatening to kidnap his 7 year old daughter, Carol.

The women are Helen Schmidt, 20 years old, 4207 North Francisco avenue, and Mary Gudbrod, 1647 Larrabee street. Fox said that he discharged them and that Miss Schmidt told him that she had a boy friend who was a bootlegger and would kidnap Fox's daughter.

Miss Schmidt obtained a warrant charging Fox with disorderly conduct and he retaliated, through his attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, with warrants accusing both the young women. The kidnaping threat was related to Judge Edelman and he declared the whole tangle would be thrashed out today.

Turkey Forbids Cutting of Trees for Christmas

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 19.—(AP)—This city's 200 American residents are going to have a treeless Christmas this year, for the Turkish forest reservation program forbids the cutting of Christmas trees or branches. Merchants who sell them are subject to prosecution.

Even Lighter Novels Thrill with Purpose

It Seems They Must Explain Something.

BY DAVID HAMILTON.

[Author of "Picaresque."]

A so-called "light novel" is very apt to connote a hammock on a summer's afternoon well filled by a contented housewife with a box of chocolate creams within easy reach and an open book in her hand which, as she slowly turns the pages, carries her off on mental alventures where, for the time being, she assumes the rôle of the sort of girl she has always vaguely longed to be, skirting the perilous hazards she has always vaguely longed to skirt, in the end to be caught in the arms of the sort of man with whom she has been on intimate terms only in her dreams.

This type of "light novel" is likely to be weighted down with ponderous go-getter heroes, humorless heroines, foredoomed sirens who have their big innings, politicians, gigolos with accents and other well thumbed puppets; or, it may be the story of three generations, grandmother, mother, and daughter, in which the naughty, shameless granddaughter, symbol of the younger generation, actually consummates the suppressed desires of her grandmother and mother right then and there on the printed page.

Again, the "light novel" to many may indicate the thriller or mystery story, God's gift to the tired big business man suffering from insomnia.

Curiously enough, the average "light novel" of today is compounded of pretty somber stuff, not the deep, soul searching material of a "War and Peace" or a "Brothers Karamazov," it is true, but a surface somberness—if heart and generation problems are not wanted at the moment, then let us have murder and the dignity of the law. Frivolity for frivolity's sake seems just a little bit ridiculous and the comic mask needs a few false wrinkles painted across its brow and a dip to at least one corner of its laughing mouth before it can be taken seriously.

The average reader, even in his lightest moments, wishes to have the sensation of reading "something worthwhile," the illusion of thinking without being deeply stirred, or at any rate the delight of being worried and baffled, when he knows that the solution comes in the last chapter. Light fiction simply must be heavy. One is quite certain that books like, for instance, Sterne's "A Sentimental Journey" or Meredith's "Harry Richmond," because of their utter lightness, their pure fantasy, their unabashed confession to be nothing at all except delightful and diverting, would, because of their very lightness and charm, be turned aside as frivolous and trivial by our lady in the hammock and our tired business man.

And yet one feels that such stories as "A Sentimental Journey" and "Harry Richmond" need no defense, because in the long run the essence of life itself must triumph over the concocted cordials of pretense. Things that are gay and frivolous and entertaining are, after their own fashion, as full of significance as those that are sad and useful and oppressive. A man may stand with his heel on the first dog toothed violet of the year and see his conception of the Almighty in a distant lowering mountain peak; but the crushed flower remains, nevertheless, as true and dignified a manifestation of the Creator of the universe as the mountain peak.

The lady in the hammock and the tired business man forget that even their God had His decidedly frivolous moments, and if He did hang the utilitarian milk bag on the cow, He also hung the foolish but absolutely charming wings on the butterfly and, then, He certainly put in a lot of time and thought on a grasshopper. They overlook the fact that such distinctly useless but delightful things as grasshoppers and trilliums and meadow larks hold as much of the meaning and tragedy and beauty of life as a cow or a lowering mountain peak or a thunderstorm.

Thompson Depicted as Made by Fred Lundin

"City Bosses in the United States," by Harold Zink [Duke University Press] is a study of twenty municipal bosses. As representative of the most flourishing gentleman in the boss business in Chicago the author chooses Fred Lundin and he makes Chicago's mayor an article manufactured by the "poor Swede" rather than a self-made ringmaster.

1930'S BEST SELLING BOOKS

THE temper of the times is too evident in the statistics of the sales of books for the year. One hundred thousand is a sort of high, bright, effulgent star of a sale for a book. Every year a few books top it.

Last year there were 15 which sold over that amount. This year there were only six books which reached a sale of 100,000. Of those, three were books which had been published during the previous year, "The Story of San Michele," by Axel Munthe; "Laughing Boy," by Oliver La Farge, which was awarded the Pulitzer prize for 1930, and a one volume edition of "The Rise of American Civilization," by Charles and Mary Beard. Our own Line Book has sold 140,000 copies and belongs with the fortunates in spirit even if the fact of its size and price do not admit it to their class.

The only three books published this year which can wear the diadem of a 100,000 sale were all written by women, "The Door," by Mary Roberts Rinehart, "The Selbys," by Anne Green, and "Cimarron," by Edna Ferber. And they all were novels. Even if they did not reach the 100,000 mark many books of the year were "best sellers."

We asked the forty leading publishers to name the three books on their lists which had been their best sellers [under 100,000]. The list of 120 books which follows is interesting:

Great Events Well Retold for Children

With More than Usual of Analytical Spirit.

To the boy or girl who likes history many books on the fall lists offer stimulating reading. Marion Lansing's "Great Moments in Freedom" (Doubleday-Doran), although offering no new material, serves a definite purpose in bringing together these inspirational true stories of the struggle for freedom—of body, of mind, of nation, and discusses the various types of warfare against ignorance, superstition, crime and disease.

Vernon Quinn's "March of the Iron Men" (Stokes) tells in interesting fashion the story of the Crusades, showing both the good and evil results and the motives both religious and mercenary which actuated the various leaders. Gertrude Kay's "Adventures in Geography" (Volland) and Susan Smith's "Made in Mexico" (Knopf) are vastly more interesting than their titles would lead one to suspect.

The first tells the story of little Bobbie and his uncle who set out to learn about geography by embarking on a steamer that is going around the world. Bobbie and his uncle talk over the places they visit as they travel, learn about the customs of various countries, and note the strange dress of the inhabitants, and many colored illustrations help the young readers to see it all, too. It is an attractive book and will find favor with many children to whom this subject in more ordinary form is not of interest. Susan Smith's "Made in Mexico" is a little book describing the part color and decoration play in the Mexican home, the lovely pottery and toys which are made there, and Mexican art in general.

A book which young art lovers will like is Lorinda M. Bryant's "Children's Book of Religious Pictures" (Century). This is similar in format to the author's other books in the series, having a painting on one page with short descriptions of it and facts about the artist on the page opposite.

A very helpful book on vocations for girls is Hazel R. Cade's "Jobs for Girls" (Harcourt Brace). In it the author considers some twenty-two occupations, emphasizing the qualities needed for success in each, the type of work, the remuneration, and the possibilities for advancement. The author gives practical, sound advice and the girl who has no idea of what she wishes to do will find the book suggestive.

Novel Depicts Natures Tested in World War

Dorothy Canfield at Best in This Book.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Deepening Stream," by Dorothy Canfield [Harcourt Brace].

"The Deepening Stream," which was published this fall, certainly is one of the outstanding contenders for the Pulitzer novel prize. No other novel of the year more thoroughly depicts the ripening of American character, the deepening of the stream of the American soul.

It is a fine novel without being a great novel; but real greatness, we feel that we must continue to expect, is a quality which shines in perhaps one book in three years. Fineness is not so rare, but rare enough, still to make readers mistake it for greatness. "The Deepening Stream" lacks that something which makes books great. It has every quality which makes them fine.

The beginning of the book is unsympathetic to the reader. It starts with the childhood of a girl, the daughter of a university professor who is flighty, and of a mother who always is psychically warring with her husband about their relative importance. The first chapter gives no hint of what is to follow. It touches the reader's heart only in the most casual way. Before the book is finished his heart is twisted in the realization. The first third of the book sounds just like any other story of a sensitive young girl and her adjustment to life. The stream of the book has its ripples, but no strong undercurrent until the heroine meets the man she marries.

From that moment life at its most terrifying, most harassing, most wearing can be faced because of him. Between them there develops a love which deepens into such a fine, enriching thing that the most cynical, the most disappointed reader, must admit its reality. And that reality is the result of the art of the author. Never once does she become lyric or hysterical or too moved by the relationship. It is the natural deepening of a shared life stream to her, and to the reader. It is no miracle. It is the result of human effort as well as human understanding. The miracle of love—which might happen to any one at any time—is, by the strength of character of the two who love, made into something permanent and beautiful and human.

Because they understand each other as they do, the young husband and wife can take their two children and go to France in the early days of the war, he to drive an ambulance, she to do what she can for the French family with whom she spent the happiest year of her little girlhood, and for the Allied cause.

The blossoming of the character of the heroine during those four years, while she watched suffering, agony of spirit, death, and the final disillusionment of the peace conference, is one of the finest things ever recorded in an American novel. Dorothy Canfield has surpassed herself in those chapters, and there was no finer record of woman's part of the war than her "Home Fires in France."

"The Deepening Stream" is a crescendo of the development of character from a rather flattish beginning to a superb climax. It is the best book Dorothy Canfield ever wrote.

HERE'S NEW SCHEME OF BOOK MARKETING; USES MOVIES' METHOD

Farrar & Rinehart, the bright young boys of the publishing business, who celebrated their first anniversary last June and who were active on the yes side of the $1 book agitation last spring, have just sprung a new scheme that will, it is said, settle the question of the dollar books to everybody's satisfaction.

Their experiment with the popular priced books proved to them that there was an enormous audience for popular fiction entertainment at a popular price (they have sold 259,000 copies of 17 novels in six months). However, of the 17 novels four previously had appeared at $2. Those four sold 123,000 copies. That led to a theory. Farrar & Rinehart are going to publish their popular fiction at $2 for the first six months, reduce the price to $1 at the end of that time, and—as they have done with their $1 books of the present season—still sell the reprint rights to the book at 75 cents a copy. It is a pretty scheme—like the movies.

First the loop audiences see the picture—the book—at the boxoffice prices, then the medium priced neighborhood palaces offer it at half the price, and finally it gets into the 75c reprint lists. It is an interesting business plan.

Gas-Lit Era's Shudders Are Today's Laugh

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Several of the season's new books prove that the solemn words of yesteryear are good fun today. In "Sins of New York" Edward Van Every invites the public to laugh with him at pages extracted from the files of the old National Police Gazette. And aren't the public enjoying his suggestion!

It was way back in the '40s that the Police Gazette started its career on a policy of high moral indignation. For over half a century it denounced and exposed the vices, crimes, and scandals of the day in columns of detailed description, illustrated with woodcuts of whiskered villains and buxom innocent maidens in the ridiculous frocks of the gas-lit era.

Time always makes feminine fashions ridiculous before it finally makes them quaint. Crusade literature by its very violence becomes travesty. And the eternal kick that comes from reading about wickedness is registered none the less though we read with a chuckle. "Sins of New York," furthermore, supplies a handsome highbrow alibi for enjoyment in being an authentic bit of Americana.

Ridgely Hunt and George S. Chappell also have collected some jocular antiques in a little volume entitled "The Saloon in the Home." Its hundred pages are divided fifty-fifty between extracts from temperance tracts and recipes for cocktails. "This should make clear to the most ardent dry or aggravated wet that our main object is to be fair," states Mr. Chappell in his foreword, adding slyly that a dry Martini is a good wet argument.

Last year in "Read 'Em and Weep" Sigmund Spaeth retrieved from the past some ballads that nowadays bring only tears of laughter. And that really erudite volume, "Mrs. Grundy, a History of Four Centuries of Morals," by Leo Markum, has unexpectedly found a wide public favor among the frivolous since its publication in the spring.

Another bit of amusement garnered from the past is just off the press. It is Edward Valentine Mitchell's "Concerning Beards." Yes, the title means exactly what it says. The author has assembled beaver anecdotes from history and literature showing the pros and cons of this moot question through the ages.

But one tea party last week broke the preholiday lull in sociability. The English Book shop entertained on Monday in honor of Lynd Ward, the artist who has achieved two "novels" without writing a word. "God's Man" and this season "Madman's Drum" are stories told by means of woodcut illustrations.

The tea party gossip in our immediate vicinity sought to identify the characters of Mary Borden's "A Woman with White Eyes," rioted in vice versa comment on Sinclair Lewis' recent pronunciamentos, and voiced anticipation of the publication of Bernard Shaw's and Ellen Terry's epistolary courtship. Will there be another item in these letters for Mr. Mitchell's "Concerning Beards"?

ROOSEVELT CALLED HIM
"THE IDEAL CAMP MATE"

GEORGE K. CHERRIE, explorer, naturalist and adventurer, tells the thrilling story of 40 years on the dark trails to the far places and the strange peoples of the earth. Here are the colorful and dangerous exploits of a soldier of science, a companion of Roosevelt's on the famous River of Doubt Expedition.

"To but few in this world is it given to live as largely as George Cherrie has done; and but a fraction of these few have the ability to tell of their lives."
—Kermit Roosevelt.

Now Letters Reveal His Kindly Character.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON, — [Special correspondence.]—D. H. Lawrence's last novel is just published, under the title of "The Virgin and the Gipsy." It has been making the booksellers busy and has been moving the critics to characteristic utterance. It is a lovely thing, written with the greatest delicacy, and with a mastery of character which is a delight.

Simultaneously, the publishers have brought out a reprint of a... essay by Miss Rebecca West, written soon after Lawrence's death, and containing the writer's impressions of a man concerning whose character there has been, and will be, considerable misunderstanding. The simple, natural Lawrence, who was full of kindliness and humor, is too often presented by those who did not know him as a sour misanthropist whose morbidity makes his work disagreeable.

Miss West's essay, like that, already published, of Richard Aldington, will help to clear the air; and when, presently, we have an edition of Lawrence's letters, we should be able to know even better the man who was known only to his friends and associates. Meanwhile, here is "The Virgin and the Gipsy," slight, inconclusive, but altogether exquisite.

A new book by Mary MacCarthy [Mrs. Desmond MacCarthy] will be published very shortly. It is called "Fighting Fitzgerald, and Other Papers," and the essays deal mostly with great Irish figures of the eighteenth century.

I discover that Mr. H. E. Bates, the author of "The Two Sisters" and "Catherine Foster," together with several volumes of short stories which have been greatly admired, is at the present time, although he has been publishing books for some years, no more than twenty-five years old. "The Two Sisters," in fact, was published before the author was twenty. Like other writers of quality, Mr. Bates owes much to Mr. Edward Garnett [the father of Mr. David Garnett], who has "discovered" more authors of talent than any other professional "reader" in England. "The Two Sisters" had been refused by eight or nine publishers before it was read by Mr. Garnett. The author is a Lancashire man, was for a time a journalist, worked in a leather warehouse, came to London, and acted as an assistant in a London bookshop until he was able to give himself wholly to writing. He is already a "collectors' author."

A new book for the truly appreciative, called "Cat's Company," is being written by Mr. Michael Joseph. Mr. Joseph has played many parts in the course of his not very long life; and it is interesting to find him coming out on behalf of a much loved, but little celebrated domestic pet. Since Mr. Carl Van Vechten paid homage to the cat, nobody has written at length upon this charming animal. At first I feared that Mr. Joseph, who has been long in the publishing trade, was writing a book devoted to authors; but this is not the case.

David Low, the Australian cartoonist who is one of the delights of the Londoner's daily round [for he is transplanted to London, and is quite at home here], is publishing shortly a volume of his cartoons under the title "The Best of Low." It was through the advocacy of Mr. Arnold Bennett that Mr. Low was invited to London, and his success has been tremendous. British cabinet ministers collect his caricatures of themselves. They scramble to buy the original drawings, although these drawings are in the highest degree irreverent. I am reminded that Mr. Low was "prosecuted" by Mr. A. P. Herbert, the author of "The Water Gipsies," in a mock trial for a hospital charity fund; and that Mr. Low retaliated by drawing a caricature of Mr. Herbert which was afterwards successfully auctioned for the benefit of the charity.

Mr. Herbert, by the way, whose "Water Gipsies" is a real best seller in this country, is in despair. His book will have sold fifty thousand copies by Christmas; and already he is besieged with demands for a successor. But he declares that it will take him fully five years to write another book. He is a slow worker; he is a regular contributor to Punch [an occupation that absorbs much of his time]; and he is so witty a speaker that he is in great demand socially. He is also a politician.

EINSTEIN, OBJECT OF NEW BIOGRAPHY, RECOGNIZES HIMSELF

As romantically remote and as little understood as the famous "Einstein theory" is the creator of that theory, Albert Einstein. Occasional scraps of personal news of him have appeared, compared with the reams printed about his theory.

Despite the fact that this is an age of science, the public has no scientific detachment toward its heroes. It wants to know what they look like, what they eat for breakfast, their foibles as well as their fancies. If it were not so what good would all the personally indorsed advertisements of cigarets, cold creams and soaps do?

It is one of the tenets of our national life that the great are an example to lesser souls. "Albert Einstein" by Anton Reiser [Boni] for the first time offers the public the facts about Einstein, the man. The theory remains understandable only to the very few. Einstein himself says of the book and its author in a foreword:

"The author of this book is one who knows me rather intimately in my endeavor, thoughts, beliefs—in bedroom slippers. I have read it to satisfy, in the main, my own curiosity. What interested me was not a desire to know what I am or look like, but rather another's avowal of what I am.

"I found the facts of the book duly accurate, and its characterization, throughout, as good as might be expected of one who is perforce himself, and who can no more be another than I can."

Prof. Einstein recently visited New York and yesterday was in Havana. He is bound for California, where he will lecture.

This Webster Differs from School Versions

But Is Called Nearest to the Real Daniel.

BY WILLIAM E. DODD.
[Chairman of the Department of History, the University of Chicago.]

"Daniel Webster," by Claude Moore Fuess. [Little Brown.]

There have been many books about "the divine Webster" and there are many published documents and unpublished traditions, but there is nowhere quite as good a biography as the one now before us.

Mr. Fuess loves his subject, is at home in the corners and byways of New England where "Black Dan" also was at home, and he still thinks that the easterners who admired their hero so long were disinterested nationalists, while southerners and westerners were sectionalists. Nor is he alone in this view.

All the historians and all the schoolmasters teach that the reply to Hayne was wholly a nationalist as against a sectionalist address.

Abbott Lawrence, who was not unrepresentative of his section and class, wrote the great orator in 1830 that if he had his way in congress, New England would have the south and west in their debt for a full hundred years. Certainly the greatest speech of his life was designed to thwart southern sectionalism and win away from Andrew Jackson the nationalist support of the west—and thwarting the southerners in 1830 was equivalent to thwarting the big business men of today.

It would have been disturbing to the unity and idealism of the present picture if the real Webster, fighting for his section which would win only through nationalism, had loomed out of the documents; and that would have been too much for the reader who can not think the truth in so grave a historical matter.

This misconception aside, Mr. Fuess has done his work well. He omits nothing of importance and he lays stress on the great critical moments of Webster's life: the shift from the New Hampshire particularism to the larger New England industrial life; the great and immortal orations which gave Webster his place in the world; the life long and irritating political overlordship of Henry Clay; the haunting ambition to be president; and the speech of March 7 in which he really turned nationalist and paid the penalty of losing the support of his section.

To the unreasoning attacks and villification of Theodore Parker and Robert Greenleaf Whittier he returned measure for measure and thus went to his end full aware that New England was hostile and that his most honest and possibly most disinterested act was to be rated in history and literature as a sort of "bargain and sale" with the south for the presidency.

There is no note in these volumes of the "new" biography which revels in salacious or scandalous stories and incidents, perhaps not enough since there was an ugly side to the great statesman's career. He could never live on his income; he was willing for W. W. Corcoran, the Washington banker, to cancel notes for more than five thousand dollars and then to receive a gift of one thousand dollars from the same admiring financier. Webster took these things as quite in order. That he speculated in public lands in a mildly reprehensible way and found debt-paying very irksome, if not quite beyond him, is duly noted but not made a major theme of the book. Like Charles Sumner, his young and unscrupulous opponent, Webster always felt that the world owed such a genius as himself an ample living.

John Bigelow, in his valuable "Retrospections of a Long Life" tells us that Sumner enclosed to him after Webster's death a circular letter of the latter's executors in which it was announced that the great statesman died the owner of a Negro slave and that they wished good friends quietly to buy the slave's freedom and release him before the fact become known. Sumner asked Bigelow to publish the circular in the New York Evening Post, of which the latter was an editor.

Bigelow declined the request and simply filed the Sumner letter and the tell-tale circular among his papers. This story is told here to show how difficult it was before 1860 for any one of position to get on in Washington without a slave to assist in his household.

The Seward family, if not the great agitator himself, owned a few slaves, and well-to-do Chicagoans held slaves without public protest—perhaps not many; and all over the north wealthy men owned slave plantations in the south—Douglas, the popular senator from Illinois, Gen. Grant and Gen. Patterson, commanders of Union armies. This curious and intriguing situation escaped the careful pen of the author of Daniel Webster.

FROM MICROBES TO PLANETS, HARVARD PROF. EXPLAINS ALL

Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of Harvard observatory, whose announcement in 1928 of his discovery of the center of the universe astounded the scientific world and whose researches in the dimensions of the milky way and into the distances of the remotest known galaxies have attracted world-wide attention, has written a new book. It is called "Flights from Chaos" [McGraw-Hill].

Dr. Shapley ventures upon a complete survey of all material systems from the most minute organisms to the largest of supergalaxies. In classifying these systems he offers many new interpretations of material phenomena. His book presents a new panorama of the universe and an evaluation of man in the physical world.

TWO DECISIONS.

The refusal of the Illinois Supreme court to overrule the decision of a nisi prius judge who has refused to accept a bail bond secured by incumbered property is a welcome contribution to the reform of our deplorable bail conditions. It seems to us to be firmly founded on considerations of judicial efficiency and propriety. Obviously it is the judge immediately in touch with the circumstances of the case who is best fitted to exercise a wise discretion in the granting of bail and the criticism of sureties.

It is to be hoped that the decision will also encourage our trial judges to adopt and strictly enforce the rule with which the Supreme court has refused to interfere—namely: that incumbered realty shall not be accepted as security for bail, though perhaps in very clear cases exceptions may be allowed.

We wish the decision of the court in the case of Gunman McGurn has been equally helpful in our struggle to cope with organized crime. It is the reverse. The decision holds that McGurn's arrest and search was illegal because the officers had no warrant and in spite of the fact that a .45 caliber revolver was found on his person. The decision is founded presumably on the well established and in the main judicious rule that a citizen may not lawfully be arrested and searched merely because a police officer suspects without substantial reasons he may be breaking the law. But this rule should not be applied in cases where the individual arrested is known by the police to be of lawless character. Arrests without warrant and on suspicion or on a mere chance of catching a lawbreaker have been largely indulged in by dry law enforcers, and such arrests have not been approved by courts. But where an officer of the law arrests a man like McGurn, known by the police to be a lawless character, or where in dry law enforcement the officer has reason to believe the individual is a bootlegger or is engaged in illicit dealing with liquor, no warrant for his arrest should be essential.

On the other hand, the knowledge of the character of the arrested individual, upon which the officer acted, should be brought to the attention of the court, as in the case of McGurn we assume was not done. We may expect the courts to take into account a situation so notorious as present crime conditions have created in Chicago and other great centers, and therefore to recognize the existence of habitual lawbreakers of the gangster type. But it is the duty of the prosecuting agencies to show that the individual arrested belongs to this situation and might reasonably be assumed to be acting in accord with his character. The court, in other words, is not to be blamed for failures of the public prosecution to supply it with data essential to the support of an arrest without warrant.

The effects of the reversal of the McGurn case are nevertheless unfortunate; both the escape of McGurn from punishment and the effect upon public opinion of what must seem to the layman the defeat of justice through technicality. McGurn was found with a concealed weapon. To the layman this must in common sense justify the officer in arresting him for carrying a concealed weapon. What is necessary in this class of cases is as thorough a presentation by the state of the circumstances justifying arrest as is possible and on the part of all the courts a recognition of the existence and nature of the problem of organized criminality. Unless we have competent prosecution and an understanding by the courts of the grave emergency with which the administration of the criminal law is dealing, the community will be a long time waiting for protection.

BIG SCHOOLS.

The board of education seems to have settled upon four standard types of junior high school. The smallest of the three types seats 1,500 children and the largest 3,000.

There is much to be said for standardizing school design. It should make for economy both in original cost and in maintenance. However, standardization is anything but an economy if the designs selected are fundamentally unsound. We are not now venturing any criticism of the architectural scheme or detail; we are concerned only with the size of the units.

A junior high school with 1,500 pupils is too large. A school housing 2,500 or 3,000 is an educational monstrosity. We do not know the optimum size of junior high schools, but we should say that any school so large that the principal did not know pretty intimately every child in his care was too large. No principal can have sound basis for judging his teachers and their methods unless he has ample opportunity to observe them at work and unless he knows the children with whom they are working. The principal of a junior high school seating 1,500 cannot know the children. They remain in the school only two years. A good many of them remain only one year. He would have to acquaint himself with upwards of a thousand children a year, in addition to handling a mass of routine administrative details. The task is too big. It is unfair to the principal, for it deprives him of the opportunity for genuine leadership, and it is even more unfair to the pupils, for it deprives them of a sound education.

Big schools are the creation of naïve minds which conclude that the bigger the school the bigger the education. Big schools are evidence of a belief in the school as something magical in which the child need only spend a specified time to make him wise and capable. It is much nearer the truth to say that the bigger the school the less important becomes the individual child who attends it and the less likely it is that he will realize his capabilities in learning and character.

DIZZY LIBERALISM.

Senator Walsh of Massachusetts has asked his associated Fathers to consider whether events and conditions in Cuba were not appealing for action under the Platt amendment to release the liberties of the people. The Massachusetts senator said that in his opinion if the obligations of the United States are to be taken seriously the situation in Cuba requires attention, autocracy having gone to intolerable lengths in the repression of citizenship rights.

He may find the Liberal Mind in the senate in any one of several spots on this proposal. It cannot be accurately charted. Fundamentally, the doctrine is this: If the United States is doing anything in Cuba it is wrong. The corollary is that if it is not doing anything, that is wrong. If the Cuban people are being suppressed in their rights and privileges by a government of their own which has gained the mastery of them, by indigenous methods, the Liberal Mind will understand that the United States is derelict in not proceeding to the relief of an electorate inherently possessed of the capacity for self-government but deprived of it by some curious malevolence. It may seem impossible for a population with inherent capacity for self-government to produce indigenously the destruction of it, but this anomaly is the conspicuous phenomenon of the Caribbean.

There is, for instance, in Haiti, a people in whom the Liberal Minded in the senate find the perfect flower of competent self-direction. This flower, when free in its own bloom, seems, in fact, to be poisonous and its fruit to be mass production of assassination, rapine and voodooism. This appearance may be convincing at the time, and if an illusion it is at least perfect in its imitations of facts, but if it produces an intervention on the part of the United States there is an immediate restoration of the competence of a gifted people to manage their own affairs if only they were freed from the tyranny of the American government.

These contrarieties may appear strange and unbelievable, but they are the credible foundations of Liberal belief in the United States senate and elsewhere. Mr. Walsh of Massachusetts will find that if his associates in the senate were to decide that native politics in Cuba had produced something prejudicial to their own welfare and requiring intervention the acknowledgment of it would not long survive the intervention. As soon as the United States had straightened things out it would be apparent that the natives could not possibly have done themselves any injury in their political processes if they had been let alone. Their injury would be what the United States had done to them.

It may be wrong not to rescue them from their own government, but it will be worse to do so. President Machado may be very bad if the United States does not try to restrict him, but he will be very good if it does. Possibly Mr. Walsh of Massachusetts should not endeavor to follow this too far. It may make him dizzy, but he should understand that the Liberal Minded Conscript Fathers, who are guardians of the American conscience, act upon the doctrine that native self-reliance is entirely competent in self-government and is self-evident so long as the United States offends liberty by preventing mass assassination.

The answer is, yes, we have no bananas.

MR. WOLFE'S INGENIOUS SOPHISTRY.

The commissioner of public works, Mr. Richard Wolfe, has at length presented himself to a city council committee to explain the city's contracts for the approach to the new Wabash avenue bridge. Twice before he was summoned before the committee, but failed to appear. The committee wanted to know why and how the low bid was rejected and the work intrusted to a contractor whose charges, with extras included, are said to be $161,000 more than the low bid.

Mr. Wolfe's explanation was that he had not known about the work in question. The contractor had gone ahead without authorization from him. Vouchers to pay the contractor bore Mr. Wolfe's signature, but he had not signed them. His name had been signed by Edward Moore, Mr. Wolfe's first deputy.

Observers of Chicago's city government of recent years will not require a Baedeker to guide them to an understanding of the matter. This is simply another case where a city official, having defrauded the city, has had recourse to an ingenious sophistry to evade the consequences of his fraud.

A GREAT AMERICAN.

[Grand Rapids Press.]

His name was not George Washington.

But he fought the greatest war of independence in the new world from the standpoint of duration, distance, and area.

His war lasted sixteen long and terrible years, as compared to six years for our own revolution.

There were 467 bloody battles in his war, between armies approximately the same size as in our own.

His troops in a single march covered 3,000 miles intersected by three ranges of the highest mountains in America and provided, even today, with nothing but zigzag trails for pack animals.

His theater of war was nearly ten times as large as that of our own revolution, and he conquered, and liberated twenty times as large an area as was conquered by Napoleon.

The marches of his army exceeded Alexander's to India, Hannibal's through Africa, Spain, and France to Italy, and Tamerlane's across Asia—all put together.

He freed not one nation but five.

His name doubtless is completely unknown to thousands of readers in common with many other people, including individuals of considerable education and culture, throughout the United States.

It is Simon Bolivar.

On Dec. 17 all Latin American nations and many European countries pay tribute to him as the "Washington of South America." That day marks the centennial of his death. The facts quoted above are not from any fulsome Latin American praise but from the honest report of Maj. Henry Rowan Lemly of the United States army.

It is fitting that the United States is to join this tribute to one of the greatest soldiers and statesmen who ever lived. In our schools and our literature we should hear and learn more of Latin America, its heroes, its people, its trade and industry. An increasing number of us each year will speak its language, travel to its great cities, sell and buy in its markets. Our ignorance of it, to date, is abysmal.

LEAD POISONING.

THE Bulletin of the Metropolitan Life says: "Lead poisoning is a real source of danger to infants and young children, and education of parents concerning this hazard would be a definite forward step in public health education. Lead poisoning is rarely thought of as a cause of illness in infants and young children. Private physicians having a general practice should consider more frequently that they are dealing with this serious disease."

They base this warning upon what they know about lead poisoning in babies due to gnawing the paint from cribs, woodwork, and toys. If toys are painted, the paint should never be one that contains lead. The same advice applies to cribs, chairs, and other woodwork that comes within gnawing range of these young animals. We are assured that the market is well supplied with paints that contain no lead.

Other sources of lead to which babies are subjected are lead nipple shields, and the use by mothers of lead powders and lead ointments, either on the breasts or anywhere else within reach of a baby's mouth or hands. Older children are sometimes exposed to other sources of lead poisoning. Children like to get hold of foil and tags, to handle them, and to put them in the mouth. They are not always averse to foil from snuff and tobacco.

There is some lead poisoning due to drinking carbonated beverages drawn through lead pipes. "Pop" got its name from a soda water bottle in which charged water was in contact with a lead foil. This type of pop bottle is never seen around the cities any more, and it may have wholly disappeared from the trade. It is altogether probable that some of the soda fountains still draw their charged waters through lead pipes and connections. One wonders why this industry has not learned how to lacquer as the canning industry has done.

Doubtless the children with perverted tastes, such as the dirt eaters, sometimes develop the paint eating fancy.

WHOOPING COUGH.

W. K. writes:

1. How long after the onset of whooping cough does a child start whooping?
2. How long does it last?
3. At what stage is it contagious?
4. Is there anything a doctor can give to help the cough?
5. Is there any danger of its affecting the lungs?

REPLY.

1. As a rule the whoop peculiarity can be recognized about one week after the cough is well started.
2. Some tendency to whoop is usually detectable for about six weeks. It may be detectable for six months.
3. It is contagious from the onset of the first symptom. It is most contagious during the first two weeks. After that the contagiousness gradually declines.
4. Very little.
5. There is. The danger is great, especially with young children.

SCARLET FEVER.

Mrs. W. J. B. writes:

1. How long is the period of contagion for scarlet fever?
2. Should a child be released from quarantine before all peeling has ceased?
3. Would a discharging ear, from the disease, keep them in quarantine?

REPLY.

1. Four weeks, in most cases; five weeks, in many; much longer, in a few.
2. Follow your state law. Laws usually specify a five week period.
3. It might. Discharging ears after scarlet fever should not be neglected.

MARKING ELECTION BALLOTS.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me if I can put a cross on the circle of my election ballot and then mark on the opposite side of the ballot in front of the names, or whether this procedure would make the ballot void. J. H.

CITIZENSHIP DEFINED.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—1. Who is considered a citizen of the United States? 2. If a citizen of the United States marries a foreigner does he or she lose his or her citizenship? 3. I understand that the only way a natural born citizen could lose his citizenship is to become a naturalized citizen of any other country. Is this correct? 4. I understand that a naturalized citizen loses his citizenship after staying three years out of the United States and that the only way he can regain it is to go through the entire process of naturalization. M. D.

1. The constitution of the United States provides that all persons born in or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States.
2. A female citizen of the United States who married an alien on or before Sept. 1, 1922, lost her American citizenship by reason of such marriage. A female citizen who married an alien after that date did not lose her citizenship unless she married an alien ineligible to citizenship.
3. A natural born citizen or any other citizen loses his American citizenship by being naturalized in a foreign country or by taking an oath of allegiance to any foreign country.
4. "When any naturalized citizen shall have resided for two years in the foreign state from which he came, or for five years in any other foreign state, it shall be presumed that he has ceased to be an American citizen, and the place of his general abode shall be deemed his place of residence during said years: Provided, however, that such presumption may be overcome on the presentation of satisfactory evidence to a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States, under such rules and regulations as the department of state may prescribe."

AND SO THE POOR DOG GOT NONE!

Our dog doc told us that our pup had a cold and the best thing to do for him was to put a teaspoonful of whisky in a cup of water and give it to him. But he didn't give us an order on a drug store. He had used up the quota the government allowed him, he said. Oh, well, Christmas is coming and the doc has a lot of friends who want to celebrate. Anyhow, we went down to the drug store and told the druggist our little dog was sick and the doctor had ordered whisky for him. "Yes," said the druggist, sadly, "a two-legged dog? Nothing personal; no offense; but that's an awful old one. I never fall for it." "Honest, we've got a dog," said we, "and he's got four legs and a tail and everything and he needs whisky as medicine." "You're pretty good," said the druggist, admiringly, "you ought to go into the movies." "We'll bring in the dog," declared we. "You may have a dog," admitted the druggist, "but you might change your mind about giving him the whisky." And just then a man who had come into the drug store to buy a cigar turned on us, registering indignation and scorn. "What," whatted he, "you seek to buy whisky for a mere dog when strong men are running around with their tongues hanging out a yard begging for just one drink of likker? Many a hostess on the Gold Coast is having hysterics right this minute because she has just discovered the butler soaked up all the gin she was saving for cocktails for a party tonight and her bootlegger is in jail. You would buy whisky for a dog when thirsty human beings are drinking antifreeze, hair tonic, and Kansas Jake because they can't drink real likker! Whisky to give to a lop-eared pup when a man like me who has begged all the forenoon at the door of every friend he thought he had for a nice little snifter got nothing but coffee and buttermilk! And, besides——" concluded the man, backing us over behind the telephone booth and talking in a whisper, "if you can talk this drug store guy out of some likker for the hound, I'll trade you two porterhouse steaks for it and send him a turkey for Christmas."

GOING UPGRADE WITH THE BRAKES ON

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 20, 1914.

ON THE EASTERN FRONT.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's army took Lowicz on Dec. 18 after heavy fighting for several days and compelled the further retirement of the Russian lines. Western Galicia was declared to be clear of Russians in an official Austrian statement. In the battle of Limanowa the Austro-Hungarian army is declared to have completely routed the Russians and to have taken 26,000 prisoners. The Russian staff denies the German victory claims and declares the Germans are in full retreat on the East Prussian frontier.

LONDON.—In the effort to throw the Germans back on Ostend the French and British troops have made advances ranging from a few yards to a mile along the 75 mile front from Dixmude in Flanders to Albert in northern France. Between Nieuport and Middelkerke the German positions have been heavily shelled by British warships.

COLOMBO, Ceylon.—The Australian cruiser Sydney has arrived here with its own and the Emden's wounded and with prisoners from the German cruiser which proved such a terror to commerce before it was sunk by the Sydney. The Sydney's crew revealed that their range finder was carried away by a shell from the Emden early in the combat and that the gunners carried on independent fire until they wrecked the German cruiser.

OMAHA, Neb.—Edward Cudahy Jr., 15 year old son of Edward A. Cudahy, millionaire pork packer, who was abducted on Tuesday evening, was brought home at 1:30 o'clock this [Thursday] morning. For thirty-six hours every policeman and hundreds of citizens of Omaha had been searching for the boy. Just exactly how the youth was found is not known to any one except Mr. Cudahy and members of his family. They refuse to confirm it, but it is generally believed that Mr. Cudahy paid a large sum for the boy's ransom. Young Cudahy disappeared at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening. Early yesterday a horseman rode rapidly past the Cudahy residence and threw a note on the lawn in which it was stated that for $25,000 the boy would be returned to his parents. Later another note was received declaring that if the money were not paid immediately the boy's eyes would be burned out with vitriol. After being abducted the youth was blindfolded, taken into the country and placed in a vacant house far from any other habitation, where he was guarded by part of the gang while other members of it were in Omaha endeavoring to secure a settlement with Mr. Cudahy.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NEW YORK.—The Boston Dispatch says that Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt in an interview with newspaper men came out vigorously in her own defense and repudiated utterly the widely circulated volume of her "amours." She paid especial attention to the clergy and larruped Talmage. Of the clergy she said: "A great many occupants of pulpits are merely showmen. What, for instance, is the essential difference between the calling of an actress, like myself, and that of the mountebank Talmage, always on the scent for the latest bit of scandal?"

EDITORIAL. — The Kate Chase Sprague case has now become public property by the filing of Mrs. Sprague's petition for divorce. She alleges adultery with divers women, almost constant intoxication; personal assaults and threats to kill, and in general brutal conduct running over a period of nearly twenty years. On the other hand, Gov. Sprague, though he has not yet filed an answer, declares that she has ruined him by her extravagant mode of life, alleges adultery with Senator Conkling, and asserts he will fight the case inch by inch. The respective parties belonging to what is called high life, all the filthy details will be spread before the country with all the additions which prurient imaginations and salacious gossips can make to it. The Beecher-Tilton case will be outdone, for the parties are equally prominent and the opportunity for smut and scandal greater. It is a thousand pities that the dirty linen in the Sprague household cannot be washed in private.

LOOKING FOR A LEADER.

Berwyn, Ill., Dec. 16.—How taxpayers can complacently watch their taxes mount each year and read day after day newspaper accounts of wide open graft in many of our public offices is beyond understanding. All these years neither of the major parties has made any substantial effort toward improvement of these conditions. The only remedy promising to throw fear into our political bosses is a Cook County Taxpayers' Progressive party.

Surely a leader of unquestioned character, progressive ideas and aggressiveness can be found among 4,000,000 people to head such a movement. An aggressive minority party would act as a whip and a barometer of public opinion. If you don't believe such a movement would find response just talk to some of your friends whose tax bills have been trebled or quadrupled recently.

A real leader with a clean record would find many followers, not only among members of the various taxpayers' associations throughout the county, but the public at large. J. C.

A VERY SPECIAL ASSESSMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—There is no one who would rather indulge in normal spending than the undersigned, but an unjust street assessment stares us in the face to be paid Jan. 2. Our street, South Damen avenue, was paved in 1928. The right of way for a street car extension was left unpaved. On Nov. 10, 1930, the surface lines began to do the work of extending the Damen avenue car line south of 63d street. In this connection they destroyed a foot of concrete paving on either side of their right of way. That means we must pay for 30 square feet of paving which the surface lines have appropriated. I wrote to the mayor's office about this and received an evasive answer from Faherty's office trying to console me with the statement that the surface lines were required to replace any concrete they destroyed. I should hope they would replace it, but why should we pay for it in the first place?

We engaged a lawyer to try to get reimbursement on our assessment, but all the satisfaction we got was a reply that the surface lines are in the hands of receivers and one can't get anything out of the city anyhow. So we have to stint and save to pay a bill part of which is for unnecessary work. I suppose that is the penalty one must pay for being ignorant enough to buy real estate in a graft ridden city.

MRS. M. L. HEPP.

THEATER EXIT LIGHTS.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—The writer sat through a performance a few days ago at the Grand Opera house. Only one exit light was lighted and that so faintly it could only be seen for a few feet. A fireman strolled about before the curtain went up, but apparently couldn't see the unlighted exit signs. Other loop theaters share this violation, either wholly or in part. Some loop houses have signs burning so dimly that they are no use whatever. Others use blue lights, in direct violation of the ordinances.

Theater firemen are paid by the theater managers, so naturally they can't afford to jeopardize a job by reporting their employers' violations. For that reason, isn't it about time for an independent investigation of our playhouses to be made? Our theater managers should welcome it. PLAYGOER.

A PLEA FOR TOLERANCE.

Ravinia, Ill., Dec. 17.—It has come to my attention that one hundred of the colored families on THE TRIBUNE'S list for Christmas baskets have not as yet been taken by any of the Good Fellows. It does seem a shame that there should be any discrimination at a time like this.

The Negroes are the first to lose their jobs and the last to be taken back, and many of them are in very bad straits this year. I am sure that if some of your Good Fellows know the circumstances they will speedily come to the rescue and see to it that no one, whether colored or white, will do without a Christmas dinner.

MARION R. [illegible]

ENFORCED CHARITY.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Your column is the only place where any one has been allowed to tell about contributions to charity which they have been forced to make. I hope you will let me tell what has been done to the members of the electrical workers' union in this city.

A meeting of the union was held a few days ago. We were told that we would have to give up 10 per cent of our wages every month for the unemployed. We were not even allowed to vote on it. The business agent, Union Mike Boyle, says it was on orders from national headquarters and we would have to pay. Some of us are almost doing all we can to take care of relations and friends who are out of work at this time and we cannot support anyone else, as we are not millionaires. If we have to pay this 10 per cent I will have to stop helping my own folks who is out of a job. P. S.

THE PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—We are quite disgusted and are growing more so when THE TRIBUNE'S editorials that are disloyal and disparaging to our President. We all admire the sturdy Quaker we have in the White House and hope he will roast those disgraceful disloyal senators again if the occasion arises. MRS. R. M. SMITH.

CAN YOU PROVE IT?

Chicago, Dec. 13.—A gentleman wants to know why Chicago buyers prefer to buy garments in New York instead of Chicago. It's because of the high cost of racketeers. When the manufacturer does not come across they pour it over his stock during the night. The racketeers cost more than those of other cities and that boosts the price of the manufacturers too high. HENRY NEWMAN.

SCHOOL LUNCHES.

Chicago, Dec. 14. — If "Taxpayer" knows of any school luncheons serving free lunches to head teachers or principals it is his duty to report the manager to Miss Flavilla Normington, who has charge of the lunchroom department of the public schools. Such an act is a direct violation of rules. As a taxpayer I would resent this as quickly as "Taxpayer" has done if it were true. On the contrary, many luncheons are assisting students through school by paying in lunches or cash for service at the lunch period. This has been done for several years at Hyde Park High, and the training on register change making machines, etc., has been of material benefit to the student when he has entered the business world.

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Reichtenburg, are exiled of their estate near Lilial, in Austria, by George Hanbury. A telegram arrives from Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, stating that she dare not come. Prince Paul, ruler of Reichtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and was incensed at her marriage to Chandos. Fearing for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants, Bell and Rowley, depart for Vigil, capital city of Reichtenburg, where Marya resides. Because of the enmity of the prince they must enter the country in stealth. They drive to the frontier and leave Rowley with the car at a farm and proceed by foot. A peasant, named Ramon, whom they befriend, leads them over the border by a secret path. They reach the home of Marya Salm and learn from her that she sent no message and that she plans to drive to Vigil that night. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to lure them within the prince's power, they are preparing to flee with Marya when the prince arrives. The men hold up the prince and his servants at point of gun and escape in the royal car. They find the border so closely guarded that hope of crossing is abandoned.

Chandos remembers Ramon, who lives in the nearby town of Gola. They seek him out. He agrees to hide Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, in his house. Chandos and Hanbury join a traveling circus, where they feel fairly safe from discovery. They are planning to desert the circus and return to Gola when Carol reaches them with a car to take them to Barieba, across the border, where he says Marya is waiting. They receive the car as Grieg's, the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Barieba they receive another message from Marya, stating that she is to be pardoned on condition that she remain in Reichenburg and that she does not communicate with them and that they must never enter the country again.

Realizing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made an arrangement with Grieg, by which they could never consent, they return and attempt to cross the border at a different point. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is apprehended and taken to jail. Chandos identifies himself to the inspector and proves that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg, who has learned of the arrest, arrives. He orders two detectives from Vigil back to prepare a cell for Chandos and takes his prisoner alone in his car.

Chandos regains Grieg intends to kill him, and, although handcuffed, manages to grab his own gun and prevents Grieg from carrying out his intent. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, post themselves along the road and hold up the chief's car and capture it. They fly with the captive chief to Vigil in a futile search for Marya. They find her at the estate of Baron Sabre. Grieg they left tied to a post along the roadside. Marya tells them that she cannot leave with them, as she was horrified that agreeing to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned at this news.

Chandos sets out to find Grieg and kill him to free Marya from her tragic alliance. Grieg has been freed from his bonds and, while Chandos is searching for him, he steals up on Rowley and lays him out and drives off in the car.

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

READY FOR FLIGHT.

"O, my God, sir," says Rowley, "what have I done?"

"Don't blame yourself," said I. "If it's any one's fault, it's mine. Besides, when he sees Mr. Hanbury he'll get the shock of his life. And now lie down for ten minutes and let me think."

I was in a queer state of mind and nearer, I believe, to submission than ever before or since. There had been so many fences and I had been thrown so many times. The last twelve hours had imposed a continuous strain, and the horrid duty I had set out to perform had played the deuce with my nerves. Because of that, I suppose, this fresh disaster set up no answering action in my weary mind. I looked on it, saw that it was bad, deplored it. It was clear that in our haste we had bitten off more than we could chew; and now I was sick of chewing and cared not what was the end.

Suddenly I remembered Leonie.

The thought of her roused me as an electric shock. My apathy died there and then. Our case was critical. I must do more than fold my hands if I was ever to see my wife again.

I knelt to the brook and made a rude enough toilet that did me a world of good. Then I looked round, to meet Rowley's questioning eyes.

"What is it?" said I, smiling.

"You had meant to kill him, sir, hadn't you?"

"I had," said I.

"Ah, sir," says he with a sigh, "you should have left it to me. It wouldn't have spoiled my breakfast."

When I had told him my news and given him Grieg's pistol I turned over on my back to take some rest.

"Wouldn't it, now?" said I, and got to my feet. "Well come on and do it, Rowley, before it's too late."

. . . . . .

It was eight o'clock that morning before we reëntered the park, and half past eight before we sighted the house.

I had already decided that we must stay in the background until we had learned, so to speak, the state of the game; for if this was going against us, a blunder upon the scene would be the act of a fool and I had no desire to play for the second time clean into the enemy's hands. Directly, therefore, I saw the chimney pots, we laid ourselves down in the bracken and started to crawl, and, very soon perceived the mansion before us two furlongs away. A moment's survey sufficed to show us how to approach.

Except at this point the home park was heavily timbered. We had, there, but to go back and bear to the right or left. In this way, if we went with care, we should be able to come to within a stone's throw of the house.

It was a gray old place, for the most part two stories high, and had, I judged, been added to more than once, for its various portions did not agree together, some being very humble and some ornate. It seemed as though the main entrance had formerly stood to the west, for though now nothing but windows looked out that way, an apron of cobbled pavement had made good standing for coaches in days gone by and a road ran away from that side. This was, of course, the drive which led to Vigil, which Grieg had used that morning, which, had we but had our map, we should have sought and taken the night before.

Here I should say that Grieg's car was not to be seen; indeed, a curl of smoke from a chimney and two or three open windows were all the signs of life that we could descry. Since from where we were hidden we could watch the south and west sides, I bade Rowley stay where he was and started to make my way round, to view the rest of the house.

I had crossed the road on my stomach, just out of sight of the house, and was hastening back into the hollow through a parcel of whispering firs, when I saw the sparkle of nickel, and there was Grieg's car.

It was empty and its engine was cold.

For a little I could not conceive why the car should be there. Then it flashed into my mind that Grieg had thus bestowed it against his arrest. To support this conclusion, the car had been backed into hiding and so stood all ready for a precipitate flight.

After a moment's reflection I opened the bonnet and took the contact breaker away. I slid this into my pocket and shut the bonnet again. The car was now at my service, but at that of nobody else, yet showed no sign of having been disabled. When I glanced at the petrol gauge this showed that the tank was half full. I then recovered Grieg's pistol, which Rowley had put in a locker behind the back seat, and so licked clean the platter which luck had thrust under my nose.

We were once more both of us armed and we had control of the car. This was conveniently hidden and ready for use. Lastly, though he did not know it, Grieg's means of escape was gone.

I went on my way cheerfully.

To the north of the house stood stabling about a yard, but I heard no sound of horses and saw no movement at all. What I found to the east, however, repaid me for making the round.

This face of the house rose from a row of arches which gave to an empty cloister, flagged with stone. Above ran one row of windows, and these very tall, suggesting a gallery or banqueting room; and right at the end stood the chapel, with, rising above it, a belfry in which hung a poor looking bell.

The cloister would afford the finest cover that any man could desire. As like as not, moreover, it served as a porch to some door, and I made up my mind to fetch Rowley without more ado.

When I had told him my news and had given him Grieg's pistol I turned on my back for a moment to take some rest.

Before I had lain for two minutes, far in the distance I heard the sound of a car.

We waited breathlessly.

Then a closed car flashed from the trees and swept to the house. On the seat by the driver sat one of the uniformed police.

I was watching the car swing out to sweep to the door when I heard another car coming, though not so fast as the first.

I returned to the latter to see get out the sergeant who had been so friendly to me the night before. Two other police were with him, one in plain clothes.

Their mission admitted of no doubt. But since of the four not one took the simple precaution of stepping as far as the corner and looking down the side of the house, I would have laid any money that they were doomed to draw blank. Indeed, it came into my mind that now was the moment for us to repair to Grieg's car, for that there we should be certain to find him and Rowley could do his business and shoot him dead.

The notion was idle and I dismissed it at once because of the attention which the sound of the shot would attract; but even as I dismissed it I saw the outstanding value of such a move.

Rowley had Grieg's own pistol. Once he had killed the fellow he had but to thrust the weapon into its owner's hand and make himself scarce. The police would rush to the scene to find that the man they were seeking had put an end to their duty by taking his life. Their work being, therefore, over, they would see to the bestowal of the body and go their way, little dreaming that we were but waiting for them to take their leave.

As George would have said, "The thing was too easy."

As I turned to give Rowley his orders I heard a familiar sigh—the sigh of a well tuned engine, running very slowly just out of sight.

The second car had just surmounted the ridge and was gliding into the hollow or standing still. And I knew whose car it was and why he had come.

Hoover Asking $1,725,000 for Chicago's Fair

Wants Federal Building, Other Co-operation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—President Hoover today recommended the appropriation of $1,725,000 for the expenses of government participation in the Chicago World's Fair centennial celebration in 1933. Of this sum $550,000 would be utilized for buildings. The balance of the appropriation would be expended for exhibits and administrative expenses.

President Hoover's recommendation was transmitted to congress in a special message, accompanying a report submitted by the special executive committee appointed last year to work out preliminary arrangements for government representation at Chicago.

No difficulty in securing congressional approval of the appropriation is anticipated.

In its report, the committee urged construction of a government building containing not less than 120,000 square feet to contain the major federal displays. It also recommended the setting up of a commissioner, who would represent the government at the exposition. The commissioner would serve under the direction of a commission composed of the secretaries of state, commerce, and agriculture.

"The findings of this committee," the President stated in his message, "include recommendations that the government be represented in the person of a commissioner. I commend to the favorable consideration of the congress the enclosed report of the committee to the end that legislation may be enacted to authorize an appropriation of $1,725,000 for the expenses of representation at and participation in the Chicago World's Fair centennial celebration, known as the Century of Progress exposition, on the part of the government of the United States and its various departments and activities in accordance with the recommendations of the committee."

Assistant Secretary of State William R. Castle headed the special committee. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture R. W. Dunlap and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Clarence M. Young worked with Mr. Castle. Under their directions, all executive departments of the government set machinery in motion to insure adequate represention in the government building.

W. K. VANDERBILT TELLS OWN STORY OF WORLD CRUISE

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—William K. Vanderbilt has written a description of the round the world voyage which he and Mrs. Vanderbilt made in the yacht Ava from October, 1928, to May, 1929. He has had it published as a book entitled "Taking One's Own Ship Around the World."

Mr. Vanderbilt, who is a lieutenant commander in the United States naval reserves, commanded the 213 foot motor yacht himself on the 28,000 mile trip. His story of the world cruise fills 264 pages and is embellished by twenty-one color plates depicting various fish caught on the trip, besides about 100 other illustrations, most of them reproduced from photographs.

The book was privately printed. A limited number went to the public at $100 each.

Describing chronologically the course of the Ava's voyage, Mr. Vanderbilt tells how the party visited many fascinating parts of the Pacific, including Hawaii, the atoll of Jaluit, the little known Caroline islands, and the Philippines; thence to the China sea, Saigon, ancient Angkor, Singapore, Ceylon, India, the Arabian sea, and the Red sea. Port Sudan and Cairo, various places on the Mediterranean, including the east coast of Spain and Morocco, and thence homeward across the Atlantic to Miami.

There were more than sixty ports of call and many side trips were made.

"For years I had waited and toiled for the moment when, as captain of my own ship, I would be able to undertake a voyage rarely accomplished—the circumnavigation of the globe," Mr. Vanderbilt wrote in his opening paragraph.

The author then told how he enlisted in the United States naval reserve just before the United States entered the world war, when he received the commission of lieutenant, junior grade. He recalled that he had been rejected by the army for the Spanish-American war in 1898 while he was a freshman at Harvard.

The Ava, a flush deck yacht of 867 tons, was bought by Commander Vanderbilt in February, 1922. It had been built by the British admiralty in the latter part of the world war, was launched in 1918, and was later turned over to the French navy.

Barton Bequeathes Romantic Mountain Peak to Berea College

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The mountain peak bequeathed to Berea college by the Rev. William E. Barton was the spot where he, while a senior at that college, proposed to his wife, then an instructor. That was the story told by William H. Townsend, attorney.

Dr. Barton, authority on Abraham Lincoln and father of Bruce Barton, writer, made the bequest in a will filed in Chicago in which it was provided that his Lincoln collection be placed in an educational institution selected by his children.

Mr. Townsend, who is also author of a book on Lincoln, said he would go to the Barton summer home at Foxboro, Mass., next summer to examine and appraise the Barton collection.

The mountain peak bequeathed Berea college will be made part of the college's forest preserve and named "Barton Pinnacle."

Holiday Spirit Finds Echo in Many Parties

While School Children Help the Needy.

Students of many Chicago high schools went about their neighborhoods yesterday distributing Christmas baskets to the needy. Hundreds of homes were visited by boys and girls who left a cheery greeting along with the Christmas dinner baskets.

A delegation of boys from Lane Technical High school spent yesterday, the last day of their 1930 school year, distributing more than 200 baskets to homes near the school. The baskets were filled with gifts brought by the students.

Forty-six baskets of food were distributed by the patrol boys of Whitney school at 28th street and Komensky avenue. As at Lane school, the food was brought from home by the students and sorted to be placed in the various baskets.

President A. J. Cermak of the county board was host to 1,500 children at 1114 Diversey parkway yesterday afternoon. The children were residents of the Forty-fifth ward. County Commissioner Charles H. Weber was master of ceremonies. Toys and other gifts were handed out from a huge Christmas tree and games were played.

Ex-service men, with families, who are in need will be given Christmas baskets by the Cook county American Legion the day before Christmas. This is an annual custom of the Legion.

A group of River Forest, Oak Park, and Austin girls attending Trinity High school, who teach in the congested districts, will give two Christmas parties today. The first will be at 10 a. m. at 1300 South St. Louis avenue, and the second at 1 p. m., at 19th and Peoria streets. There will be Christmas trees, games and entertainment.

The National Junior Cross Bow association, the Building Managers' association and downtown office of building managements will open a number of cross bow archery ranges in the downtown districts the proceeds of which will be donated to the parental school of Chicago, Central Park and Berwyn avenues, for Christmas presents for children between the ages of 8 and 15. A range opens today in the Bell building, 307 North Michigan avenue.

The annual doll party sponsored by Mrs. Patrick J. Newton, 544 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, was held last night at Columbus park recreation hall, Central avenue and Congress street. Each guest brought a toy to be given on Christmas morning to children patients at the Cook county hospital.

The students at the Chicago Normal School of Physical Education will entertain fifty girls from Howell Settlement house at a party in the school auditorium, 5026 Greenwood avenue. Each child will be given a stocking filled with candy, nuts, toys, gloves, hose, and other clothing.

Hard working volunteers in the Christmas seal campaign in the Harriet Beecher Stowe school, 3444 Wabansia avenue, are Billie Guy, 14, of 3500 Wabansia avenue, and Anton Christensen, 12, of 1748 North Troy street. They were awarded special health achievement awards by officials of the Chicago Tuberculosis institute.

Pilgrims' Landing 310 Yrs. Ago Will Be Celebrated

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The 310th anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims from the Mayflower on Plymouth Rock in Massachusetts will be observed Sunday in Congregational churches throughout the United States.

In announcing the commemoration, the Rev. Dr. Charles Emerson Burton, general secretary of the national council of the Congregational churches, pointed out that the church founded by the Pilgrims in Plymouth was the first Congregational church in America.

"No greater obstacles can confront us than were faced by these first pioneers for religious and civil liberty on this continent," Dr. Burton said.

MUSIC CRITIC WARNS YOU. NOT TO MISS TONIGHT'S SONG FETE

BY EDWARD MOORE.

If there is any chance of your getting inside Orchestra hall tonight, do not miss it, for you will hear the most charming, the most inspiriting musical performance of the entire season. It is Gabriel Pierné's "The Children at Bethlehem," sung by a chorus of 400 school boys and girls on the stage, another echo chorus of about 100 on the box floor, 7 soloists, a narrator (though he speaks instead of singing), played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and conducted by Mr. Stock. It will be an experience you will remember for years afterwards.

Commend me to well trained children, anyway, for a good performance. These come from Cregier, Curtis, Foreman, Franklin, Graham, Hirsch, Stockton, and Sullivan Junior High schools. They have been working for weeks on the score with their own teachers and supervisors. They have had several general rehearsals with Mr. Stock and Mr. DeLamarter, and yesterday afternoon they gave their first public performance. There will be another tomorrow night and a third a week from Tuesday afternoon.

And how those youngsters sang! This work ought to put a perpetual stopper on the simplified piffle that is being put under the name of children's music. Pierné made no concessions, and the children proved that he needed to make none. He calls his composition a "Mystery," which means that he wrote some surpassingly lovely music about an hour in length, considerably more complex than the average opera score and about six times as beautiful. And the children just took it in their stride. Between what Pierné did and what yesterday's singers did, it was enough to moisten the eyelids of those who listened.

The soloists had their share, too. There were elaborate parts for Anna Burmeister and Margaret Lester, lesser ones for Agatha Lewis, Helen Bickerton, Margaret Heywood Wood, Raymund Koch, and Eugene Dressler, the spoken part of the narrator for Hobart Sommers, all of them first class. But even their excellences paled before the young chorus.

It was a fine concert all the way through. Mr. Stock conducted the Pastorale from Bach's "Christmas Oratorio," always fitting at this season, also a new "Christmas" by the Bohemian composer, Jaromir Weinberger, which would have been immense if Pierné and the children had not swept up everything in sight just before. Finally came the ballet music, and wedding march from Rubenstein's "Feramors," and here Mr. Stock sprung his own surprise.

Just before the wedding march started a door at the rear of the hall opened, and down the right aisle came Santa Claus bearing that instrument of flexible wood, tinkling bells, and waving horsehair plumes that goes under the name of schellenbaum. He mounted to the stage and shook out a merry chime during the music to the unbounded delight of the young of all ages on the stage and in the audience. So ended a concert of good music and good feeling.

Tide of Buying for Christmas Rises in Loop

Trade Quickens; Shoppers Filling Stores.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Rumors were flying about State street yesterday that crowds of infuriated shoppers figuratively had fallen upon the business depression and driven it from the loop in protest against its interference with their buying activities. Officials of large department stores last night pointed for proof to the throngs still besieging the counters and to the bundle laden buyers.

"It's true our business for the entire Christmas season probably will not come up to last year's," one of the executives of a larger store revealed, "but we have had some rousing good days, especially during this week, and we are well satisfied. For instance, last Monday was our biggest day so far.

"In dollar volume Thursday's sales were greater than for the corresponding day last year, and today the crowds are just as big and are buying just as fast, so that while we can't say definitely until all the sales checks are in, we are pretty certain we have also eclipsed the figures for this date last year.

"When we can make records like that we believe we have cause to be satisfied. Apparel sales have been especially good with us: That, of course, we think is fine. Many of our staples are moving fast. People are taking full advantage of the fact that their dollars will go farther this year than they have done in years, and for what they are spending they are getting full value."

A casual survey of the larger stores, not only in the loop but also in all the outlying business districts, revealed identical conditions all of them. Seasonal sales of leather pocketbooks and parasols, house slippers, and hosiery were encountered, and at each center was a crowd of shoppers, keeping the sales force hopping to handle their change and parcels.

Not for years have so many individuals descended upon the lingerie sections with buying intent. The strategic combination of the comparatively low prices, the entrancing styles and the excellent materials available have made this department perhaps the most popular of all in the majority of the stores. Beaded, rhinestone and embroidered taffeta evening bags also have been selling fast, due to lower prices than in previous seasons.

Among the other departments where the buzz of purchasing was going on apace were the handkerchief counters, the piles of pastel tinted scarves bought especially for the Christmas trade; the new, vividly colored scarves which can be bought in regular scarf lengths, cut from the bolt; the glassware, which will provide many a delightful gift for the housewife; the electric equipment, including especially percolator sets and toasters, and the glove sections.

He hopes to live two months within the volcano, gathering geological material for the government.

New Zealand Threatens to Do Without Hollywood

AUCKLAND, New Zealand.—(AP)—The New Zealand government is waving the big stick at Hollywood. When the government imposed a new film tax, representatives of American firm corporations declared that as a reprisal they temporarily would discontinue the importation of films. But the threat left the authorities undismayed. A government notice virtually threatens that if American film imports are cut off temporarily the government will make the prohibition permanent.

BEG YOUR PARDON

A report of a state-wide survey of business conditions printed in yesterday's TRIBUNE attributed the report to the Illinois Manufacturers' association. This was an error. The survey was compiled by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

A PLEA FOR TOLERANCE.

Ravinia, Ill., Dec. 17.—It has come to my attention that one hundred of the colored families on THE TRIBUNE'S list for Christmas baskets have not as yet been taken by any of the Good Fellows. It does seem a shame that there should be any discrimination at a time like this.

The Negroes are the first to lose their jobs and the last to be taken back, and many of them are in very bad straits this year. I am sure that if some of your Good Fellows know the circumstances they will speedily come to the rescue and see to it that no family, whether colored or white, will do without a Christmas dinner.

ENFORCED CHARITY.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Your column is the only place where any one has been allowed to tell about contributions to charity which they have been forced to make. I hope you will let me tell what has been done to the members of the electrical workers' union in this city.

A meeting of the union was held a few days ago. We were told that we would have to give up 10 per cent of our wages every month for the unemployed. We were not even allowed to vote on it. The business agent, Umbrella Mike Boyle, says it was on orders from national headquarters and we would have to pay. Some of us are already doing all we can to take care of relations and friends who are out of work at this time and we cannot support any one else, as we are not millionaires. If we have to pay this 10 per cent I will have to stop helping my own father, who is out of a job. P. S.

THE PRESIDENT.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—We are quite disgusted and are growing more so with THE TRIBUNE'S editorials that are so disloyal and disparaging to our fine President. We all admire the spunky Quaker we have in the White House, and hope he will roast those disgusting, disloyal senators again if the occasion arises. MRS. R. M. SMITH.

CAN YOU PROVE IT?

Chicago, Dec. 13.—A gentleman wants to know why Chicago buyers prefer to buy garments in New York instead of Chicago. It's because of the high cost of racketeers. When the manufacturer does not come across they pour acid over his stock during the night. Our racketeers cost more than those of other cities and that boosts the price of our manufacturers too high.

SCHOOL LUNCHES.

Chicago, Dec. 14. — If "Taxpayer" knows of any school lunchroom serving free lunches to head teachers or principals it is his duty to report the manager to Miss Flavilla Normington, who has charge of the lunchroom department of the public schools. Such an act is a direct violation of rules. As a taxpayer I would resent this as quickly as "Taxpayer" has done if it were true. On the contrary, many lunchrooms are assisting students through school by paying in lunches or cash for services at the lunch period. This has been done for several years at Hyde Park High, and the training on registers, change making machines, etc., has been of material benefit to the student when he has entered the business world.

Try Massage for Those Two Frown Lines in the Brow

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Like discovering a new word and having it immediately confront you on a printed page, you discover a wrinkle and it jumps out at you from a face you hadn't noticed it on before, or it, too, may strike at you from the printed page.

As a friend looking over a magazine detected a warning sign, marked by a star, just between the eyes, she took out her vanity for a powdering and announced in scared tones: "Why, I've got it!" "It" was the wrinkle covered by a star in the picture, but having no star to cover it on the troubled girl's face.

We're told, of course, that eye strain and frowning are the two things to watch out for when the twin crease just above the bridge of the nose begins to appear. It's a mark that is stamped on any number of faces, if you'll observe, and not young faces, as a general rule. The crease usually irons out with a change of expression on the young face, but it doesn't disappear quickly on the maturer one.

Now, we'll have to add this spot to the collection of "Beware" ones. More than crow's feet or a crepy line, I think, it puts Father Time's calling card on the facial table. Perhaps, when women massage the face, the brow not being obviously lined, they slip up on giving it its full share of stroking. But granted it isn't eyes that crease the skin perpendicularly at the point mentioned, or the frowning habit, it must be lack of massage care.

If the dents are there it will have to be given extra attention and there's no stroke better than the one you use with palms greased, going in opposite directions, smoothing out the crinkled spot. Do the movement often, even when it is not convenient to have the palms greased. Use ungreased ones and work the surface smooth, always in an out and up movement of palms.

If you're wearing a "naked" face, as some one calls the effect of the off the face hat, you need a smooth brow more than you ever needed one in your life.

FARM AND GARDEN

COMFORTABLE HOMES.

Farm homes can be made fully as comfortable as those in the city. Testimony on this subject can be obtained specifically from Fred H. Lobaugh, who lives five miles northwest of South Bend, Ind., where he operates a ten acre truck farm. Electric lights, an electric pump and water system, modern furnace heat, one and one-half acres of garden plots, irrigated by an overhead piping system, and a sizeable greenhouse are among his truck growing and home facilities.

The water system is capable of delivering 1,200 gallons per hour and is automatic with the turning of faucets. Five outlets around the exterior of the house provide for keeping the lawn green during dry spells.

The overhead irrigation in the garden is one of Mr. Lobaugh's ideas, which he put into practice after the purchase of 1,200 feet of pipe. Lateral lines 235 feet long and 50 feet apart can sprinkle alternately or in pairs or simultaneously, sending showers of water gently over the growing vegetables as nearly like a rain as artificial watering can be, he says.

Lettuce, spinach, and cauliflower grown for the South Bend markets grow like mushrooms when the watering system is used.

On Bleak Day Afternoon Teas Prove Cheering

BY THALIA

ONE of the best ways in the world to forget troubles and care is to spend a late afternoon going to teas. The tea hour is too short for anything but light hearted brevities of friendliness and chatter. I went to three yesterday afternoon, and though they were widely different in character, they were all festive, cheerful, and gay.

The Stevens family was having a buffet and large party at the Fortnightly to introduce to a great number of people the bride, Mrs. Elmer Stevens, the former Harriet Straight. Mr. and Mrs. Anson Cameron and Mr. and Mrs. P. Soper Jr. were the informal hosts and hostesses, but Mr. Charles A. Stevens was busy greeting friends, and the Cameron boys, Scott and Charles Stevens Cameron, were doing their share of the entertaining.

The receiving line, which Mr. Elmer didn't join until the party was well along, stood against a window screened in greenery and poinsettias. Mrs. Soper's quaintly lovely gown of shirred scarlet velvet matched the Christmas flowers. Mrs. Stevens wore black velvet and Mrs. Cameron silver and soft blue brocaded crêpe.

Over at his apartment at the Drake Baron John H. von Eyssenhardt was complaining that the hotel chef had made such elaborate spun sugar ornaments for his tea that the guests were noticing the comestibles more than they were his priceless objets d'art. And Mrs. Edward A. Leight tore out his contention, saying that one of the chocolate eclairs was winking at her. Among others whom Baron von Eyssenhardt teased and showed his treasures to were Mrs. Hale Holden Jr., Mrs. John Borden, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, Mrs. Howard Cunningham, Mrs. Clair E. More, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed.

Still another kind of a tea was the party, one of a series of Friday afternoon ones, given at the downtown Y. W. C. A. branch for the girls of the Y. W.'s free classes. Mrs. William L. Hodgkins and several of the other women on the board preside and help make things go. The girls line up and have a sing at 3:30 o'clock, after which there is a program. Mrs. Bowman C. Lingle sang last week, and yesterday, Mrs. Marvin Pool did some whistling solos.

J. W. Lane of Evanston.
Engaged to Eastern Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrew Kerns of Fall River, Mass., have recently announced the engagement of their daughter, Ruth, to John Wallace Lane, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Rutherford Lane, who reside at 1042 Michigan avenue, Evanston. Miss Kerns is a senior at Pembroke college, Providence, R. I., and Mr. Lane a senior at Brown university. Miss Kerns will spend the Christmas holidays with the Lanes in Evanston.

It should interest you to know that Leander McCormick is sailing from England on the 27th, will land on Jan. 2 and, after seeing his parents, the L. Hamilton McCormicks, who are happily ensconced in a high-up apartment at the Hotel Pierre in New York City, will come on to Chicago in time to be at the Twelfth Night ball. . . . that Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. and John Clay Jr. both have birthdays on Dec. 16, and that Mrs. Clay gave a birthday dinner party for them on Tuesday night. . . . that one of the crowd who went down to Grasslands recently for the steeplechase and hunting says that after hunting there other places look like pee-wee golf courses in comparison. . . . that the Alfred Wolfes' New Year's eve party will not be at their apartment here, but instead will be a house party at Ephraim, Wis., the 18 guests going up the day of New Year's eve and staying over Sunday . . . . that the Tavern's feeling about New Year's eve [expressed by Secretary Charles Collins] is "this old year has been a tough customer. We're ready to say to him: 'Here's your hat, and don't forget to take your business cycle with you. When the New Year comes peeking in, with his little playmate, Good Times, just around the corner, he should be welcomed with cheers. Therefore the Tavern's doors will be open Wednesday night, Dec. 31, 1930, until the last horn is blown and the last taxi called.'"

Here Yet to Be Told
About the Holiday Plans.

Still more . . . Mrs. Edward S. Rawson Jr. was only attendant for her sister, Miss Lydia Coonley, for her marriage in New York on Wednesday to Thomas Nickerson Jr., and the latter's father was his best man . . . the Philip B. Mahers changed their plans at the last minute about going to spend Christmas, children and all, with Mrs. Michelson's brother-in-law and sister, Lieut. and Mrs. Festus Foster, at Dahlgren, Va., but the Sheldon Dicks (Dorothy Michelson) have gone down from Provincetown to be with the Fosters . . . the John Kelloggs are giving a dinner for their daughter, Betty, the night of the Princeton Triangle show. And more, too . . . there's to be a pee wee golf tournament held in connection with the annual Chi Psi ball, to take place at the Congress hotel next Tuesday evening (the party is arranged by the Chicago Chi Psi Alumni association, and Henry Paulman and Thomas J. Boodell are chairmen) . . . holiday party invitations for Richard Howland should be sent in care of his sister, Mrs. Russell Stafford in Lake Forest, because he's to be with her during his recess from studies at Exeter academy . . . the Vincent Healys are out of their Walton place apartment and are at the Ambassador until the day after Christmas (then they're going to Miami Beach, Mr. Healy on business) . . . speaking of Miami Beach, more than thirty of the John D. Hertz polo ponies are reported to have arrived there for the winter games . . . invitations for Miss Anna Catherine Hurd's marriage to Howard Joseph Keller on Jan. 10 have been sent out, and the future Keller domicile is to be at 550 Sheridan road, Evanston.

Miss Elizabeth Evans Hughes, younger daughter of the chief justice and Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes, was married today to William Thomas Gossett of New York. The ceremony was performed at noon in the home of the chief justice at 2223 R street.

The Rev. Dr. Harry Fosdick, pastor of the Riverside Drive Baptist church in New York, assisted by the Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church here, performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives were present, owing to the serious illness of the bridegroom's mother and the absence in Europe of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Waddell. The bride wore an afternoon costume of sapphire blue velvet trimmed with bands of ermine, with a corsage of gardenias.

The bride and bridegroom will be at home at 308 East 79th street after their wedding trip.

Children Won't Go On Believing in Old Santa Forever

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The supplying of Christmas carols will be resmed by Mrs. Bevans this year. Those desiring carols please inclose 14 cents in coins or stamps.

"Do you know, John, I don't think Patty believes in Santa Claus any longer! Isn't that terrible!" And small Patty's mother's face was almost stricken as she revealed to her husband this horrible suspicion.

Many mothers, and fathers too, take it rather hard when the Santa Claus myth dissolves in the growing light of their children's minds. They feel a sense of loss when the children's common sense becomes so developed that they argue about Santa's being unable to get down the chimney—and his inability to visit millions of children in one night—and about there being so many Santas, and so forth.

It seems to many parents a most poignant moment—the moment when that faith goes. And often they try to prolong it, overstepping the mark by trying to actually prove that there is a Santa Claus. I've known of people in a frantic desire to hold on, saying, "Santa Claus doesn't give presents to little boys and girls who don't believe in him."

I suppose they do this because it seems like such a tragedy to them—the loss of implicit faith in the jolly little saint. But it isn't necessarily a tragedy.

To be sure, when some other child wrecks their belief at one fell swoop it is pretty sure to be a shock. But, in the other cases, when the realization has been gradually growing on them from season to season, it isn't a tragedy to them when reason finally confirms their suspicion that it's all a lovely fairy tale. It doesn't mean that Christmas is robbed of all its delight by any means.

There is so much to Christmas besides Santa Claus that I personally do not believe in making Santa Claus overpower the other factors of this beautiful day.

Forty-five Model Youths Vie for Scholarships

Forty-five students who could truthfully assert that they were "free from the vices of smoking and chewing and from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage" competed this year at the University of Illinois for the John M. Gregory and Louisa C. Gregory scholarships.

One Chicago youth, Edward Purcell of 2119 South Harding, was among the four announced yesterday as meriting the awards. The others were A. W. Mielke of Danville, Lois Rash of Urbana, and F. W. Salogga of Decatur. Miss Rath and Mielke will receive $100 and the other two $50 each. The scholarships, for which only self-sustaining students are eligible, were provided for in the will of Mrs. Gregory, wife of the first president of the University of Illinois.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

CHILD'S DRESS.

This cunning frock ends its brief bodice in a deep point at the front. Directly below, the skirt is pressed in an inverted box plait that adds much to the trim appearance of the dress. The skirt is joined to the bodice with soft gathers that provide ample fullness to the hem. Bloomers peep beneath the dress for smartness. Wool jersey, wool challis, or any preferred wash material will be suitable.

The pattern, 2657, comes in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material with ⅜ yard of 35 inch contrasting, with 1⅛ yards of dark binding and 1⅛ yards of light binding.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 19.—(AP)—President Hoover today sent his Christmas greetings to all disabled veterans with "assurances of the nation's grateful remembrance of your service and sacrifices."

"Again I send you my Christmas greetings," he message read, "and best wishes for your happiness in the new year, with renewed assurances of the nation's grateful remembrance of your service and sacrifices.

"I do pray that the new year will bring you many blessings and new hope for the future; to those in hospitals, or ill in their homes, restoration of health; and to all, more of comfort and contentment.

Bring Girl or You Don't Dance, Edict in Wichita

Wichita, Kas., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The stag at eve has had his fill of University of Wichita dances as far as the student council is concerned. He was outlawed yesterday as a matter of economic justice. The council found the unaccompanied male bought a dance ticket and little else. Then he danced with the other fellow's date. The man with the girl had other responsibilities—a taxicab, flowers and supped after the dance, perhaps.

Too-Conscientious Worker Outmoded by New, Peppy Type

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Another copy book maxim, due for revision, applies to the one about the rewards of working overtime. Not looking at the time clock, ignoring the existence of a time clock, used to be held up as the proper frame of mind and effort for success. But word reaches us via the news route that the "slave" type of worker is no longer looked upon with the favor she once earned.

It's a zest for life employers are asking for now, it seems. And the zest for life, obviously, is fostered by seeing life, tasting of it copiously, even to an overcrowded social existence. Punch, vim, vitality, it is now believed, accrue not from working endless hours, but from mixing socially with groups that are full of punch, vim and vitality.

The conscientious grub, as they now call the successful worker of a former day, doesn't stand a ghost of a show alongside the colorful creature with ideas gained from associating with folk with ideas. To home and to bed to be rested for the morrow, then, is not the ingredient in current success prescriptions. It's the all work and no play dull person that is being objected to.

And a good thing, we claim, that the stamp of disapproval has been so directed, although a warning must be given in the same breath that the other extreme is equally fatal. During the pioneer stage and later, the woman who set out to make a business success for herself, or whose work automatically shaped her so, too frequently lived for her work and nothing but it, with the consequence that she frequently awoke after fifteen or twenty years of concentrated business effort to the fact that life had slipped her by. Fun she had known little of, the friends were few she held on to; the capacity for enjoyment was gone.

She had kept her nose to the grindstone too closely for any social life, to speak of. The success, though it might be measured in real estate possessions, a handsome bank account, or a well padded safety deposit box, meant little in the face of the large slice of life lost.

The outspoken preference now for the girl who goes in for social recreation and its stimulating advantages is a good thing for the woman worker. Now she must learn to take her business day as a man does and get her share of fun as she goes along.

George Russell, Irish Author, Will Be Here Monday

George Russell, Irish writer, known to the literary world as "AE," will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be held at 1 o'clock Monday in the new studios of the National Broadcasting company on the top floor of the Merchandise Mart.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Actions Are Best Proof.

"Dear Miss Blake: How can I find out if a certain boy loves me besides watching his actions. E. M."

Nothing better than that to offer. It's the surest way to determine the young man's feelings.

Evening Pajamas with Paris Endorsement

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—When Louise Boulanger first launched her famous studio gowns everybody gasped. Trousers for evening, the idea was new and daring—almost risqué. But since then evening pajamas have made their way up the sartorial ladder and, this season, in Biarritz and the Lido, evening pajamas dining side by side with conventional evening dress were no uncommon sight.

The Redfern evening pajamas, sketched above, are very grand, indeed. The trousers (?) and jacket are solidly embroidered all over in shining black paillettes. The trousers follow Redfern's favorite sheath line, clinging to the knees and flaring toward the feet. The graceful crossed hip tunic is edged with a circular flounce of the paillette fabric. The little cutaway bolero has amusing short and long sleeves—cut up on the inside of the arm and trailing on the outside.

The bodice of white chiffon velvet is cut like an inside blouse in front while in back it turns into crossed suspenders that button on to the draped belt that is white velvet below and black velvet above. The bracelets and earrings worn with this ensemble are of hematite—that black runner-up on onyx—and white gold. The slippers are embroidered in black paillettes to match the pajamas.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Offers an Accordian.

"I have a few articles I think would bring happiness to some poor family. Among them is an accordian. Do you know of some one who would like to have it? MRS. R. S."

Perhaps this is the musical instrument you've always wanted, but could never afford to buy. If so, write me for it; please do not telephone.

Invalid Girl's Request.

"I am a girl of 17 and have been in a tuberculosis sanitarium for the last two years. My little brother, 10, has never had what you might call a real Christmas. Is it possible for you to secure clothing and toys for him this year? He wears size 14 and shoes size 5 B or C. I, too, would appreciate anything in the line of clothing. I wear size 16 or 18 and shoes size 6½C.

M. T."

If you'd like to give your son's outgrown clothing and some of the toys he's grown tired of to another boy, here's a likely applicant for them. Perhaps some one will be able to help the invalid girl, too.

Food Talk.

Turkey will appear on many Christmas dinner tables this year, but not on all of them. Many will feast on Bob Cratchet's famous goose.

A young, fat bird weighing about ten or twelve pounds and properly roasted is one of the most savory of fowls. Select one whose breastbone yields easily to pressure and has tender wings, smooth yellow legs, and plenty of pin feathers, and one with a yellow rather than a red bill. All these are good signs of youth. Singe over a clear gas flame and clean thoroughly. There is nothing better than a cloth of firm texture and some good, brisk rubbing to remove the down. If the skin shows any signs of dirt, use some soap in the water. Clear water will not remove the dirt from the oily skin. Last, wash well with soda water (1 teaspoon baking soda to each quart of water). Rub the inside of the fowl with salt and let stand over night.

Bread stuffing—a time honored one—seasoned highly with sage and onions is excellent. But there are other good ones for goose. Apple and raisin dressing calls for ¾ cup of bread crumbs, ½ cup cleaned, well washed currants, ½ cup seeded raisins, chopped, a tart apple pared and chopped, with 2 tablespoons melted butter and salt and pepper to taste.

When a piquant stuffing is desired there is no better one than that made of mashed potatoes seasoned with 1 teaspoon sage, ½ of a finely chopped onion, ¼ cup butter, and 2 tablespoons chili sauce to every two cups of mashed potato.

Next comes the trussing of the goose, which is different from chicken because the legs are shorter. Draw the thighs close to the body and, holding them in this position, insert a steel skewer under the middle joint and run it through the body so that it comes out under the middle joint on the other side. Fold the wings close to the body and insert a second skewer through the wing, body, and wing on the opposite side. Skewers may be purchased at any dime store—they are useful in all kinds of meat cookery and will last a long time. Wind a string around the bone of one leg, then around the other, so there is a distance of one inch between the legs. With both ends of the string draw the legs close to the back, then cross string under back around the skewers run through the thigh, fasten around the wing skewer, and tie securely. Draw neck skin under the back and fasten with a skewer.

I like to use a covered roaster for goose and open the vent in the cover or remove the cover the last 15 minutes to brown the bird nicely. Remove goose and make gravy. Always make the gravy in the roasting pan to save every drop of the rich juice and valuable coloring.

Apple sauce, cinnamon apples, cranberry sauce, and currant jelly are all excellent with goose. As for vegetables, turnips, onions, tomatoes, and celery make delicious accompaniments.

To make cinnamon apples select small, tart apples, pare and core, but keep whole. Bring to boiling point 1 cup cider and 1 cup sugar. Cook 5 minutes and add 1 teaspoon cinnamon. Pour over apples and bake slowly until tender. Drop a spoonful of tart red jelly in each apple and serve with the goose.

A good menu built around roast goose is as follows:

Tomato Cocktail
Cream of Oyster Soup Oyster Crackers
Roast Goose Cinnamon Apples
Mashed Potatoes Stuffing
Brussels Sprouts
Plum Pudding
Nuts Raisins Candy

COCOANUT SOUFFLÉ.

3 tablespoons cornstarch.
1-3 cup sugar.
1 cup cocoanut.
1½ cups hot milk.
1 tablespoon butter.
Whites of 4 eggs.
2 tablespoons strawberry jam.

Mix the cornstarch, sugar, and cocoanut thoroughly. Stir in the hot milk. Cook ten minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the butter and cool. Beat the egg whites until stiff and fold into the cornstarch mixture. Bake in individual buttered and sugared mold, set in a pan of hot water for about 12 minutes in a moderate oven (350 deg. Fah.). Turn from the mold and put a teaspoonful of strawberry jam on the top of each souffle. (The jam should be added just before serving.)

Yield: Six servings. Total: 234 calories; protein, 21 calories; fats, 105 calories; carbohydrates, 108 calories.

SCHMELING WIRE AROUSES WRATH OF N. Y. BOARD

Threaten to Depose Champion.

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Max Schmeling, who won the world's heavyweight title from Jack Sharkey while in a reclining position, seems about to lose it the same way.

MAX SCHMELING.

The New York state athletic commission today, reading his cabled reply from Germany to an ultimatum ordering him to sign within 15 days for a return bout with the Boston sailor, suffered a slight attack of heat under the collar. Schmeling blandly cabled the commission to get in touch with his manager, Joe Jacobs, but said nothing about signing to fight Sharkey or any one else within 15 days or ever.

The commission, headed by James A. Farley, refused to comment officially on the cablegram. There were indications, however, that the solons will regret the recognition extended Schmeling after his victory on a foul over Sharkey last June and are about to declare him null and void and the championship, vacated voluntarily by Gene Tunney in 1928, once more open to all comers.

Similar to N. B. A. Attitude.

This is in line with similar indications from the National Boxing association.

Schmeling's cablegram, which the commission considers no answer to its ultimatum, was as follows:

"Gentlemen: Joe Jacobs is now my sole manager and I have just cabled him to go before your body and handle this matter. He knows what to do. Best regards."

Unfortunately for Schmeling and the heavyweight puzzle, now more complicated than ever, the commission does not recognize Jacobs as a manager because of his suspension some time ago during the controversy that surrounded the elimination of the Teuton heavyweight's original pilot, Arthur Rudow. Jacobs has filed no managerial contract for Schmeling with the commission. The fistic fathers consider Schmeling a free agent, required to speak for himself.

Pressure on Other Champs.

The commission put the pressure on two other champions who have been lax in the matter of defending their titles. Mickey Walker, king of the middleweights, and Panama Al Brown, bantamweight ruler, were ordered to sign within 15 days for title defenses on penalty of compulsory abdication.

To both Walker and Brown the commission telegraphed:

"You have not complied with the rules of this commission requiring champions to defend their title every six months. Unless you arrange within 15 days from date to enter into a contract to defend your title the same will be vacated."

Walker has not boxed in this state in years and now is campaigning among the heavyweights. Brown was supposed to have defended his title successfully in a 15 round both with Eugene Huat in Paris recently.

Commission Backs Sharkey.

Jack Sharkey, slightly perturbed at the turn of affairs, visited the commission with his manager and received detailed instructions on the duties of a second. He wanted the information to aid him in handling Ernie Schaaf in the latter's bout with Max Baer in the Garden tonight.

Sharkey has the backing of the commission, which insists Schmeling carry out the promise of a return match made last June, but lacks the support of promoters and critics. Sharkey has not fought since the Schmeling engagement and Young Stribling, Georgia pride, has stolen the spotlight.

Promoters insist a Schmeling-Sharkey bout would be doomed to financial failure unless the Boston battler first disposes of Stribling or Victorio Campo in an elimination series which the commission has refused to permit. Chicago promoters offered Schmeling $500,000 on Wednesday for a title match with Stribling at Soldiers' Field in June.

ROCKNE DENIES HE WILL GIVE UP COACHING FOR '31

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Coach Knute Rockne in a telephone conversation from Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., today denied the report that he is to give up coaching for a year, to rest.

"The rumor is absolutely unfounded," he said, "and is merely the product of the imagination of a fiction writing reporter. I have no intentions whatever of giving up coaching next season."

Mrs. Mickey Walker Wins Divorce from Champion

New York Just Isn't Suited to Schmeling Bout, It Seems

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The plot to remove the next heavyweight championship prize fight from New York to Chicago will be certain to arouse the hearty indignation of the New York prize fight commission and the hearty approval of the New York customers.

The commissioners, undoubtedly, have a right to their resentment. They conferred this championship, such as it is, on Max Schmeling by an official order for the benefit of the local merchants, hotel men and restaurant keepers and they stipulated that the winner should fight next again under the auspices of the Madison Square Garden corporation. They had no authority to enact this agreement from Schmeling and it probably is illegal on this account.

The Boys Are Solicitous.

Furthermore, the fact that they did exact it suggested an unseemly solicitude for a private corporation by a state board, as the stipulation, if observed by Schmeling, would be a source of considerable profit to the Garden firm. However, the commission seldom is guided by a fine regard for the limit set on their authority in the boxing law and, inasmuch as the legislature regards prize fighting as a harmless vice of the urban public, nobody has ever taken the trouble to arise at the sessions in Albany and challenge the conduct of the commission.

The championship itself, in the present case, is a Tammany political appointment and no more a competitive sporting honor than the collectorship of the Port of New York. The office of champion was vacant and the title was used as political pork.

The Schmeling-Sharkey fight was being arranged merely as a routine heavyweight prize fight, but recognizing an opportunity to perform a kindly service for an influential interest which was producing the show for charity, the commissioners were good enough to decree that the heavyweight title should be at stake.

Stimulates Box Office.

This generous order naturally stimulated the box office business, enhanced the success of the charity and, of course, placed the promoting interest under obligations to return the favor some time, somehow. Such things are not unfamiliar in politics and the benefit to charity outweighed and justified the little imposition on the strict ethics of statesmanship.

However, the prize fight came to an unhappy and unforeseen conclusion. For three rounds Herr Schmeling devoted himself to wearing Sharkey down with his chin and finally won on a foul. Incidentally there had been a rule whereby the fighter who fouled was to forfeit his pay in proportion to the number of rounds yet remaining to be fought, but it was discovered afterward that this deterrent had been waived, too, so that the customers alone were mulcted. But Herr Schmeling's negative victory reflected so little credit on himself, on the championship and on the commission which had conferred it that it was decided to defer action on the matter of inscribing his name on the shaft of the Muldoon-Tunney tombstone, a dubious honor, but the highest in the profession.

Comish Changes Mind.

In other words, the New York commission, having created a champion of whom it is slightly ashamed and whom it is reluctant to ratify, is now trying to compel him to defend the title in a reproduction of the most distressing fiasco in the history of the industry. The commission has ordered Schmeling to fight Jack Sharkey again and the customers, remembering their first bout, will be pleased to hear that Schmeling has other interests in Chicago.

There have been many fighters who could not prosper in New York, because they were not well known, but the three most prominent heavyweights of the present time, Schmeling, Sharkey, and William Stribling, are too well known for their own good, and it will be quite all right with the customers if they snub New York from now on. The local records of Sharkey and Stribling consist largely of tardy explanations and apologies, but there is no record that either of them, after a bad exhibition, accompanied his regrets with a refund of the customers' money.

Schmeling's record, up to the time of the Sharkey fight, was brief but

MOST VALUABLE PLAYER.

ANOTHER ballot has been received from a member of the committee of award for the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team during the season of 1930 with comment which seems worthy of publication. Here it is:

"My first choice for the most valuable player of the Big Ten players selected by their teammates as the most valuable to their respective teams is as follows:

"First—Bob Clark, center, Northwestern.

"Second—Jack Wheeler, half back, Michigan.

"I believe everything that could be said to these players' credit has been said. They were very fine and valuable players, no doubt about it. BUT, to my mind, the name of the most valuable player of the conference does not appear in this list. His name is Russell, Northwestern full back.

"Harvey, I saw Northwestern in three games this fall and I am sure this boy has not had his due credit. He did everything, was everywhere, the most powerful ball carrier in the conference and without a peer in backing up the line. I am sure a check would credit him with the greatest return punt yardage of all players.

"Notre Dame boys told me he was the most powerful player they had played against all season. Yet his teammates don't give him credit. I fear something other than ability entered into their judgment. Clark is worthy of their award. But the team could have gone places without Clark. Without Russell Northwestern was just a pretty fair ball club. With him they were conference champions."

PENN LOSES 2D GAME OF TOUR TO IRISH FIVE, 31-19

Notre Dame Piles Up Big Lead in First Half.

Notre Dame, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball team defeated the University of Pennsylvania, 31 to 19, here tonight before less than 2,000 persons.

It was the second defeat in two nights for the Quakers, who dropped one to Wisconsin last night at Madison.

Bill Newbold, rangy forward, and Bill De Cook, tall center, coöperated to bring about the Irish victory with a short pass combination of their own that caught the visitors napping. Newbold collected 13 points, while De Cook was getting 11.

Penn Lead Short Lived.

Penn took the lead for a few seconds at the beginning when Ullrich dropped a free throw on Newbold's foul. McNiff fouled Newbold as he was shooting a moment later, however, and Newbold made both tries good to put the Irish into the lead.

Notre Dame had run the score to 12 before Sander, Penn center, came through with the Quaker's first field goal. Notre Dame led at the half 15 to 7.

Prager scored three baskets in a row for Penn at the beginning of the second half, while Notre Dame was getting three points to make it 20 to 13. Tanser dropped a free throw midway in the second period and Ullrich concluded Penn's scoring with two field goals and a free toss.

Coach Keogan moved Norb Crowe from forward to guard and Johnnie Baldwin back to forward for tonight's game and this combination seemed to be more effective than the one which lost to Northwestern and Purdue.

ILLINOIS, 40; MIAMI, 17

Champaign, Ill., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The University of Illinois basketball team defeated the Miami university team here this afternoon, 40 to 17. The Miami five is coached by John Mauer, a former protégé of Coach Craig Ruby and one time Illini captain. The Orange and Blue experienced little trouble in winning, keeping the visitors shots at long range.

Capt. Bur Harper led his teammates with six field goals and one free throw for a total of 13 points. George Fencl, former Cicero star, made five baskets and a free throw for 11 points, before being withdrawn. Bennett, a sophombre, scored three baskets and a similar number of free throws.

The Miami attack was headed by Gerard and Bob Barrett, who made two baskets each from long distances. Niemi and Steinhauer scored the only other Miami field goals.

Illinois jumped into an early lead after the visitors had scored the first points of the game. At half time Illinois held a 25 to 9 lead, four of the visitors' baskets coming in this period.

Pantaleo Fights Neron to Draw; Leach, Retzlaff Stop Foes

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Nine charity bouts at the Coliseum last night were presented before a paid attendance of 3,648. The gross receipts were announced as $7,602.10. After the taxes, rental of the Coliseum and pay of the officials are deducted, one half of the remainder, estimated at $2,000, will be contributed to the unemployment campaign.

Garry Leach, who stopped Ted Ross in the final round of their eight round fight, and Charley Retzlaff of Duluth, Minn., who knocked out a Spanish heavyweight, Antonio Mata, in one minute and 24 seconds, took first honors among the 18 contestants. Baxter Calmes of Wichita, Kas., who easily defeated Tuffy O'Dowd in five rounds, also should be listed on the honor roll.

Pantaleo Held to Draw.

Perhaps the most interesting contest was the eight round battle between Paul Pantaleo, Chicago Italian, and George Neron, a Chicago Greek. To Pantaleo's surprise, the decision was a draw.

Neron resembles a reformed wrestler. His barrel chest, liberally tatooed, and his short, hairy arms appear better adapted for smothering an opponent than pounding him into submission. Although the Greek had a weight advantage of 25 pounds, it was offset by clumsiness and lack of punching power.

Neron was very serious, and repeatedly rushed, bull-like, at Pantaleo. Generally, Pantaleo stepped aside and jabbed to Neron's head, but on occasion, Neron connected with his ponderous overhand right, although with little effect. Pantaleo lost the decision because he was only too willing to wait for Neron. Had he carried the fight, he might have won handily.

Ross Unable to Finish.

Ted Ross could not finish the final round of the bout with Gary Leach. Leach opened a deep gash over Ross' left eye in the fourth round, and this again was opened in the eighth. Ross sank to his knees and the referee called a halt.

Leach was knocked down for a three count in the first round and again for eight seconds in the fifth. Ross was on the floor in the seventh for a second. Leach had the better of the exchanges except for infrequent rallies by the south side boy. It was a typical Ross fight, with Ted taking three punches to land one.

Bobby La Salle of Los Angeles won a six round bout with Benny Duke of Grand Rapids, Mich. The pair of welterweights fought at a seemingly impossible pace all the way, with the fifth round a continous exchange of blows. The decision was very close.

Stops Nick Taft.

Martin Levandowski, another Grand Rapids fighter, stopped Nick Taft in the fifth and final round. Taft collapsed before Martin's punches after being nearly out in the fourth session.

The other fights: Billy Gladstone defeated Al Reise in three rounds. Marion Matuzak and Brick Kannell of Eden, O., fought a three round draw. Paul Schiffler, Winnipeg, Can., defeated Harry Roberts in four rounds.

Schaaf Wins Decision When Baer Weakens

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf of Boston outpointed Max Baer, young Pacific coast heavyweight, in a ten round battle before 10,000 at Madison Square Garden tonight.

It was Baer's first appearance in New York, and although he lost the decision of both judges and the referee, he won the cheers of the crowd as he tried to break through Schaaf's short, sharp punches with a murderous right swing.

Baer Wilts at Finish.

Baer dominated the battle for the first four rounds, but wilted thereafter, and was a bloody, battered figure at the end of the duel.

The sturdier Schaaf took everything that came his way, buckled a couple of times, but pulled himself together and came on to punch out a clear margin in the final rounds. There were no knockouts, but in almost every session one or the other wavered and clutched under powerful belts to the head and ribs.

Although Baer headed out of California for New York with a record of 24 knockouts in 27 engagements, he could not cope with the better generalship of Schaaf, whose record includes decisions over Tommy Loughran and Johnny Risko. Max never could get away from Schaafs' left jab, a punch that started his nose bleeding in the second round, nor the short right hand drives Ernie pumped to his head in the second half of the battle.

Has Baer Near Knockout.

Several times, particularly in the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds, Baer reeled from Schaaf's punches and the exhaustion of his own efforts, but Schaaf jabbed him methodically, pounded his ribs in close, and took no chance with the powerful right hand Max carried close to his chest.

Catholic Prep Grid Stars Will Meet for Charity

The Notre Dame-Army football game appears to be several seasons back and with it the gridiron season, but the assembled high school football players of Chicago are still carrying on. An all-star team selected from the north section of the Catholic league will clash with a team from the south division tonight in a charity game against an eleven from the south division at the 124th Field Artillery armory, 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue.

The battle between the prep stars will begin about 8 o'clock. A game between the independent elevens, the Orioles of Pullman and the Ganos of Roseland, will precede it. Following the two football games will be a polo match, bringing together the 124th Field Artillery A and B teams. Tickets for the game will be on sale at A. G. Spalding & Bros., 211 South State street.

The game between the high school players, proceeds of which will be turned over to the Associated Catholic Charities, sponsored by Chicago Knights of Columbus councils, will bring together several rivals in the championship game for the Catholic title, which Loyola won. The champions, led by Harry Hofherr, Loyola's running star, will be matched against Lincoln Lenzi, ace of the St. Rita team, who were nosed out in the final by a single point.

Y., defeated Onofrio Lauri, New York, 125 to 101, tonight in their playoff match to decide third place in the world's pocket billiards championship tournament. Each won four games and lost three in the regular tournament. The match went 38 innings. Lauri had a high run of 57 and Taberski of 41.

CRAIG WOOD'S 69 LEADS PASADENA OPEN GOLF MEET

"The Haig" Threatens Leaders; Has 72.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Craig Wood, long driving professional from Bloomfield, N. J., today hammered golf's new and larger and lighter ball for 69, 2 strokes under par, to lead the first round of the Pasadena $4,000 open.

A quintet of the country's high ranking pros trailed in second place, 2 strokes behind, with 71s, with part of the 213 starters unable to finish because of darkness.

Tommy Armour, P. G. A.'s national champion, from Detroit, with a chance to tie Wood as he stepped up to the eighteenth tee, took 6 strokes for a par 71. Finishing with him were Ben Richter, St. Louis southpaw; Frank Walsh, Chicago; Al Espinosa, Chicago; and Joe Kirkwood, Philadelphia.

Wood Wastes No Time.

Wood was out 1 under par, shooting 35. A birdie 3 on the first hole and an eagle 3 on the sixth gave him a spectacular start. His 34 on the home nine was made possible by a birdie 2 on the thirteenth and a birdie 3 on the sixteenth.

To Kirkwood went the honors for the best nine hole score. Going out in 39 the former Australian came back in 32, 3 under par. Three birdies on the trip turned the trick.

Sir Walter Hagen, for years one of the leading professionals, appeared to have reached his stride today, finishing with 72, which placed him in a four way tie for third place. He missed a 1 foot putt on the eighteenth, with a chance to tie for second.

The others shooting 72 were Ray Mangrum, Dallas, Tex.; Clarence Clark, Tulsa, Okla.; and Ernest Martin, Los Angeles, Cal.

Horton Smith, New York, finished well down the list with 75. The former Missourian won the title last year 6 strokes ahead of the field.

79 Should Qualify.

While all were not able to tour the course before dark, making the surviving list uncertain, it looked like the first day qualifiers would include those who shot 79.

Two Los Angeles amateurs, Al Barbee and Chuck Berdow, tied for low amateur gross, with 73s. Scores:

FIELDS PUTS K. O. ON LAWLESS IN FIFTH ROUND

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 19.—(AP)—Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, knocked out Bucky Lawless, Syracuse, N. Y., in the fifth round of a sceduled ten round bout at Olympia arena tonight.

Fields, showing vast improvement over his appearance here last winter when he lost his crown to Young Jack Thompson, was the aggressor throughout and had Lawless holding on for the last four rounds. With the exception of the first round he was on top of his man all the way.

COUNCIL VOTES DOWN MOVE FOR HIS DISMISSAL

Leaves Retention to Board of Regents.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—Glenn Thistlethwaite will remain next year as coach of the University of Wisconsin football team as the result of a decision by the university athletic council after a four hour meeting this afternoon.

GLENN THISTLETHWAITE.

At the close of the meeting, George Little, director of Badger athletics, who also is secretary of the council, issued the following statement:

"The athletic council voted to make no recommendations to the board of regents looking toward the discontinuance of the services of Coach Thistlethwaite."

Admit Divided Vote.

Members of the council declined to discuss the matter when the meeting finally adjourned but admitted that there was a divided vote. It will undoubtedly be found later that the vote was 6 to 4 in favor of Coach Thistlethwaite.

The peculiar wording of the official statement led to some conjectures that the council might be attempting to pass the whole matter on to the board of regents, who have the final voice in all university affairs. If there was any such idea it was probably a mistake, one, as the regents rarely deviate from the practice of approving all recommendatione regarding faculty appointments.

Came in 1927.

Coach Thistlethwaite came to Madison in the autumn of 1927 after five years as head coach at Northwestern university. Prior to that time he had coached Oak Park High school, the same institution which sent Bob Zuppke to Illinois.

When Thistlethwaite came to Northwestern in 1922 the Purple's football fortunes were at a low ebb. Northwestern was looked upon a soft spot in the schedule for most of the other Big Ten teams. Thistlethwaite tied for the conference championship in 1925 and won it in 1926—the only football titles in Northwestern history until this year.

Little found that he could not handle the duties of his office and also coach the football team, and he hired Thistlethwaite to lead the Badgers out of the doldrums as he had the Purple.

Led to Last Day.

Wisconsin finished far down in the standing in 1927, but in Thistlethwaite's second year, 1928, the Badgers held the Big Ten lead until the last day of the season, when they lost to Minnesota, 6 to 0, and had to accept second place instead of the championship.

In 1929 injuries and inability to find a quarter back who could lead the team as Bo Cuisinier had done in 1928 sent Wisconsin once more to the bottom of the list.

The 1930 season was more successful, Thistlethwaite's team finishing in a tie for fourth with two victories and a tie in five Big Ten games. The team started the season with overwhelming victories over Pennsylvania and Chicago, which led some alumni and students to believe it was headed for the championship, but experienced observers contended at all times during the season that there were at least three more powerful squads in the conference—Northwestern, Michigan, and Purdue.

Fans Make Job Hard.

The desire of students, alumni, and Madison townspeople for a football championship, something the school has not held since 1912, has made the task at Wisconsin a trying one for at least the last three head coaches, Jack Ryan, Little, and Thistlethwaite. A couple of early season victories annually produces talk of a title, and the coach is blamed when the fans' hopes do not materialize.

Thistlethwaite's popularity with the players was evinced recently when ten sophomore members of the squad declared they would strike next year if Thistlethwaite were not retained. The coach immediately asked them to reconsider their action, preferring, he said, to "retain or lose the job solely on my record."

"Salaries" Item $10,000 in Pro Charity Contest

The official report of the Cardinals-Bears professional football game at the Stadium last Monday, received yesterday by Gov. Emmerson's unemployment commission, shows that $2,014.50 was turned over to the unemployment campaign. The total receipts were $16,012.50.

In the expenses are listed: Stadium rental, $3,500; ticket sellers and ushers, $404; officials, $55; other expenses, $109, and salaries of the two teams, $10,000. No taxes were levied on the game. It was announced before the game that the players would receive half pay.

PURDUE RETAINS BASEBALL, TRACK AS MAJOR SPORTS

Ross-Ade Foundation Comes to Rescue.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 19.—[Special.]—President Edward C. Elliott announced today that, through the cooperation of the Ross-Ade foundation, the athletic department of Purdue university will be able to carry out the principal part of the intercollegiate program for track and baseball in 1931. This will enable the Purdue track athletes to participate in the usual number of intercollegiate events. Because of schedule limitations, the number of conference baseball games may be reduced.

The announcement restores track and baseball to full standing as major sports and countermands the decision to drop the sports because of existing financial conditions.

Immediately upon receipt of the decision from the president's office, Director of Athletics N. A. Kellogg started work drafting a baseball schedule for next spring.

The Boilermakers already have arranged an attractive track schedule which includes a dual meet with Chicago, three triangular meets, the various relays, the Indiana state meet and the western conference indoor and outdoor track championships.

The track squad has been training under Coach Earl Martineau for the last three weeks and will be in condition for the indoor season.

The decision to restore track and baseball to full standing was greeted with enthusiasm by the student body and athletes.

N.Y. Just Isn't Suited to Title Bout, It Seems

favorable, but the patrons will be reluctant to patronize a champion who won his title sitting down from an opponent who was beating him savagely up to that time.

It's Chicago Men's Gain.

It will be unfortunate for the New York business men, whom the commission wished to assist if the next championship bout should be fought in Chicago, but their loss will be the Chicago business men's gain. Prize fight commissions nowadays are solicitous for their merchants and Mr. George Getz, of the Chicago commission, is eager to arrange a contest which will fill the hotels and restaurants.

This is a permissible and agreeable departure from the strict purpose of sport, but then such things are being done even in intercollegiate football.

Certainly, the customers of the Chicago region would be more generous to the fight, regardless of whether Stribling or Sharkey should be elected challenger, because Stribling, strangely, has endeared himself to that locality and Sharkey, never having fought there, would enter the ring without prejudice.

In the meantime, there will be intermittent clamor until April or May, imposing on the public imagination to impart importance to an event of no intrinsic consequence arrived at in such a manner as to nullify the sporting character of the word championship.

HAWKS TO PLAY LEAFS TONIGHT ON TORONTO ICE

TORONTO, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks meet the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Arena gardens tomorrow night. Although both teams will have regulars out of the game because of injuries the Blackhawks will be better off than their opponents because they carry a larger playing staff.

At full strength the early part of the season the Maple Leafs threatened to run away with the race in the Canadian division, but with two of their high scorers, Joe Primeau and Chuck Conacher, on the side lines with broken wrists, the Leafs are having difficulty in lining up two forward lines.

Andy Blair, Ace Bailey, and Hal Cotton will start as the regular front line, to be relieved by King Clancy at center, Harvey Jackson and Roger Jenkins, the latter a young left winger who has been loaned for the season to the crippled Toronto team by the Blackhawks.

The experiment of changing Clancy from defense to the forward center position will be watched with interest. The Blackhawks' achievement of preventing the high scoring Howie Morenz of the Canadiens from tallying in two games is the cause of widespread discussion, as the Montreal flyer has scored against every other team in the league.

A nasty shoulder bump and the extreme speed of the contest at Montreal last night caused the collapse of Vic Desjardines, and it is feared the scrappy Hawk will be absent from tonight's game.

Wolgast Takes 10 Round Verdict from Bill Davies

Notre Dame Whips Penn Cagers, 31-19

Don White's Washington Bears, 46 to 24.

There were no individual stars for Purdue, since Coach Lambert took advantage of the opportunity to look over practically his entire squad under fire in an effort to select his squad for the eastern invasion over New Year's.

Purdue played the entire first half without using any of the so-called regulars, and six of the seven men who played in the first half were sophomores. They earned a 19 to 12 lead at the half, which mounted to a 30 to 15 margin early in the second half when Lambert inserted the regular five, built around the co-captains, Harry Kellar and Johnny Wooden.

Charles Stewart, sophomore center, furnished most of the scoring thrills during the regulars' appearance, sinking five field goals. Stewart led Purdue's scoring with five field goals and one free throw for a total of 11 points.

Ted Saussele, Washington's star forward, was the only Bear player able to penetrate the Boilermakers' defense and took the high point honors of the evening with five field goals and two free throws.

SHIKAT TO HEAD MAT PROGRAM AT ARMORY DEC. 29

Richard Shikat, German heavyweight wrestler from Philadelphia, will headline the next mat show of Promoter Doc Krone at the Broadway armory on Dec. 29.

Dick will meet a leading opponent to be selected soon. He lost his title only a few months ago to Jim Londos.

Three men are being considered as Dick's foe. They are George Calza, Italian star; George Hagen of Brooklyn, and Ray Steele.

Shikat hopes to meet Londos in the near future. Dick defeated Jim last year in the final of a championship tournament staged by the Pennsylvania athletic commission. When Londos later was declared world champion by the National Boxing association, the Pennsylvania board ordered Shikat to meet Londos. The latter won.

The Old Ball Game Isn't What It Used to Be, Says Cobb at 44

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 19.—(AP)—From a perspective of 44 years, Ty Cobb looked back on baseball today and observed the game has grown less attractive.

Today was the 44th birthday of the Georgia Peach, who spent more than 20 years in major league baseball. He celebrated quietly at home with his family—a custom he has never varied since his marriage in 1908.

"To me the game seems to lack a sort of spontaniety now," he said. "The close plays, base running and other interesting features have been lessened by the orgy of home run hitting.

Needs More Competition.

"Back before the days of the lively ball the outfielders played nearer the infield and figured in some fast throws and hairline decision plays. The present game needs more competition, more close scores and harder fought games. The lively ball has served to eliminate some of these attractive points.

"Years ago I remember when crowded stands greeted a seventh place club late in September. They were out to see real baseball; with all the old tricks of the game. Nowadays only the leaders and the first division clubs play to full stands. The others have meager attendance."

Ty had no comment to make on the draft question recently discussed at the baseball meetings, but observed the elimination of the sacrifice fly would affect the game very little.

Content to Rest Now.

Cobb is content now to rest and play. He's getting pleasure aplenty out of romping around with his family. This is the first real extended vacation Ty has had in years and unless a "bargain opportunity" turns up he won't be back in baseball next season.

Cobb said his negotiations with the Philadelphia Nationals had been ended.

"I've been considering other propositions, but haven't found one yet that sounds good," he added.

"The selling prices of clubs are based on too high levels. I don't think it wise to buy at these prices.

Old Lure Still There.

Although Ty is out of baseball actually, the old lure is still there in interest. He'll either go to Florida when the spring training camp trek begins or he may decide to watch some club training in California.

"I'm in good shape," he said. "I've been hunting and golfing quite a bit lately and have had lots of luck at both."

ALABAMA GRID TEAM OFF FOR ROSE BOWL GAME

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Dec. 19.—(AP)—The Crimson Tide of Alabama rolled westward today bent on swamping the football champions of the Pacific coast in the annual Rose bowl contest.

The football squad, 35 strong, boarded a special train amid the cheers of several hundred persons gathered at the railroad station to wish them well in their coming battle against Washington State. There were no formal ceremonies at the station but there was plenty of enthusiastic back thumping and free advice.

The contest in Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's day will be the Crimson Tide's third Rose bowl engagement in six years.

Railroad officials said 215 persons were aboard the special. The official party numbered 81, including players, coaches, university officials and sports writers. The "rooting section" on the special train included all ages, from 5 year old prospective Tidesmen to old grads of 75 years.

Carleton Foe of N.U. Basket Team Tonight

Northwestern university's basketball team will seek its third straight victory of the season against Carleton college at Patten gymnasium tonight. The Wildcats stepped out to the fore by vanquishing Bradley and Notre Dame and are figured to upset the visiting collegians from Northfield, Minn., in tonight's engagement.

The Minnesota cagers come to Evanston with a string of 20 victories compiled in the Northwest conference. They are coached by Marshall Diebold, who won all conference honors as a member of the University of Wisconsin five several years ago.

Tall Carleton Center.

Carleton's center, Skip Crawford, is six feet six inches tall. He was high scorer in his conference a year ago, and in the games so far this season he has piled up a large number of field goals.

Coach Dutch Lonborg will use his new-found center, Joe Reiff, to halt the visiting giant from Carleton. Reiff, who is a sophomore, also is a scoring ace, having tossed in five baskets and two free throws the Bradley game, and ten baskets and six free throws in the clash with Notre Dame.

The Purple lineup will be the same that has started in the other two games. Capt. Bert Riel and Bob McCarnes will be at the forward assignments, Reiff at center, and Bob Lockhart and Frank Marshall at the guard posts.

Rest Awaits Wildcats.

Following tonight's combat the Wildcat forces will be given a week's rest. They will report next Friday to resume practice for the Alabama game New Year's eve. After the clash with the Crimson Tide cagers comes the return match with Notre Dame at Patten gymnasium Jan. 3.

GREEN RIVERS TIGHTEN HOLD ON PIN LEAD

The Green Rivers strengthened their hold on first place in the Randolph Bowling league last night when they defeated the second place Walter Birks three straight. The defeats shoved the Birks back into fourth place. The Green Rivers turned in high total for the night with games of 1,108, 1,043, and 1,033 for a 3,184 series.

The Bowlers' Journal moved into second place by winning three games from the Larson Spearmints, while the Kankakee Steamers took third position by beating the Commodore Barrys twice with second high series of 3,121.

Harry Steers of the Mineralites had high individual series with 791. Other 600 series follow:

Bjorne Petersen, 699; Billy Goldammer, 698; Billy Cooksey, 694; Erwin Wuerrfel, 685; Adolph Carlson, 682; Phil O'Keefe, 677.

The standing of the four top teams follows:

| | W. | L. | H.G. | Ave. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Green River | 30 | 12 | 1,128 | 1,008 |
| Bowler's Journal | 28 | 14 | 1,091 | 1,014 |

LOYOLA TO MEET WESTERN STATE CAGERS TONIGHT

Although the Loyola basket ball season got away to a good start Thursday night when Arkansas State was beaten 43 to 20, the result may be different tonight when Coach Sachs' quintet meets the strong five from Western Normal college of Kalamazoo. The teachers, undefeated last year, come here tonight with four men in the line-up whose work was outstanding a year ago.

Loyola's veterans of last year—Wasco, Schuman, and Butzen—showed their old time form in every department against Arkansas, while Cavanaugh, the sophomore guard, making his first appearance, gave promise of helping to make up for the loss of a scorer like Charlie Murphy. "Shorty" Wagner, likewise a sophomore, is expected to take care of the center position effectively.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 19.—(AP)—R. P. Watts' Essare, under Jimmy Smith's hustling hide, accounted for the six furlong feature race at Jefferson Park today on a muddy track.

It was Smith's second victory of the day. He rode Mardie to victory in the first race. Silver Cord, well played second choice, was second and Betty Beau third. The time of 1:15 was very good, considering the track's condition.

There was a five minute delay at the barrier, but when the field finally lined up they were sent away to a good start. Silver Cord was the quickest to get into stride and took an immediate lead. However, Essare, which got away good, was kept out in the firm going and moved into second place in the run up the back stretch. Smith rated him well to the final sixteenth, when he went to a drive and Essare, responding gamely to his urging, was up to win in the last stride by a narrow margin.

Silver Cord beat Betty Beau four lengths for the place. The winner paid $7.

GAME BIRDS NO SLOW POKES; AGREE ON THE

But Their Speed Brings Various Estimates.

BY BOB BECKER.

The question of the speed of game birds is one that always has interested the sportsmen. Many are the arguments which you'll hear regarding a mile a minute clip of a canvasback or the velocity of a scared teal. Number of tests have been made to determine the speed of birds, but the investigators do not agree on the results.

Recently an eastern ornithologist reviewed this subject. His deductions are interesting though he "cuts down" a lot of the birds, as judged by earlier statistics. However, one thing said about the flight of birds always is tempered with the statement that speeds vary according to the atmosphere, time of the year, etc.

What Ratings Show.

Here are the ratings given to game birds by the eastern ornithologist, which he calls the "probable maximum" and "probable average" in different species of birds:

The teal is considered able to fly 60 miles an hour, and reliable records of it flying 68 miles per hour have been put in the book. However, most observers have reported 130 miles per hour. This much is true—the teal will loaf along at less than 50 miles per hour and he can tear away at a terrific rate.

The mallard and the Canada goose are practically in the same class when it comes to flying up and down the highways. The goose migrates at about 45 to 47 miles per hour. The greenhead, when hard pressed, is considered able to step it up to 55 miles with 45 miles per hour a good average.

Canvasback Are Speeders.

Along with many waterfowl hunters, we always have rated the canvasback as a speed artist. We have seen him to hit them from a pass that as they come down wind, so we have some conception of their speed. Statistics bear out their reputation for fast wing work. According to the eastern ornithologist the "canvas" sometimes sail along at a 70 or 75 miles hour clip. When diving for food the canvasback often will attain a speed of 100 miles per hour or even more.

Both the pintail and the widgeon appear to be faster than the mallard with the ability to fly up 60 or 65 miles per hour. Redheads, scaups, and mergansers are faster than the mallard ducks. But for real speed, honors go to the duck hawk, that speedy member of the falcon family. More than 100 miles per hour is the speed which some of these birds have recorded when approaching their prey.

MOTHER JAILED AFTER QUARREL OVER DAUGHTERS

Mercy Pleas Fail to Move Judge.

Nobody would ever go to jail if judges were to listen to all the tearful stories told them, so Mrs. Helen Smith, 19 North Albany avenue, who takes in washing, must spend the next 24 days, including Christmas, in jail in lieu of $100 with which to pay a fine.

The actual reason, however, for her incarceration is that she assaulted Mrs. Ann Murphy, 1204 West Washington boulevard. The underlying reason is that Mrs. Smith's daughter, Helen, 14 years old, and Mrs. Murphy's daughter, Annette, 14, are chums.

All Present in Court.

All were present yesterday when Judge Frederick W. Elliott, in the Desplaines street court, ordered Mrs. Smith to jail to serve out a $100 fine and turned aside pleas for mercy with the observation that nobody would go to jail if judges were to listen to stories.

Last week Annette, enriched with $100 withdrawn from her Christmas savings account, invited her chum Helen, to go shopping. They went to the movies, too, and Annette remained away from home for three days. Mrs. Murphy, discovering her daughter was with the Smiths, called for her. Mrs. Smith, she charged, denied Annette was present, and beat her. She alleged further that her daughter had spent all her savings.

Mercy Pleas in Vain.

When Judge Elliott announced the fine Policewomen Molly Oliver and Mary Henneberry pleaded for clemency for Mrs. Smith. So did several court bailiffs and clerks. Judge Elliott denied their requests, and also denied a plea for probation. Mrs. Smith fainted and was revived, and a few minutes later followed Judge Elliott down the steps of the station house and begged for mercy for her mother. The judge turned aside and the girl fainted again.

Policewoman Oliver promised to take Helen home with her for the holidays.

FIGHTS PLAN FOR SANITARIUM AT LAKE GENEVA

Joseph F. Ryan, Elgin promoter and owner of property at Lake Geneva, yesterday appealed to the attorney general of Wisconsin for aid in preventing the establishment of a sanitarium on the ten acre tract at Lake Geneva formerly belonging to J. Paul Gluyon of Chicago.

The property recently was sold to Dr. J. D. Worrick, formerly of the staff of the Elgin State hospital for the insane, for a reported $50,000. Dr. Worrick is now director of the Lake Woods sanitarium at Lake Geneva, which he plans to move to the newly acquired property, which has 300 feet of frontage on the south shore of Lake Geneva.

Ryan charges that the institution, which is to be known as the Lake Geneva Rest Cure, will cause depreciation in property values and has said last night that he would call other property owners to a protest meeting immediately after the holidays.

To the west of the property are the estates of the Lake Geneva country club; of A. G. Cox of the Wrigley company, and Harley Clark, Fox River executive. To the east are estates of the Lake Geneva

START A BUREAU ON RACKETEERING AMONG ALIENS

New York Police Will Aid Deportation.

New York, Dec. 19.—[Special.]—A new bureau to round up and investigate all aliens with criminal records, to establish possible grounds for deportation, was established by Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney today. The bureau will begin to function at once as part of the detective division.

Commissioner Mulrooney predicted that other cities will follow New York's example and establish similar bureaus. The move, it was indicated, is a part of the national drive against racketeering. The coöperation of federal authorities in Washington, so that funds and facilities may be provided to banish alien criminals from the United States, is looked for.

Each year the New York police arrest about 1,200 aliens. Until today there was no special police detail to look into the records of these men so far as immigration laws are concerned.

The task of the new bureau will be to learn the name, address, date of arrival and port of entry of each of these men.

Another angle to the drive on racketeering was provided by District Attorney T. C. T. Crain, who began an investigation today into the affairs of two veteran firemen's organizations.

Meanwhile a new indictment charging former Magistrate George F. Ewald and his wife, Mrs. Bertha E. Ewald, with paying money to obtain Ewald his position as magistrate was handed up by the extraordinary grand jury.

They are charged with offering $2,000 to Dr. Francis M. Schirp, and in a second indictment Dr. Schirp is accused of accepting the money in payment for using his influence, as an officer of the Steuben society, in obtaining Ewald's appointment.

Schirp and Ewald are also under a federal indictment charging mail fraud in the Cotter Butte mines case.

MRS. PEARSONS IS EJECTED FROM EVANSTON HOME

Mrs. Elizabeth Pearsons, estranged wife of Harry P. Pearsons, former mayor of Evanston, was evicted from her home at 2752 Garrison avenue, Evanston, yesterday on a writ obtained by the Chicago Title and Trust company. The marital difficulties of Pearsons and his wife, whom, he said, he married only as a business proposition, have been in divorce court recently.

The writ was obtained on Dec. 15. Mrs. Pearsons explained to a reporter last night that she had not been served before because she was too ill to go to the door. The writ was served by a deputy sheriff at 11 o'clock in the morning, and four hours later a moving van backed up to the home and carted away Mrs. Pearson's household goods.

Mrs. Pearsons said she would stay with friends until she finds another home. Three children by a former marriage, the eldest of whom is 18, have been living with their mother.

A few months ago Mrs. Pearsons sued for separate maintenance. According to her bill, the house is owned by her husband. At a court hearing she testified that Pearsons was trying to have her put out on the street by foreclosure.

PROTECTIVE GROUP FORMED FOR HOLDERS OF H. O. STONE ISSUE

Organization of a protective committee for the holders of the H. O. Stone & Co. debentures was announced last night. Howard W. Elmore, real estate man and former president of the sanitary district, is chairman of the group. Other members are Harry Olson, former chief justice of the Municipal court; John M. Dillavou, secretary of the Brewerton Coal corporation; Dr. Francis M. Hartsook, Danville, Ill., and H. A. McClure, who will act as secretary of the committee.

Jacobson, Merrick, Nierman, and Silbert are acting as counsel for the committee. Holders of the debentures are being asked to deposit their holdings with the Southwest Trust and Savings bank.

The Chicago Title and Trust company was appointed receiver for several of the Stone enterprises on Dec. 12 by the federal district. The action followed a complaint filed with the court early in November charging among other things mismanagement and failure to provide a sinking fund for the debentures.

The properties for which the trust company was named receiver included the Stone Securities company, H. O. Stone Management company, H. O. Stone Subdividers, and H. O. Stone Investment Trust. The action was brought by sixteen holders of beneficial interest of the latter concern.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET HOLDS RECENT ADVANCE

Auto Accessory Shares Show Greatest Activity.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The briskness which marked the trading Tuesday and Wednesday on the Chicago exchange was absent yesterday, but the market was able to hold the ground previously won and make new advances in some sections.

Again speculative interest was centered in the automotive and accessory group. Irregular price movements featured the early trading, and in the early afternoon the market lapsed into dullness, later rallying to make a strong close.

The immediate effect of the action of Foot Gear directors in omitting dividends on the preferred and common stocks was unfavorable marketwise. The common shares slipped off to a new bottom quotation, then recovered to finish at 3, slightly above the previous price. Turnover in the issue was comparatively light.

Borg-Warner Improves.

Borg-Warner was in good demand, rising to 19 on a volume of sales amounting to over 7,000 shares. Bendix turned over in like volume and was moderately improved. The report of the National Standard company, issued Wednesday, was considered favorable, but furnished no surprise, and consequently had little effect on the company's stock, which was steady around the previous closing price.

Speculators who had anticipated some reaction yesterday because of the sharpness and vigor of the preceding advance were willing to admit as the day wore on that the market showed a good tone throughout the session. There was no evidence of important liquidation on the minor recessions during the day. On the other hand the followup buying which usually comes forward after a bull demonstration was a factor in helping the market to sustain itself.

Debentures Active.

As volume leaders the Insull stocks stayed well out in front, but furnished nothing in way of exceptional price changes. Middle West fluctuated between 16⅝ and 17¾, closing at the latter figure for a net gain of a fraction. After dipping below 30 Insull Utility turned about and closed above Wednesday's final sale price.

The active market in Insull debentures continued yesterday and the issue was marked up to 82½. Buyers forced a price recession of 1½ in Commonwealth Edison A 5s in fairly active dealings. The only other bond issue traded in was Chicago Railway first mortgage 5s, which finished unchanged from the previous quotation of 66.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter advanced ½@1½c early but the undertone was easier later. Fresh eggs brought former prices. Live turkeys advanced 1@2c, with spring chickens, and old roosters ½c higher. Geese were off ½@1c. Receipts by freight cars. Potatoes in slow demand and market easier. Receipts 117 cars with 242 cars on team track.

SHORTS COVER LARD

December lard was bought by shorts yesterday and prices advanced 30c, with the close at $10.27½. Shorts were speculative holders and packers. December longs are taking delivery of the cash lard and withdrawing it. They also sold the January and May to a fair extent, which was easy to be long lard. These months moved up 10@15c. Lard futures in Liverpool were unchanged to 6d higher. Export clearances were 1,099,000 pounds and hog receipts were larger than a week ago but smaller than one and two years ago, with prices fairly strong. Cash trade was moderate. Prices follow:

BELIEF SPREADS THAT SLUMP IS NEARING AN END

Foreman Bank Sees Better Outlook.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Each day and week sees the belief spreading that depression is nearing its end. And in this year-end period, financiers, manufacturers, and merchants are more concerned in estimating the possibilities of the future than in current conditions.

"We are reasonably sure that the devastating storms which swept through values late in 1929 and in the middle of 1930 are not to be experienced again during this cycle," the Foreman-State National bank, Chicago, says in its monthly publication. "As soon as business comes to realize that it is the wreckage and not the storm which is our principal problem at the present time, there will be more courage and more enthusiasm for the job ahead.

"The economic world is witnessing some of the most constructive efforts ever made to stabilize production and prices of the major raw materials of world trade. Month by month it becomes clearer that business recovery waits on the stabilization and equalization of prices. Firmness and confidence in prices are all that good business requires; rising prices are not necessary."

Irving Trust's Viewpoint.

The Irving Trust company, New York, also suggests that the turn must be imminent.

"Liquidation has proceeded very far and business is at probably the lowest ebb, relatively speaking, that we have had in many decades," it says. "The suction of the outgoing tide has lessened, however, and by all available measurements and by the criterion of a host of statistical data, the turn must be near. By the stern discipline of necessity, too, leadership has become better informed as to the fundamental principles that underlie successful management."

Holiday trade at present is the mainstay of business, according to the weekly mercantile reviews. Otherwise, the usual year-end lull is being experienced.

"In retail trade, holiday buying, aided by a return of cold weather, was responsible for adding to the turnover, with the result that an increased number of markets report a total volume of buying equal to a year ago, whereas the value of the trade is generally conceded to be well below a year ago," Bradstreet's review says. "There is added in many reports that cheaper lines of goods have tended to sell better than the more expensive sorts and the relatively greater activity in these contrasts with slower buying of luxury lines of novelties."

Notes Irregularity.

Considerable irregularity is noted in Dun's review, which finds that "holiday distribution, although active in some cases, reveals the curbing effect of the diminishing public purchasing power caused by the unusual circumstances of economic readjustment."

"The increasing attention being given to forward requirements in the steel trade," it adds, "is a promise of better conditions to come and tends in some measure to modify the unsatisfactory reports from other quarters."

The building construction industry also is spotty. Contracts for all types of construction awarded between Dec. 1 and Dec. 12 in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains totaled $102,015,-000, a daily rate of $9,274,200, compared with a daily rate of $11,024,900 in November and $12,654,700 in December, 1929, according to the F. W. Dodge corporation. Contracts thus far this year have totaled $4,377,614,500, compared with $5,610,200,000 in the corresponding period in 1929. On the other hand, engineering construction contracts last week totaled $55,483,-000, compared with $47,222,000 in the previous week and $48,841,000 in the corresponding week last year.

Mail Order Price Cuts.

Further reduction in merchandise prices were announced yesterday by Sears, Roebuck & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern, coincident with distribution of the winter sales catalog. Prices quoted for January and February show reductions ranging from 5 to 40 per cent compared with a year ago.

"Lowered basic commodity prices should mean lowered prices to the consuming public," President R. E. Wood said. "We have reduced prices so as to give the dollar the greatest buying power possible. We believe this is an obligation on a company such as ours, and we feel we have met that obligation."

Wheat Prices Are Lurking Near 75 Year Low Levels

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All records for low wheat prices in the last 75 years are in danger of being broken as the result of the persistent decline in the leading world markets, which has been under way for nearly two years.

The incomplete records available suggest that wheat in Liverpool is already selling at the lowest figure since 1895, when the average weekly price of British parcels was 60c per bu, or only 2½c below yesterday's closing figure for the December future in Liverpool. In 1895 the low weekly average price for British grain is given as around 53c, and with the exception of the 1894-'95 period prevailing figures are the lowest since 1855, which is as far as the available records extend.

December wheat at Winnipeg touched 51¾c yesterday, off 2½c from the previous close, and only ¼c above the record low made on the Chicago Board of Trade on Oct. 17, 1894. In January, 1895, cash wheat in Chicago sold down to 48¾c, the lowest price known for either cash or futures.

July Wheat at New Low.

Despite the abnormally low figures prevailing in all leading countries, July wheat at Chicago was 67⅛@ at the inside figure yesterday, or 1½c under Thursday's finish. It sold at the lowest since 1901, the artificial level of the old crop deliveries being a factor in holding the new crop delivery at a premium of nearly 10c above the same month in Winnipeg. A break of 1⅞@2¼d in Liverpool, due to selling by Argentine speculators, was generally given as the cause of the early break in North American wheat markets.

Despite all the bearish influences and the extremely pessimistic feeling here and abroad speculative support developed in the wheat market. A sharp rally followed the early decline in North America, the July future here being rushed up to 69c on commission house buying and short covering. The close, however, was on a recession, with a net loss of ⅞c for the day, final sale being at 68⅛@ 68¼c. Winnipeg also rallied, and was off ⅛@⅝c for the day, while Buenos Aires was 1½c lower, with the February quoted at 53⅞c.

Old Wheat Trading Slow.

The trade is paying little attention to the old crop deliveries of wheat. Prices held within a range of ⅛@¼c, closing ¼c lower to ¼c higher, with December at 76⅞c, March 79⅜c, and May 81@81⅛c. Houses that usually act for the Stabilization corporation were taking the May at 81c for old and 81⅛c for the new and preventing the price from dropping with other markets.

There was talk during the day of marked revival in the foreign demand for Canadian wheats. While the seaboard estimated 400,000 to 500,000 bu sold, it was intimated that the actual business materially exceeded these figures. Movement of the new southern hemisphere wheat is rapidly getting under way, both Argentina and Australia clearing fairly liberal quantities.

Southwestern millers are understood to have made a proposal to the Stabilization corporation that the latter sell mills cash wheat at the world price level and permit them to grind the wheat into flour for export, but nothing definite as to the outcome of proposal is known.

Corn in Strong Rally.

May corn sold off 1¾c yesterday to 72c, equaling the inside figure of the season in sympathy with wheat and the depression in prices in other countries. Buying by locals later disclosed an oversold condition, and the early loss was more than regained later. Final trades were unchanged to ⅜c higher, with old December at 67¾c, March 71⅛@71⅜c, May 72¼@73⅜c and July 74⅞@75c.

While the eastern shipping demand for cash corn continues to be reported as slow, some handlers said they saw evidence of a better inquiry. It is said that No. 3 yellow corn in New England could have been bought at one time yesterday at about 3c under the price of No. 2 mixed durum wheat, which has been used extensively as feed in that section, according to recent reports. December corn at one time during the day was around 10c under December wheat. This is expected to have considerable bearing on the amount of wheat that will be fed this season, the general comment being that farmers will use corn instead of wheat at this price difference.

Cash Oats in Demand.

Buying of May oats by a broker representing the Farmers' National Grain corporation to remove hedges against a sale of cash grain by a customer of that cooperative gave that market independent strength, and it closed ⅜@⅝c higher, with December 32½c and May 34⅝@34½c. It is understood that there was a good cash business put through with New England for deferred shipment, presumably from Ohio points, on Thursday.

Rye was dull early, but became active toward the last, and advanced 2@3c from the early low. It closed ⅛@1⅞c higher, with December 46⅜c, March 46¼c, and May 46⅝@46⅜c. Buying of rye against sales of corn by spreaders had some effect, and there was also evening up for the government report on acreage and condition of the new crop due after the close.

PRODUCTION OF COPPER IS NOW LOWEST IN TWO YEARS

QUOTE SILVER PRICE UP ⅜C AT 31⅝C PER OUNCE IN N. Y. MART

New York, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Silver, which much of the world's population still uses as the basis of its currency, was quoted ⅜ of a cent higher in the New York market today after reaching another of a long series of historic new lows Thursday.

The price was 31⅝c an ounce, compared with 31¼c on the previous day. The drop in the price of silver has been reflected in far eastern currencies and also the Mexican silver peso, which reached a new low for the year Thursday.

Dow, Jones & Co. says it understands the National City bank has offered the Mexican government a credit variously estimated from $5,000,000 up to help bolster the silver currency, but agreement has not yet been reached as to the terms.

Commenting on the situation that has developed as a result of the sharply depreciated value of silver, the Irving Trust company says in its monthly review of business "that it seems safe to infer that the silver catastrophe has been a major factor in the unrest in India and the economic crisis in China. If so, the full effects of the situation have not been witnessed."

Punctuated by occasional rallies, the price of silver has declined since 1926 from 65c an ounce to less than half that figure at the present time. Among the major factors contributing to this decline, economists point to the action of the Indian government in adopting a gold bullion standard in place of the previous silver standard.

PESO RISES SHARPLY

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 19.—(AP)—The value of the silver peso increased sharply today following upon the publication of reports that New York banking circles were arranging a loan to Mexico for the purpose of stabilizing exchange. The silver peso opened 14 per cent below the value of the gold peso but was quoted this afternoon at only 9 per cent below. According to reports here the loan will be $25,000,000.

Land Utilization Is Seen Farmers' Major Problem

BY SCRUTATOR.

The farmers problem is, as it has been for a good many years, one primarily of land utilization. We have seen land values slip down until they are close to a 1913 level, and considerably below that if the relative purchasing power of money is considered. Distress has been caused by this perhaps more than any other direct factor.

It is of high importance to the owners of farm lands to know what their property may be worth in the future. Land price swings are long and the present indications may be upset by unpredictable changes. However, studies showing possible trends and having back of them a good deal of scholarship can be quoted to justify a belief that some of our American farm lands are destined to be relatively more valuable in time.

Present Land Information.

L. C. Gray and O. E. Baker, economists for the department of agriculture, are the authors of a condensed pamphlet that brings to bear a vast amount of statistical information on present land use and on trends influencing it.

Although they do not make the conclusion in so many words, it is apparent from their work that certain types of farm lands are going to be abandoned in future more rapidly than they have in the past and that certain other types will increase in acreage, and possibly in price.

A generalization, which has exceptions, of course, but is not without value, is that farmers are going to leave lands that give a low money income and move into cities or on to lands where money income is higher from farming. The American farmer is, rightfully, dissatisfied with a business that would force him to live largely by consuming his own products.

High yields in dollars per acre will be an important criterion of the future. Aside from this high yield production, an expansion that already has taken place may continue in the use of semi-arid lands where production costs can be kept low by the use of machinery. The agricultural economists point out:

Population Regrouping.

"An extensive regrouping of farm population is taking place with reference to obtaining locations where money income can be obtained and where the family can enjoy the advantages of good roads and other facilities."

This regrouping, it may be assumed, will mean the continued abandonment of acres of cutover lands, of rough and hilly and thin soils, where small return can be had for labor and where it is not practicable to use much machinery. In the study mentioned it is shown that a group of southern hill farmers were getting in cash only an average of $147 a year, while those in better sections got as high as $935 each. A decrease in crop acreage of considerable proportions was noted in the Ozark and Appalachian mountain regions in the 1925 census, and will probably be noted again when the 1930 figures are compiled.

Has Best Prospects.

The high cost of irrigating lands would not seem to justify much investment in them. In summary, land of the highest type, located favorably with regard to markets and transportation, has excellent prospects of increment. The cutover timberlands and the less desirable acres in regions where surrender for tax bills is already prevalent present a picture of little hope for comeback. There isn't much hope that foreign products can be kept out sufficiently to bring a need for any acreage expansion soon—only fifteen million acres could be used in such cropping, while the land now being cropped is 349 millions, approximately.

LOOKING AHEAD WITH BUSINESS

A good volume of buying in the export copper market and fair buying in the domestic market were reported in the copper trade yesterday. Foreign sales amounted to 5,250,000 pounds and was said to be in excess of the custom intake. Producers are remaining out of the market and quotations remained unchanged at 10 cents a pound for domestic copper and 10.30 cents a pound in the export market.

The fifty locomotive order of the New York Central has been distributed between American Locomotive and Lima Locomotive. The former will build forty of the Hudson type engines. The entire project involves $5,000,000.

The New York Stock exchange will distribute to employés a bonus of 2½ per cent of annual salaries.

Employés of the J. Henry Schroeder Banking corporation will receive this year the usual Christmas bonus based upon period of service, it was announced.

William Sparks, president of the Sparks Withington company, in a letter to stockholders accompanying dividend checks, said the company is at present turning out the largest number of radio units a day that it "ever has in its experience."

H. A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, said that earnings for the year will equal about 2 per cent on the adjustment bonds. Traffic so far this month is not showing as great a decline as reported for preceding months, he said, but added that this cannot be interpreted to mean that business "has turned the corner because December, 1929, was a poor month." Mr. Scandrett said the road will be in the market for rails next year, but has not decided on the amount.

Reports in iron and steel trade circles said that merchant pig iron sellers in the Chicago district have sold about 50 per cent of their output for the first quarter of next year, four of the six merchant stacks in the district are operating, with output at 63 per cent of capacity. Mills schedules in the Shenango valley, Pennsylvania, held about unchanged during the last week.

The National Cash Register company estimates that its earnings for the fourth quarter will be approximately $1,500,000.

The Foreman-State National bank, the Foreman-State Trust and Savings bank, and the Foreman-State corporation will present employés with cash Christmas gifts based on length of service.

The Jewel Tea company will distribute the largest bonus it has ever paid to its employés this year. Checks are now being distributed among general office workers as well as the plant force in Barrington and certain field men who do not participate in the regular production bonus.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain prices are so low that about speculators hesitate about selling short, which makes trading light. Another feature that creates conservatism is the continued support given old crop May by farm board agencies. The pit had it yesterday that a large quantity of old May wheat was sold for the farm board agencies. This was denied late in the afternoon by a man in a position to know what was done, and he said that they sold no wheat during the day. As to the report that oat traders had of the Farmers' National buying, confirmation was had that it was taking off hedges against cash sales by a customer.

Seven seats on the Chicago Board of Trade have changed hands in the last week for prices ranging from $7,500 each. The last price is the lowest recorded for a membership in recent years. Two seats were sold on Dec. 13, one for $8,500, the other for $8,000; one on Dec. 15 for $8,000 and three on Dec. 16 for the same price. The $7,500 sale occurred on Dec. 17.

It is said that there is a liberal sized short interest in July wheat and that Winnipeg traders are going slower on the selling side.

BANK OF U. S. MAY REOPEN UNDER A NEW NAME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The possibility of a reorganization of the closed Bank of the United States under a new name, with himself as chairman of the board and with none of the old officers participating, was being considered today by Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state in President Wilson's cabinet. Mr. Colby, however, denied he had agreed to accept the position and said that he had simply been asked to look into it by a group of depositors.

The proposal was made by a depositors committee. Mr. Colby conferred on the proposal with Superintendent of Banks Joseph A. Broderick but no definite decision was reached.

"The committee put it to me," Mr. Colby explained, "that, perhaps because of my detachment or perhaps of some confidence which they thought I could inspire in the depositors, that I might be able to assist where others more directly concerned might fail. They assured me that they considered the bank acceptable of rescue and asked me to investigate.

"It was impossible for me to decline to help them after they had made that kind of request."

STANDARD BANK OPENS TODAY IN NEW QUARTERS

The Standard National bank will formally open its new $200,000 building at Ashland avenue and 79th street today. During the construction the bank has been occupying temporary quarters adjacent to the new building.

The bank was organized in 1929 and was the first to take advantage of the amendment to the national banking laws allowing the issuance of stock of less than $100 par value. The institution has a capital of $350,000. Hartley C. Laycock is president of the bank.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 19.—The stock market continued to show improvement today. Gains were not nearly so pronounced or so generously distributed as those of Thursday and the day before, but they extended to every department of the list, with the lone exception of the coppers.

Railroad issues were particularly strong and this, from the viewpoint of qualified observers, was the most encouraging feature of the trading. The upswings here ranged from a fraction to more than 10 points and embraced almost the entire group. New York Central and Atchison, leaders of the section, were in a buoyant mood, the first named soaring for 4¾ points and Atchison bettering its position by more than 3 points.

Norfolk and Western and Central Railroad of New Jersey were even more spectacular on small turnovers. Norfolk had a gain of 9¾ points to its credit at the close of business, while Central was 10½ points higher. Baltimore and Ohio, Texas Pacific, and Union Pacific were other headliners which advanced from 5 to 7 points.

Expect Eastern Merger.

Buying of the carrier shares evidently had for its basis the popular expectation that an official announcement of the eastern merger plans will be forthcoming shortly—probably early next week.

All the recognized pivotals of the list gave a good account of themselves in spite of the heavy drain of profit taking with which they had to contend, particularly in the early dealings. United States Steel common opened at 138⅝, off ⅜, but later came back to sell around 140, and then after another setback pushed up to 141½. Here it found the tide of realization too strong once more and eased back to 140⅝, which left it with a net gain of 1½ on the day.

American Can, Westinghouse, American Telephone and Telegraph, Standard Oil of New Jersey and other leaders were up a point or so at the end.

Some Specialties Tone Down.

Some of the more sprightly specialties which have been leaving sparks for the last day or two found the going a bit more difficult today. Auburn Auto, the star of them all, emerged with a decline of more than 2 points instead of the spectacular gains with which it has been edifying the elect. Worthington Pump did a little better and so did Coca Cola, but neither of them came in for any special attention.

Electric Auto-Lite featured the motor equipment group with a net advance of more than 2 points. General Motors and some of the other auto shares moved up modestly.

The oils lagged in the forenoon but picked up in the late trading.

Amusement stocks enjoyed a moderate recovery. Loews closed at 47¾c, up 1½, and Fox Film A finished at 29, up ⅝. Warner Brothers advanced nearly 2 points on occasional flurries of buying.

Volume Is 2,270,350.

Trading was conducted on a much smaller scale today, transactions totaling 2,270,350 shares. Indications were that the short interest had been fairly well eliminated. It is doubtful if the constructive factions in the market will attempt to push prices ahead too fast at this time for fear that in doing so they will be unable to attract any sort of following.

Traders seem willing to play the long side, but they going about it very carefully. They want to be sure that the character of the buying is of the right sort before investing too far.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 500 cattle, 11,000 hogs, and 4,000 sheep.

Activity featured the hog market at strong to 15c higher prices yesterday. The broadest shipping demand of the season for Friday resulted in a "clean up" at the advance in prices, in spite of bearish local packers. Only pen holders remained at the close with some orders unfilled due to the shortage.

Outsiders bought 11,000 head, nearly 50 per cent of the total fresh receipts. The extreme top moved up 5c at $8.15, highest since last Monday, while the general average gained 10c at $7.80. While light weights are 5@10c above the close of last week, heavy hogs show 5@10c loss, the general average for the day being exactly the same as last Saturday's average.

March Hogs Bring $8.35.

Contracts for hogs for March and January delivery were sold at $8.35 on the futures market yesterday. February light were bid $8.00, while heavy for that month were offered at $8.00. Mediums for February were offered at $8.20. March heavy carried bids of $7.50 and were offered at $8.30. January offers of heavy grades were down to $7.75, with bids at $7.50

Cattle lost part of the gain scored on recent sessions when the attitude of local buyers changed abruptly to bearish. The meager supply of 2,700 on yesterday's market had to be peddled out on a "catch as catch can" trade, some medium grades dropping back to the low spot of last Monday. Most good grades are still 50@75c above the opening this week.

Best Lambs in Demand.

Well finished lambs were scarce and in good demand at steady prices yesterday, while the over supply of extreme weights and unfinished stock moved slowly at weaker price levels. Top to all interests reached $8.35 at the close, the bulk of 80@90 lb. averages going at $8@8.25. Extreme weights of ewe and wether lambs and most buck lambs sold around the $7.00 line. Aged sheep were steady. Yearlings ruled weak to 25c lower. Feeding lambs were firm.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for Monday are estimated at from 36,000 to 40,000. W. T. Reneker marked 36,000; J. M. Waters, 43,000; W. C. White and F. Knutzen, 45,000; E. S. Waterbury, 47,000; R. B. Ellis and J. T. Brown, 48,000; J. T. Agar, F. M. Sherwood, H. S. Turner, C. Southwick, G. W. Chandler and A. G. Welhener, 50,000; H. Pattison, 51,000; W. Garrett and C. ## Winter Wheat Acreage Cut Less than 1 Per Cent

A cut in the winter wheat acreage of 1,000,000 acres from the 1929 figures previously announced by the United States department of agriculture makes the estimated intended acreage for the 1931 crop 98.9 per cent, or less than 1 per cent from 1929. The acreage seeded for the crop of 1931 of 42,042,000 acres is 471,000 acres less than last year, and 678,000 acres smaller than in 1928.

Acreage harvested this year was 38,408,000 acres. The condition of 86.3 is the highest in recent years and 3.1 per cent above the ten year average. Private statisticians estimate that on the basis of the average yield per acre the present acreage and condition would suggest a yield of 550,000,000 bu. The harvest this year was 404,600,000 bu, against 576,000,000 bu last year.

Traders who look at the rye acreage with its increase of 162,000 acres are surprised, as a heavy reduction had been expected. The increase is largely in the south and was put in for late fall and winter pasturage, and means nothing as regards a commercial crop. The acreage in the commercial rye sections is said to be smaller than last year. Comparative details follow:

| 1928 | 90.3 | 42,720,000 | 84.4 |
| 1929 | 89.6 | 42,513,000 | 86.0 |
| 1930 | 98.9 | 42,042,000 | 86.3 |
| Rye (for grain) | | | |
| 1928 | 85.8 | 3,379,000 | 84.4 |
| 1929 | 111.7 | 3,990,000 | 87.9 |

WHEAT CROP BY STATES

A soft winter wheat crop of 159,000,000 bu is suggested by the final report of the department of agriculture, or 12,000,000 bu more than last year. In the four southwestern states the aggregate was 291,000,000 bu, of which Kansas has 158,000,000 bu, or 20,000,000 bu more than last year. Nebraska with 70,000,000 bu raised 16,000,000 bu more than a year ago. Last year the four southwestern states had 274,000,000 bu.

North Dakota, the largest spring wheat state, has 64,000,000 bu, as compared with 59,668,000 bu last year. The four northwestern states have 130,000,000 bu, compared with 122,760,000 bu a year ago.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Decidedly conflicting reports were received yesterday as to the amount of export business passing in Manitoba wheats. According to Winnipeg men who should be in a position to know there was a liberal amount of grain sold abroad and the seaboard reported 400,000 to 500,000 bu placed abroad. However, other messages claimed no sales at the seaboard and only 200,000 bu at Winnipeg.

Local handlers sold 33,000 bu wheat, 50,000 bu corn, and 72,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 125,000 bu wheat and 20,000 bu corn to go to store. Deliveries on December contracts aggregated 64,000 bu wheat and 168,000 bu corn.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Friday: Wheat, 26 cars; corn, 164 cars; oats, 21 cars; rye, 4 cars; barley, 9 cars.
